FIUME BLOCKADE ORDERED BY ITALY; FOOD IS SHUT OFF

Troops Deserting d'Annunzio, Who Has Decreed New Deportations of Croats.

STARVING CITY IN DESPAIR

Former Annexationists Want Internationalizing with British or American Garrison.

ADRIATIC PARLEYS REOPEN

Nitti and Trumbitch, Jugoslav Foreign Minister, Are Conferring in London.

FIUME, Feb. 28 (Associated Press).—A siege of Fiume has begun with a stringent blockade against commodities, including foodstuffs.

"Perhaps we may appear to be lenient toward those occupying Fiume," said General Caviglia of the Government forces today, "but it is not so. We shall exercise an iron blockade against the forces of Gabriele d'Annunzio. I am not offering them the slightest atom, but the children must be cared for. That is why I allowed 200 children to come out of Fiume and proceed to Milan."

The correspondent has gleaned opinions of all sorts in Fiume. Those of the citizens with whom he has talked seemed unanimous that the situation was critical, and that the city was in the deepest of despair, financially and commercially.

"We are starving," said a prominent banker who previously had been a strong supporter of Italian annexation. "We are unable to go further. We now are ready for an international city. We want our port reopened to commerce. We want the city occupied either by an American or a British garrison. Our present state is impossible."

Gabriele d'Annunzio has ordered another deportation of Croats and other foreigners who are "pernicious by their presence for the proper defense of the city." The Socialists also have been included in the general cleaning out of the city. Public meetings and demonstrations of any sort not having the consent of the poet-soldier's police have been prohibited.

D'Annunzio's forces have been considerably diminished in the last few weeks by desertions. This is especially noticeable among the officers, the number of whom has fallen off by 30 per cent. Efforts made to replenish the forces by conscription of Fiume citizens have been unsuccessful. Hundreds of youths have been called to service through the lines, sometimes disguised as Italian soldiers.

Former annexationists express despair over what they term the failure of d'Annunzio's occupation of Fiume. The long strain of five months of isolation has apparently worn out the population. Business is stagnant; the port is empty; stores are doing little business, and factories are idle. The hopelessness of the money market situation tends to increase the hardships of all classes. Bankers are complaining of the lack of stability of currency, while workmen are demanding payment of their wages in coin.

"Our money situation is appalling," said one of Fiume's prominent bankers to the correspondent today. "Our currency has been counterfeited to such an extent that now we do not know any values. There are all kinds of crowns in circulation—Fiume, Jugoslav, Polish, Hungarian, Czechoslovak and Austrian. Then there is the lira. All of them are in circulation, stamped, defaced and counterfeited. We must have a new money that is stable."

The Tempo protests against what it terms "the submissive, cotton-woolly attitude of the Allies toward the imperious impositions of President Wilson, who has against him not only a majority in the Senate, but a majority in the country."

"Must Europe continue to lie under the feet of the pedestal which the Republicans, as well as the Democrats, threaten to break to pieces?" asks the newspaper. The Tempo says it is pleased that the Allies recalled to the "ill-humored dictator of the White House" that the Treaty of London must be applied if the Italo-Jugoslav negotiations fail, but says they ought to have reminded him that he had acknowledged other secret treaties, "which he so obstinately emphasizes against Italy."

TAKE STEPS TO REOPEN ADRIATIC DISCUSSIONS

Italian Premier and Jugoslav Foreign Minister in Special Conference in London.

LONDON, Feb. 29 (Associated Press).—The proposal to reopen the Adriatic discussions, which the British and French Premiers advanced in their latest note to President Wilson, was translated into action today.

Premier Nitti of Italy and Anton Trumbitch, the Jugoslav Foreign Minister, held a conference in London this morning which was described as a resumption of the "conversations" Premier Nitti began with M. Trumbitch in Paris some time ago. The nature of the "conversations" has not been disclosed, both the Italian and Jugoslav delegations declining information, but it is expected that the conference will be continued tomorrow.

Premier Nitti will leave London for Rome at the end of this week to attend Parliament, his further absence from the deliberations of that body not being considered advisable. It is intimated that he will not return to London.

Some stir appears to have been caused among the Italian delegation by a report from Washington that President Wilson would not accept the Anglo-French proposal for new negotiations. The Italians are inquiring whether there is any truth in this report, and whether they may regard it as official.

Italy to Issue Coal Cards; Train Service to Be Cut

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Co.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MILAN, Feb. 29.—Among the drastic measures for coping with the internal economic crisis is to be the immediate reduction of the national train service of one-fifth of the total traffic. Most Sunday trains will be canceled.

There is a greater scarcity of coal than ever, resultant upon the French strike and the holding up of British supplies.

The Government seeks next to realize an economy of $350,000,000 by means of the stringent reintroduction of the rationing system. This will start with April for all commodities, including coal, under Government control. Scandalously high-priced and insufficient though it is, the sugar allowance is to be further reduced, and fresh taxes will be imposed on restaurant meals and hotel bills. New restrictions will also be placed on the sale of intoxicants, and the closing of all public resorts will be enforced at 11 P. M.

The shortage of raw material, together with the scarcity of water available for hydraulic generating stations, has resulted in the complete stoppage of some of the great industries of Northern Italy.

'NICKY' ARNSTEIN DUE HERE TODAY

No Word from Detectives, But Authorities Expect Him Tomorrow at the Latest.

CONFIDENT HE WILL GIVE UP

Detectives Hope He Will Furnish Clue to Ringleaders in $5,000,000 Bond Theft.

Assistant District Attorney John T. Dooling had not received at a late hour last night any word from the three detectives who were sent to a point near Cleveland, where they expected to receive the surrender of "Nicky" Arnstein, who is wanted here in connection with the organization which directed the thefts of securities worth $5,000,000 by messengers for brokerage houses.

In spite of the fact that the District Attorney's office and the police have only received second-hand information that the fugitive is ready to give himself up, Mr. Dooling was convinced that Arnstein would allow himself to be taken into custody and that he would be in this city in the custody of detectives today or tomorrow.

Mr. Dooling believes that Arnstein is convinced that he had no chance for ultimate freedom if he tried to remain in hiding, and that he is anxious not to prejudice the case against himself by raising against himself the presumption of guilt which would follow his capture after a long chase. The party which left New York to take Arnstein at his hiding place consists of Sergeants Gegan, Brown and Meyer and Eugene F. McGee, a partner of William J. Fallon, who has been asked to act as lawyer for Arnstein.

The detectives and the District Attorney's offices have not yet discovered the system of communication by which Arnstein's plans are said to filter to his lawyers and his wife, and they are not in a position to judge how far Arnstein is prepared to make good the mysterious communications which have been relayed to them.

Further efforts were made yesterday to identify "the Count," who is said to be the ringleader of the syndicate for stealing and selling securities. The authorities entertain some hopes that statements by Arnstein may aid them in reaching men more important than he is in the transactions involving $5,000,000.

Mr. Dooling said that it had not been ascertained what proportion of the securities worth $5,000,000 had been turned into cash. He said that there was reason to believe that a considerable portion of them had not been negotiated, and were lying in safe deposit boxes in this city, in Washington, D. C., and other cities.

If Arnstein arrives today he will be taken at once to the Criminal Courts Building to be questioned. If they arrive in time today, Mr. Dooling said that Arnstein would be taken before Judge James T. Malone in General Sessions for arraignment.

J. H. THOMAS APPEALS AGAINST DIRECT ACTION

Urges British Railway Men to Effect Mines Nationalization Through the Polls.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Feb. 29.—J. H. Thomas, M. P., told a meeting of railway men at South End tonight that within a few weeks they would be called upon to express an opinion on mines nationalization. He believed the evidence was absolutely against private ownership, but they would show their common sense if they realized that it would be better, easier and simpler for them to use their power in the best and most constitutional way at the ballot box to obtain nationalization.

Mr. Thomas was referring to the special trade union congress to be held March 11, when the issue on the question of direct action versus political action in connection with the demand for mines nationalization will be decided.

The following forms of action to compel the Government to adopt nationalization will be submitted to the congress: (1) Trade union action in the shape of a general strike, and (2) political action in the form of intensive political propaganda in preparation for the general election.

The National Federation of Metal Workers, with a membership of over 1,000,000, is expected to declare for the second alternative, and now Thomas advises the railway men to adopt the same policy.

GRAVE IN SYRIA AS TURKS RAID AND MASSACRE

American College at Marash Fired on and 85 Girls Slain in Rescue Home.

PARIS DISCREDITS RUMORS

Foreign Office Believes Alexandretta Is Still in Hands of the French.

PRINCE CALLS ARABS OFF

Measures to Separate the Turkish and Arab Forces Taken by General Gouraud.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29.—The gravity of the situation in Cilicia, Syrian Turkey, was emphasized in reports received and made public by the State Department today in a statement which read:

"The following information has been received at the Department of State from a reliable source, regarding conditions in Cilicia, Turkey:

"'The Turks cut the railroad beyond Adana.

"'Fighting began near Marash on the 20th ultimo, between French and Turkish troops. On the same day an American car proceeding to Aintab, and having five Americans and a French officer as passengers, was several times fired upon by Turks, but no one was really injured, and all six returned to Marash. On the following day in the city of Marash a regular battle began between Turks and French and did not cease before the 10th instant, when the French withdrew, owing to the fact that they were greatly outnumbered by the Turks.

"'Prior to the beginning of the regular fighting between the French and the Turks, the latter had commenced massacring Armenians at Marash and vicinities, and before the eyes of responsible foreigners at Marash they committed horrible atrocities. It was estimated at that time that the number of killed exceeded 5,000, and it is feared that as many have been killed since then. Some of the mutilated victims succeeded in escaping, and the tortures of children and women have been verified. Turks have destroyed the Armenian parts of the city, as well as the churches, and they are frequently burning the dead in limekilns.

"'At Marash Americans were running a Rescue Home for Armenian girls. On the 7th instant that house was sacked and eighty-five girls were murdered. On the same day the mountain cottage of the missionaries, as well as the building of the Near East Farm, were burned.

"'Americans in the American college at Marash were fired upon, and when they offered to mediate between the Turks and the French, the former sent them a letter stating that this was not a local, but a national affair, and that the demand of the Commander-in-Chief of the Turkish National Army was that the French should surrender.

"'On the 9th instant, when the French withdrew from Marash, about 3,000 Armenians left with them on foot. But many Armenians, mostly women and children, were unable to reach their designation, as they died in snowstorms during the three days' journey from Marash to Islahieh. The following Americans left Marash with them and arrived at Adana safely on the 15th instant: Mr. Crathern and Misses Dougherty, Elfin Powers and Shultz. On the 16th of February a Mr. Eliot was still at Islahieh with the refugees.

"'With regard to the Johnson-Perry murder case, no details were known at Beirut or at Adana.'"

PARIS, Feb. 29.—The French Foreign Office states that it has no information of the capture of Alexandretta by Turk and Arab forces and of the massacre of 20,000 Armenians in Cilicia, both of which are announced from British sources. Alexandretta and Cilicia are occupied by French troops.

The Foreign Office says it receives daily reports from General Gouraud, the latest being dated Friday, and he had nothing to say about such sensational developments. The French Foreign Office doubts the truth of the reports in their entirety.

Orders Arabs to Withdraw.

PARIS, Feb. 29 (French Wireless).—The general situation in Cilicia is improving, according to advices received today by the Temps, which states that Prince Feisal, son of the King of the Hedjaz, has ordered the Arabian elements which had joined the Turkish Nationalists to withdraw. The Temps also learns that Mustapha Kemal Pasha, the Turkish Nationalist leader, has issued an order against further attacks on French troops.

The French command, according to other advices, is continuing to take measures to prevent the co-operation of Turkish and Arab bands. Important forces have been concentrated in the Kilis region, which divides the area inhabited by Turkish-speaking people from Syria.

An official statement issued today declares dispatches indicating a considerable French loss in the vicinity of Marash to be exaggerated. The total casualties were little more than 100, the statement says, and of these only a few were killed.

Arizona for General Wood; Unit Vote in Delegation

TUCSON, Ariz., Feb. 29.—Resolutions favoring the nomination of General Leonard Wood for President, and the ratification of the Peace Treaty with such reservations formulated by Senator Lodge as might be adopted by a majority of the Senate, were adopted yesterday by the Republican State Convention.

The convention selected six delegates and six alternates to the Chicago convention. The delegation is to go uninstructed but will vote as a unit.

The Wood managers here said yesterday that five of the six Arizona delegates were personally for General Wood and the delegation would vote as a unit for him.

BORAH ULTIMATUM SERVED ON LODGE

Irreconcilables Threaten a Bolt if Article X. Concessions Are Made.

DEBATE IS RESUMED TODAY

Hitchcock to Offer Reservation Withholding Domestic Questions from League.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29.—With the irreconcilables headed by Senator Borah determined to defeat the Peace Treaty by any means which may be at their command, the Treaty of Versailles will come before the Senate for further debate tomorrow.

President Wilson has served notice through Senator Hitchcock, leader of the Administration forces in the Senate, that the Lodge reservation to Article X is so unsatisfactory to him that he would refuse to deposit the ratification of the treaty if it is sent to the White House in that shape, and Senator Hitchcock is so planning his strategy as to try to win from Senator Lodge a modification of this reservation.

There is no indication that Senator Lodge intends to yield, and every prospect that the decisive conflict over the treaty will take place in the Senate this week. Senator Hitchcock's announcement has paved the way for discussion of the Senate's attitude in the debate, and there are indications that there will be lively developments tomorrow.

Senator Borah and the other irreconcilables are fully prepared to take any action necessary to insure the defeat of the treaty. They again warned Senator Lodge today that if the Republican leader should consent to modifications such as would obtain enough Democratic votes to ratify the treaty with the full Republican strength they would not vote for such a program and would reserve full liberty of action when the treaty was brought up for consideration tomorrow.

This ultimatum is similar to one served on Senator Lodge by the irreconcilables at the time of the bipartisan negotiations, and is expected to result in a conference between Senator Lodge and his colleagues on the matter tomorrow morning.

Hitchcock to Submit a Reservation.

Senator Hitchcock is understood to be prepared to offer a reservation tomorrow to withhold from the League of Nations the consideration of domestic questions such as those of commerce, tariff, immigration and labor. This was part of the Hitchcock interpretative program, and when voted on, on Nov. 15, was defeated by a vote of 52 to 43. The form in which Senator Hitchcock is expected to ask for a vote on this proposition tomorrow is this:

"That no member nation is required to submit to the League, its Council or its Assembly for decision, report or recommendation any matter which it considers to be a domestic question, such as immigration, labor, tariff or other matter relating to its internal or continental affairs."

In the form which it is understood Senator Hitchcock will offer this reservation tomorrow it would be regarded by the mild reservationists as involving a textual amendment of the treaty such as would require it to be resubmitted to the Peace Conference. The last time this proposition was submitted by Senator Hitchcock it had a preamble which was intended to make it wholly interpretative rather than an amendment to the treaty. Just why the Nebraska Senator should, at this time, ask for a vote on such a proposition is not clear, but it is being intimated tonight that his motive is to obtain its adoption only temporarily for use as a club to force a modification of the Lodge program to suit the President.

Should Senator Borah and his extremist associates not receive positive assurances that the Republican leader, if unable to obtain enough votes to ratify the treaty with the vital Lodge reservations unchanged, will positively not consent to modifications, it is intimated tonight that the irreconcilables, under their threat of reserving full liberty of action to themselves, will vote for the reservation that Mr. Hitchcock is understood to be prepared to offer tomorrow afternoon.

The irreconcilables are interested in only one thing—the defeat of the treaty—and while they would vote against the treaty even if two-thirds of the Senate should be willing to vote for the Lodge reservations, they are insisting that the Republicans must not compromise with the Democrats.

Senator Kellogg has charged in debate that there is an "unholy alliance" between Senator Borah and Senator Hitchcock, and if the irreconcilables vote for the Hitchcock proposition tomorrow it is expected that the Minnesota Senator will point to that fact in an effort to justify his charge that there is such an alliance.

LANE TELLS WILSON WASHINGTON WAYS PARALYZE ABILITY

Secretary of Interior Makes Sharp Criticism of Methods on Leaving Office.

WORK POORLY ORGANIZED

Every One Seems Afraid of Every One Else, He Asserts, and Dreads Responsibility.

CREATIVE SENSES DULLED

Though Capital Is Rich in Brains and Honesty—Suggests Fewer Men of Greater Capacity.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29.—Criticism of governmental methods in Washington as he found them in seven years of service as a member of the Cabinet of President Wilson is made by Franklin K. Lane, in a valedictory letter sent to the President yesterday. Mr. Lane resigned recently as Secretary of the Interior and yesterday was his last day in office.

In his letter to the President, which deals partly with the things done or not done in his department, Mr. Lane pointedly states his opinion as to what he regards as vital shortcomings of the governmental situation in Washington. He says:

"Washington is a combination of political caucus, drawing room and civil service bureau.

"It contains statesmen who are politicians and politicians who are not statesmen.

"It is rich in brains and in character. It is honest beyond any commercial standard. It wishes to do everything that will promote the public good.

"But it is poorly organized for the task that belongs to it. Fewer men of larger capacity would do the task better. Ability is not lacking but it is pressed to the point of paralysis because of an infinitude of details and an unwillingness on the part of the great body of public servants to take responsibility.

"Everyone seems to be afraid of everyone. The self-protective sense is developed abnormally, the creative sense atrophies. Trust, confidence, enthusiasm—these simple virtues of all great business—are the ones most lacking in Government organization. We have so many checks and brakes upon our work that our progress does not keep pace with the nation's requirements.

"We could save money for the Government if we had more discretion as to how we should use that given us. For the body of the civil servants there should be quicker promotion or discharge and a surer insurance when disability comes.

More Pay for High Officers.

"For the higher administrative officers there should be salaries twice as high as those now given, and they should be made to feel that they are the ones responsible for the work of the department; the head being merely an adviser and a constructor of policies.

"As matters are now devised, there are too few in the Government whose business it is to plan. Every man is held to details, to the narrower view which comes too often to be the department view or some sort of parochial view. We need for the day that is here, and upon us, men who have little to do but study the problems of the time and test their capacity at meeting them.

"In a word, we need more opportunity for planning, engineering, statesmanship above, and more fixed authority and responsibility below."

Mr. Lane expressed the hope that some day Congress would enable the Interior Department to make Washington the "school center of the country," urging the creation of a new kind of national university.

"We should have here," said Mr. Lane, "a national university of an original kind; one not fashioned and organized after the style of Harvard, Yale or Columbia, in which the youths are taught, but a great heart for all the schools and universities in the land. A few thousand dollars would make a beginning. I had thought of making the venture on a simple scale, but the money could not be found. It should be a university for scholars and teachers and all men and women interested in the special themes with which it would from time to time deal. It should have no faculty and no set year. But throughout the year those most distinguished in certain branches of knowledge should be brought here to give of their learning to a body of students interested especially in those certain subjects. The purpose being that all parts of the country might quickly know of the latest revelations in science, or the newest methods in the arts, and this at first hand from the master, whoever he might be."

Of the services of the Interior Department in the war, the retiring Secretary says:

"During the war there was little opportunity to think of anything other than the immediate. The part played by this department was not dramatic, but use was quickly found for our men of science, engineers in chemistry, topography and construction. Before we were yet in the war we had organized a chemical research force out of university professors, industrial chemists and

RAILROAD SYSTEMS PASS TO OWNERS; EXECUTIVES APPEAL FOR PUBLIC'S HELP; LABOR EXPECTED TO ACCEPT SETTLEMENT

Rail Union Chiefs Confer Today on Wilson Reply; Will Decide Upon Policy, but Strike Is Unlikely

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29.—The reply given by President Wilson to labor's objections to the Reorganization bill will be considered tomorrow by the railroad union chiefs. All of the union executives who are here will be called into conference for the purpose of agreeing on a public expression of railroad labor's attitude.

There was no indication tonight as to sentiment among the leaders who had read the President's statement in answer to their request that he withhold his approval from the bill. They said they had stated their case, and that until a policy can be determined, they would remain silent as to future action.

The Government does not anticipate serious labor disturbances as a result of the transfer. The feeling was expressed here last night in various quarters that the 2,000,000 employes, or the vast majority of them, at any rate, would accept the situation without a protest in the form of anything approximating a general strike, and would continue their fight for readjustment in wages and working conditions through the boards set up in the legislation adopted by Congress.

Labor has won several of the points for which it contended in regard to the railroad legislation, including the elimination of the anti-strike clauses and a guarantee that wages will not be reduced for the period of six months. There are some who have expressed the opinion that no general strike would be practical in the event that the wartime level of wages was maintained. The fact that Samuel Gompers went to Jacksonville when the situation was most acute, to attend a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Federation, is taken as another indication that no serious outbreak was contemplated by labor in the event that the President refused to do its bidding. That action looking to serious strikes would be taken in the absence of Mr. Gompers from the labor councils here is not considered likely.

A more complete understanding of what labor intends to do will probably be reached after the meeting today. The situation, however, would appear to be hopeful rather than dangerous. It has been reported that while 700 or more representatives were in session here during the week efforts to start a movement looking to a general strike failed, and that the calmer heads, who counseled acceptance of the situation, in the event their demands were all not met, were in control of the situation.

STRIKE WANING ON FRENCH ROADS

Radical Leaders Jailed, and Paris Looks for an Early End of the Trouble.

SERVICE MUCH IMPROVED

About 40 Per Cent. of Trains Run—Labor Hesitates to Call Sympathetic Strikes.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Feb. 29.—The Government seems certain to win the railroad strike. The man who started it is in jail and a dozen of his radical lieutenants are keeping him company.

The general strike order, issued yesterday, has failed to produce a general strike, and there is a distinct amelioration in the railroad service today, about 40 per cent. of the usual schedules being maintained.

Still more significant is the fact that the General Confederation of Labor, which now directs the strike in place of the radical leaders, is ready to make peace if the Government will consent to establish a commission to study the question of nationalization of all the railway systems. The radical leaders had declared that they would not order the men back to work unless nationalization was promised.

The Government has decided to call to the colors men of three reserve military classes on all roads, which will assure a 50 per cent. service.

Cool Toward Sympathetic Strike.

Altogether the situation seems much improved. While it is true that the railroad men are urging the confederation of labor to call sympathetic strikes in all industries, the confederation appears uncertain of the wisdom of that step, since all the railroad workers did not themselves obey its general strike order of yesterday. The dockers and workers of the posts, telegraph and telephone systems are ready to come out, but many other trades are very cool toward the proposal.

The strike in its present proportions will do enormous economic damage to France if it lasts a full week. But there are many indications that the next three days will bring a settlement. From the political point of view it is now assured that the country is firm against the effort of the radical railroad men to force the Government to obey their will.

The Government states that the response to the military call to 10,000 workers on the Paris, Lyons & Mediterranean Line has not been fully satisfactory, but it believes this was because the company rather than the Government issued the notices to the men. Beginning this afternoon, gendarmes are serving the notices, and the men seem disposed to respond to the military call.

Men of three reserve classes on the State and Orleans systems will be called Monday morning, and the same classes on the East and Midi systems during the day. So few men have quit the North system that this measure has not been deemed necessary there.

Leon Minot, Secretary of the Workers' Syndicate on the Paris, Lyons & Mediterranean, who started the strike, advised the men yesterday not to respond to the Government's military call. He was arrested today and warrants were

WILLARD HOPEFUL OF NEW RAIL LAW

Sees a Good Foundation for a Lasting Policy of Private Ownership Here.

MUCH DEPENDS ON ROADS

Holds Rates and Charges Must Be Increased—Defends Limitation of Profits.

By CHARLES H. GRASTY.

It is an interesting fact that in certain important particulars the new Railroad bill was framed and passed in the face of the opposition of a great majority of the railroad heads of this country, and it is equally interesting that since its passage there has been a visible change in sentiment among the executives who opposed it.

At all times throughout the contest two railroad Presidents, both from Baltimore, worked for the bill. Daniel Willard, President of the Baltimore and Ohio, and S. Davies Warfield, President of the Seaboard Air Line, have been in the thick of the fight at Washington, and their efforts have been concentrated upon the very provision which many of their associates in railroad management matters most strongly opposed, the provision fixing a standard of earnings and the surrender of one-half of the excess over six per cent.

Mr. Willard has been an earnest student of the railroad problem, and his views concerning railroad regulations and labor problems have been recognized as liberal and progressive, and no one can speak with a fuller understanding of the new policy embodied in the recent legislation than he, and the following statement, which he has given me, will be read with much interest. He says:

"While there are a number of features in the bill which I would like to have seen changed, upon the whole the bill in its final form is in my opinion constructive and far-reaching in its general possibilities, and affords a basis upon which we may with good reason hope to see private ownership and operation of the railroads remain the permanent policy in this country.

"First, and perhaps most important of all, it was definitely brought out at the hearings conducted by the two houses of Congress, and by the discussions that took place in each house, that there was a very general concurrence of opinion in favor of private ownership and operation of the railroads and in opposition to Government ownership and operation in any form. This was clearly the position taken by those who voted for the bill, and with negligible exceptions of those who voted against it as well and it follows, I think, that we must look upon legislation enacted by this Congress as being intended to promote and sustain the policy of private ownership and operation. If this is true, then I think we may expect that the Interstate Commerce Commission, which is the agent of Congress, will endeavor, as I believe it will, to carry out the clear intent of Congress as expressed in the Esch-Cummins bill.

Sees Move to Preserve Vigor.

"In the Mann-Elkins bill, which became a law in 1910, the Interstate Commerce Commission was given authority

HINES TURNS OVER CARRIERS

Great Federal System Breaks Up Into 230 Separate Units.

DIRECTOR STAYS IN OFFICE

Administration Has Hundreds of Disputes with Labor and Owners Still on Its Hands.

ROADS FACE NEW CONDITIONS

Must Meet Situation Caused by War and Enlarged Powers of Commerce Commission.

WASHINGTON, Monday, March 1.—America's rail transportation systems, operated as one great public utility since Dec. 28, 1917, were once more divided among their 230 respective corporate owners when the Government released control at midnight. Director General Hines, as the agent of the President, handed over the properties and equipment, valued at approximately $20,000,000,000, to their old direction, free, except for the jurisdiction retained by the Government in the new Railroad Reorganization bill.

While all arrangements for formal restoration of the carriers to their owners were completed Saturday by Mr. Hines instructions went out yesterday to operating representatives of the Railroad Administration, informing them that they would "report to the proper officials of the corporations which resume control at 12:01 A. M. March 1."

Of the gigantic organization, created by former Director General McAdoo as a wartime expedient, only a small part will remain. Regional officials, Federal managers and Treasurers and many high officials comprising the Director General's staff, ceased to function as such at the designated hour. Some of these have gone back to their former places as officials of the corporations, while others have entered into new lines of endeavor.

Mr. Hines will continue in his present capacity until about May 1. Although without any railroads to direct he still faces the settlement of literally thousands of claims, contracts and grievances. Only 147 of the 230 compensation contracts with the corporations were actually signed during Government control, and the remainder will continue to be the subject of negotiations. Damage claims have arisen of which many are still pending.

Labor has several thousand cases before the Government Wage Boards, and Mr. Hines has assured the labor spokesmen these will be concluded. Some will require the payment of retroactive wages if decided in favor of the workers and others will mean the establishment of interpretation of agreements which labor, of course, will refuse to have altered by the corporations. Many affect general labor policies and represent vitally important questions from the labor view.

With the lines again under private control, there will be almost immediately a resumption of the "days of competition." Corporation heads have been preparing for this for several months. The various roads will attempt to divide again the business which has been handled jointly during Federal control, reports indicated.

Go Back Under New Conditions.

The roads go back to private control under largely new conditions. The Railroad bill, signed Saturday night by the President, gives the system certain new privileges but, as an offset, it enlarges the Interstate Commerce Commission, both in power and personnel. The corporations no longer are master completely of their bond issues, nor are they allowed to stand solidly against labor, for labor's demands, if not met by arbitration and negotiation between the parties concerned, go to the high court provided in the bill and on which sit in addition to labor and railroad representatives, public representatives.

In resuming operation of their properties, the corporations have a particularly valuable psychological asset bequeathed them in the opinion of Director General Hines. The corporations, he believe, have public sentiment as favorable to them as at any time in their history. The properties are also regarded by those who have controlled them for the last two years as being able to meet the heaviest demands which can be expected to be made upon them.

As for finances, Mr. Hines has asserted that the corporations would have had difficulty obtaining the necessary credit had the Government not extended its care to them during the war. This difficulty has been swept aside to some extent, for the roads can obtain loans from the Government in these days of strained credit, it was explained. The Interstate Commerce Commission also is bound by law to consider the roads' financial status in rate making so the properties may always stand on a solid base.

The development of water transportation instituted by the Railroad Administration is to be continued under direction of the War Department. The whole organization which has handled this part of the Railroad Administration's duties will be transferred to the jurisdiction of Secretary Baker. This includes the operation of barges and towboats on the Mississippi River between St. Louis and New Orleans, between the Alabama coal fields and the Gulf of Mexico, on the Warrior River project, on the New York barge canal and on the Delaware and Raritan Canal. These waterway systems are regarded by Mr. Hines as representing a beginning, and in relinquishing control of them he advocates a continuation of the development "in order that a practicable test may be made of utilizing the nation's inland waterways."

Railroad Executives at Capital Emphasize Lack of Equipment.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Feb. 29.—In a dispatch from Washington tonight to The Chicago Tribune A. H. Smith, President of the New York Central Lines, is quoted as saying that the greatest difficulty now facing the railroads is lack of equipment. Without sufficient equipment, he says, the lines cannot properly function, and the farmer, the merchant, the manufacturer and the citizen will be adversely affected until this weakness is remedied.

Howard Elliott, President of the Northern Pacific, said:

"If the Interstate Commerce Commission, under the great powers given it, will administer the new law so that confidence will be restored in the railroad business as one of the great enterprises in this country into which men can put their time, energy, brains and money with reasonable certainty that they will obtain fair rewards; if the owners, employes and the Government will pull together, there are man power, brains and money enough to make the American railroad system adequate."

"Carriers must function so well that the public must swear by them, not at them," Robert Walker of the Chicago & Alton declared. "If private operation be unsatisfactory, the threat of retaking by the Government, this time for good and all, will hang overhead. The challenge is for the ablest railroad minds and courageous financiers, under adverse conditions, to render such admirable service that Government ownership talk will not be tolerated."

"The great necessity is new capital," Charles Heyden, Chairman of the board of the Rock Island, says. "This can be obtained from private sources only through the ability of the railways to offer something attractive to the private investor. Unless this credit is restored the railways cannot obtain the necessary capital. For the first time Congress has legislated with respect to the railways constructively instead of correctively."

TWO RAIL SYSTEMS TRY REGIONAL PLAN

Pennsylvania and Erie Operate Along Federal Lines for Greater Efficiency.

OWNERS TAKE OVER ROADS

Brief Exchanges by Telephone at Midnight End Government's Control of Carriers.

At 12:01 this morning the railroads locally passed from Government control to private ownership through short exchanges over the telephone between railroad executives or their representatives and the Federal Railroad Administrators, who went to the various roads' headquarters for the formality of return.

Shortly before the actual return of the roads two companies announced officially their intention of operating along the lines instituted by the Government. The Erie, through Frederick D. Underwood, President, and the Pennsylvania, through Samuel Rea, President, announced operation henceforth on a "four-region" basis. The reasons prompting the change, according to the executives, are to bring closer relationships between officials and employes and the public and to promote greater efficiency of management. President Rea in a notice to all officers and employes of the Pennsylvania Railroad system, to be posted today, says:

"Effective with the return of the lines to their owners for operation on March 1, the lines of the Pennsylvania System have been divided into four operating regions to facilitate and encourage closer and freer contact at all times with the employes and the public.

"All efforts must be devoted to meeting the demands of the country, but, as a result of war conditions and the crisis through which the nation has passed, the property is returned to its own management with its roadbed and equipment below its usual standard. Further, our facilities have not kept pace with the growth of industry, and until additional cars, locomotives, tracks and terminals can be provided, we must utilize the present facilities to the fullest possible extent.

"For some time, and for these reasons, the service rendered cannot fully meet public requirements. However, it is hoped that every one who requires transportation of the Pennsylvania Railroad System, either freight or passenger, will see constant improvement. Our future success depends upon our ability to command and retain the confidence and co-operation of the public, which we can have only if we fully meet all our obligations and conscientiously perform our every duty.

"For a long time many of us, both employes and officers, have justly felt that our real problems were not appreciated and were not understood by the public; but now we believe the American people are thoroughly alive to the necessity for understanding these problems, and deciding upon a policy under which they can be settled on a just basis.

"In our own organization the longing for a return to the Pennsylvania standard of work and service is apparent on every side. If each of us, the 275,000 men and women who comprise the personnel of the Pennsylvania Railroad system will respond to this system and work together as we have in the past, we shall succeed in satisfying the public and earning a fair return for the many hundreds of thousands of our citizens, and their institutions, who furnished the money to create and improve this great public transportation system, and who have intrusted its operation to us."

The notice distributed today over the Erie lines, written by President Underwood, is as follows:

"With the end of Governmental control the Erie Railroad and its allied lines are by law returned to the owners of its stocks and bonds. Taking the lines by the Government for war purposes was a wise and necessary measure—the only safe course. Now that war necessities are past, the verdict of the people, as expressed through their representatives, is that private control is best for all: the public, the owners and the army of railroaders who carry on the work.

"Especially are railway employes to be congratulated on being relieved from permanent Government service. They can now, as private citizens, more than ever be a part of the neighborhood in which they have homes, rear families and make a livelihood.

"It is proven that Governmental ownership or control of an ordinary business undertaking blights it. Governments are to protect the people from invasion, provide proper immigration, tariff and usury laws, stabilize currency and conserve natural resources. Aside from these and other Governmental functions, Governments should not interfere with lawfully conducted commercial enterprises.

"We can now take up our tasks, to serve well the public, whose patronage gains us a livelihood; to make of ourselves a more useful, as we are now recognized an essential, part of the whole people; to avoid strife that reacts unfavorably on all concerned; to keep a cool and deliberate watch on such of our actions as affect the public welfare, and to win back the traffic and prestige held by the Erie Railroad prior to war conditions, which diverted both from their former channels.

"The Board of Directors and the executive staff feel sure of your continuing prompt and full co-operation. The changes to be made in the methods of operation aim at two objects: to serve our patrons promptly, and to co-operate and deal more intimately with the employes and the public. The managers of the regions have power to decide all questions arising in the several regions. They are of you; have served long on the Erie Railroad and know both sides of the business. They merit your full support.

"With the restoration of corporate relations it is the full desire of myself and the other officers of the company to help make the conditions surrounding the day's work better for all than ever before."

The Erie will operate as follows:

New York Region—Jersey to Susquehanna and branches. Regional headquarters—Jersey City, N. J. Regional manager—John J. Mantell, 50 Church Street.

Hornell (N. Y.) Region—Susquehanna to Rochester, Buffalo, Dunkirk, Salamanca and branches. Regional headquarters—Hornell, N. Y. Regional manager—Robert E. Woodruff, Hornell.

Ohio Region—Salamanca to Cleveland, Cincinnati and branches. Regional headquarters—Youngstown, Ohio. Regional manager—William A. Baldwin, Youngstown.

Chicago Region—Chicago and Erie Railroad and branches, Chicago to Marion. Regional headquarters—Chicago. Regional manager—Austin E. Wallace, Transportation Building, Chicago.

Each of the managers will have separate staffs of experts, such as formerly were gathered on one staff for the operation of the Erie as one road.

The Southern Railway System announced last night that New York freight offices would be opened this morning at 280 Broadway. J. W. Fitzwilson, General Eastern Freight Agent, will be in charge.

SPEYER PRAISES RAIL ACT.

But Banker Says Its Effectiveness Will Depend on New Commissioners.

The legislation for the return of the railroads to their owners is considered a step in the right direction by James Speyer, a railroad banker, but he asserts that the efficacy of the measure depends upon the character and qualifications of the three new members of the Interstate Commerce Commission whom the President is to appoint. "Unless the law is fairly and liberally construed," says Mr. Speyer, "and is used to rehabilitate the credit of the railroads and to strengthen the confidence of our people in their railroad investments, it will prove a failure, and such failure might easily lead to Government ownership."

Discussing the new law, Mr. Speyer says:

"While attempting to devise means to meet the just demands of the employes the law tries at the same time to minimize the dangers of interruptions in the country's transportation system through strikes, &c. It also attempts to do justice to the great number of people who are more or less dependent, directly or indirectly, on the value and income of their savings invested in railroad securities. It endeavors by prescribing a definite return through adequate rates, to re-establish the credit of the companies, so that they may obtain the necessary additional funds for the upkeep of their property and for the increase in facilities and extensions constantly called for by the growth of the country's business and population.

"It is to be hoped that the provisions of Section 6, instructing the commission to fix the rates high enough during the next two years to yield about 5½ per cent. on group valuations, will be effective in restoring the confidence of investors, taken in conjunction with the protection afforded them through Government supervision of security issues, based on values, and with the other provisions for consolidations and for strengthening the control by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

"I consider the new law as the most constructive measure affecting our railroads enacted during the last twenty or twenty-five years.

"During this last trying decade of 'railroad baiting,' I never have lost faith that if the American people once understood and realized the importance of dealing fairly with the investors, large and small, they would ultimately insist on a 'square deal' for the railroads. American common sense has at last begun to assert itself, and the first step on the right road has been taken, but it is only a first step.

"The real test of the value of this new law will only come when it is construed and applied. Experience has shown that even the very best intentions of legislators may be neutralized and that a law may even be turned into a weapon to defeat the very objects it was intended to serve, foster and protect.

"A great deal will depend on the character and qualifications of the three new members of the Interstate Commerce Commission which the President is about to appoint. He has it in his power to strengthen the constructive element on the commission, or he can through his appointments strengthen other elements that have for years, partly through misconception, done such immeasurable damage to railroad credit and thereby also to the best interests of our country."

NEW HAVEN IN GOOD SHAPE.

President Says System Was Well Maintained Under Government.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 29.—E. Buckland, who has been President of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad under Federal control, said tonight that "the New Haven road is in better shape than ever before." E. J. Pearson, who has been Federal Manager of the system, resumes his place as President at midnight and Mr. Buckland becomes Vice President and counsel.

"During Government control the road has been well kept up," said Mr. Buckland. "There is a scarcity of rails, however, and we are 15,000 tons short. The motive power is as good as ever, except for the damage done by the recent storms. The freight business is ever increasing, and we will probably need more big locomotives soon. We will continue to enlarge the Cedar Hill yards (New Haven), and the yards at Providence."

Baltimore Federation Head Says They Seek to Destroy Organized Labor.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 29.—When John H. Ferguson, President of the Baltimore Federation of Labor, arose to address a meeting of striking employes of the Baltimore Dry Docks and Shipbuilding Company this afternoon, he was greeted with hisses and cheers. He charged that many of those present were organization breakers.

"I do not wish to have anything to do with any worker who is not an American through and through," he asserted, adding that not only at the dry docks but in other industries "there were filthy curs calling themselves men, who are now seeking to destroy organized labor. Are you of those in the ranks of reason? Then in your deeds I wish you godspeed and all success, but if you are a Red and a reactionary, I had rather see you in hell than in the ranks of organized labor."

The local federation has stated it would not interfere with the strike which is being carried on by international bodies with headquarters outside Baltimore. This displeased the radical element among the strikers.

More than 6,000 of the 7,000 workers at the plant are either out on strike or have been forced out. President Evans of the company said:

"We shall go right ahead with the repair work, and I believe we can keep enough men to carry on with this. If we can't we'll close down.

DOCTORS SKEPTICAL OF PHTHISIS SPECIFIC

The description of mycoleum, a substance developed by Dr. Benjamin S. Paschall of 15 West Forty-fourth Street for the treatment of tuberculosis, which was printed in THE NEW YORK TIMES yesterday, caused much interest among physicians and specialists in tuberculosis, although their attitude was skeptical and they were a unit in warning sufferers to shun reported remedies which had received no sanction from the medical profession.

Dr. Lewis I. Harris, Director of the Bureau of Preventable Diseases of the Health Department, said the treatment had not been offered to the Health Department for test, but that the department would be ready to give it the most thorough trial if evidence were offered to indicate that it had merit. He said he expected to have an interview with Dr. Paschall on the subject, and that the Health Department was naturally most eager to be convinced of the value of anything which might be of benefit in combating the scourge of tuberculosis.

WILLARD HOPEFUL OF NEW RAIL LAW

By CHARLES H. GRASTY.

to limit and determine the earnings of the railroads as a whole through the power to fix the railroad rates and charges, but no specific responsibility was placed upon the commission in connection with the increased authority so granted, nor was any rule laid down by Congress for the guidance of the commission. Now the Congress itself declares a policy concerning the future of the railroads. It says in definite form that 'It is declared to be the policy of Congress to foster and preserve in full vigor both rail and water transportation.'

"Congress also outlines in general terms a rule for the guidance of its agent, the Interstate Commerce Commission, in the fixing of rates, and definitely states the things which the commission must take into account when determining rate levels. Furthermore, for a definite period it prescribes the net income which the railroads as a whole should be permitted to earn as related to the value of their properties. The amount of net income so fixed may or may not be sufficient to carry out the intent of Congress; that is to say, to provide for the successful continuance of private ownership and operation, but the fact that a definite amount has actually been stated is in my opinion most important, and if the correct amount has not been named the law provides that it can be changed in two years and at stated intervals thereafter.

Finds Bill Sufficiently Broad.

"If it is really desired to continue private ownership and operation of the railroads, the bill in its present form is sufficiently broad and comprehensive to accomplish that purpose, and at the same time it is sufficiently definite to prevent the abuses that have been complained of in connection with railway management and operations in the past.

"It was very clearly brought out during the congressional hearings, and later on in the debates, that the real test of the success or failure of the bill would depend upon the ability of the railroads as a whole operating thereunder to raise roundly $1,000,000,000 of new capital each year from voluntary investors, because it was generally recognized that the expenditure of not less than that amount by the railroads as a whole would be necessary each year, and for an indefinite period, in order to provide the additional equipment and facilities needed to take care of the growing commerce of this country. If it should develop that the railroads are not able, operating under the new plan, to obtain the new capital needed each year, and on reasonable terms, it would then be necessary to try some other plan, and it seemed to be the general thought that the only other plan possible would be Government ownership and operation.

"Whether private ownership and operation continues to be the established policy in this country—and I believe it will so continue—will depend not only upon the interpretation and application of the law by the Interstate Commerce Commission, but also in equal measure, perhaps in greater measure, upon the manner in which the railroad managers operate the properties. Justly or unjustly there is at the present time quite a general feeling of dissatisfaction with the manner in which the railroads have been operated while under Federal control, and there is at least an expectation on the part of the public that the roads will be better operated under their corporate organizations, and if this expectation is measurably fulfilled we may expect that the public will continue to favor private ownership and operation, and as long as the public generally favors such a policy we may also expect that the agent of the public, the Interstate Commerce Commission, and even Congress itself, will undertake to give effect to that desire, and I repeat that much, if not everything, depends upon the manner in which the railroads shall be operated by their owners and the extent to which they meet the reasonable desires of the public. I believe this phase of the matter is fully recognized by railway managers and that they will make every proper and possible effort to satisfy the public.

Says Carriers Need Equipment.

"It must be kept in mind, however, that during the period of Federal control, due to conditions brought about by the war, there has not been that increase in railway equipment and facilities that is thought to be necessary to keep up with the growing commerce of the country, and for a while at least and until the credit of the carriers can be re-established, it will doubtless be difficult for the railroads at all times to satisfactorily meet the transportation requirements. This condition, however, will be corrected as rapidly as the railroads are in position to obtain the necessary funds, and during the period of readjustment it will be necessary for the public to exercise fair and intelligent patience.

"It was generally recognized before the war that railroad rates in this country were lower than anywhere else in the world, and it is an absolute fact that today railroad rates are relatively lower than they were before the war, and by relatively I mean when compared with the prices paid for all other things, including labor. Undoubtedly railroad rates and charges must be increased in order to restore the relation between railroad rates and other prices which existed before the war. It is, of course, most desirable that in a country of such vast distances as ours, transportation charges should continue as low as possible, but such charges, regardless of the form they take, must be sufficient to pay the costs of operation, including a fair return upon the capital necessary to provide an adequate plant. It might appear under Government ownership that the charges for transportation were less than under private ownership, due to the fact that the Government might at any time do as it has done during the past year; that is to say, make up out of the general treasury any deficit resulting from railroad operations on an inadequate basis of rates.

"It must be kept in mind, however, that under any system the total cost of transportation must ultimately be paid by the public whether in the form of taxes or of direct railway charges, and it is in the best interests of the people that that system should be followed which furnishes the necessary transportation at the lowest economic cost. I have no doubt whatever that private ownership and operation will furnish transportation at a lower economic cost to the users than any other system so far tried or suggested.

Defends Limiting of Profits.

"The chief criticism of the Esch-Cummins bill has been aimed at that portion of the bill now known as section 15a, which provides, among other things, that the commission shall fix rates so as to yield a net operating income of a fixed percentage upon the aggregate value of the property of the carriers as a whole or in groups, with the further proviso that if from rates so fixed an individual carrier shall earn more than [illegible] per cent. upon the value of its property, one-half of such excess earnings shall be covered into the treasury of the United States.

"Personally, I do not share the views of those who criticise these provisions. Without going into details, I do not hesitate to express it as my firm conviction that unless the question of excess earnings of the individual carrier can be dealt with in some proper manner, for instance, as proposed in the Esch-Cummins bill, private ownership and operation of the railroads in this country could not continue. The manner in which the excess earnings problem has been treated in the bill is, to my mind, fair and will, I believe, make the successful continuation of private ownership and operation possible.

"It has been said that a return of only 5½ per cent, with an additional ½ per cent within the discretion of the Commission, as named in the bill, upon the aggregate value of the property will not produce sufficient net income to enable the carriers to obtain the new capital necessary each year for increased facilities. This may or may not be true. I think, however, we shall not lose sight of the fact that in fixing this amount it was the intention of Congress to provide a plan that would make private ownership a success, and Congress clearly understood that the test of that success, as I have already pointed out, is the ability of the railroads to attract $1,000,000,000 of new capital each year from voluntary investors.

"The operations of the Esch-Cummins bill should certainly justify a much greater confidence in the stability of railroad bonds, which are very definitely protected by the bill, and if it develops that return of 5¼ per cent is too small to fully meet all the requirements of the situation, it rests with the commission after two years to say what it shall be, and if the people in this country are at that time still in favor of private ownership and operation as a public policy, I have no doubt the commission will deal with the problem in such a way as to meet the wishes of the American people."

Ferraris Says Famine and Bankruptcy Can Be Averted Only by Closer Economy.

ROME, Feb. 29.—The Marquis De Josannes, the editor of The Economista, a leading financial review, examining the situation in Europe and the attitude of the United States, says:

"The American Government, faithful to the policy of liberty which it has always followed, refuses to intervene financially in European affairs either with a view to lowering exchange or opening new Federal credits. It wishes to make Europe understand that, after the expenditure and waste of the war, Europe must work intensely to reconstruct its finances and augment production, thereby diminishing the demand for American exports and increasing its own exports.

"The American Government also admonishes American industries to adapt themselves, after the high profits of the war, to the risk of damage from diminished exportation and from the crisis of overproduction.

"Taking this courageous and sincere line, which is logical, with a clear vision of realities, is a healthy program aiming to protect the interests of the States which are debtors of America, since it would be only too easy for these States to swamp themselves in new debts with the object of reducing exchange, which would only serve further to burden taxpayers with additional interest.

"American certainly will have a crisis of overproduction, which will serve to reduce the enormous prices she has asked and is still asking from Europe."

the Italian delegates are stated to be in complete agreement with the other Allies.

ROME, Feb. 28.—The Idea Nazionale and the Corriere d'Italia are the only newspapers of Rome which comment today on the correspondence between President Wilson and the Entente Premiers with regard to the Adriatic situation. The Idea Nazionale, which is the organ of the Nationalists, is favorable to solving the controversy even if it is necessary to "use force."

"Italy," says the Idea Nazionale, "occupies the armistice line and must remain there. To reopen direct negotiations with the Jugoslavs means either to go against Italian interests or to lose time, as before."

The newspaper thinks it is impossible for the Italian Government to make further renunciations. The answer of the Entente Premiers to President Wilson, it says, is important, as it contains a new affirmation of the right of Italy to apply the Treaty of London if a compromise is impossible.

On the other hand, the Corriere d'Italia is favorable to a compromise. It says Premier Nitti is anxious to solve not only the territorial problem of the Adriatic but the economic question and the question of supplies of food and of raw materials, which is grave.

issued for thirty of his aids, who are now being rounded up.

Train Service Greatly Improved

The situation this afternoon upon the six lines is as follows:

On the East system express trains are running and 40 per cent of the suburban trains; on the North system there is an 80 per cent. service; on the Orleans line a 30 per cent service; on the Paris, Lyons & Mediterranean a 25 per cent. service, and on the Midi practically normal schedules.

Premier Millerand made a statement at midday, in which he said:

"Everything considered, twenty-four hours after the general strike call there is only a partial stoppage of traffic. There is no total stoppage on any system, not even on the Paris, Lyons & Mediterranean. A general strike does not exist."

The Premier stated that the Government did not for a moment admit that the question of the future régime of the railroads was at stake, and as for the men's other claims a commission was ready to hear them whenever the men went back to work.

He stated that food supplies for Paris were assured, as well as the postal service.

Orders issued this afternoon close all restaurants and cafés at 10 o'clock instead of 11:30 P. M., and theatres must close at 11 o'clock.

Coal restrictions will go into effect tomorrow, andthe war measures regulating the use of lighting are revived. All fencing establishments, of which there are hundreds in Paris, must close at 10 o'clock until further notice. Restaurants and hotels can serve only two courses for dinner.

With the observance of these restrictions the Government declares that its military railroad service and automobile emergency provisions can take care of the Paris food and fuel needs.

Tens of thousands of citizens are volunteering for service, if needed. They are now being classified at three bureaus and will be called on, if the necessity arises.

Air transportation services to all France are now in operation at reduced prices. Ten airplanes daily, instead of two, are flying to London, and M. Farman has opened a service to the Riveria and return.

Elaborate preparations have been made to preserve order in Paris. Many regiments have been brought into the city.

Street Crowds Cheer Soldiers.

I witnessed an incident an hour ago which seems to show how the wind blows. It was on a boulevard, crowded with workers and their families on their usual Sunday afternoon promenade. From a side street there swung into the boulevard a company of Alpine chausseurs in full field equipment. The crowds stopped and stared as if not knowing what to make of it.

There was silence for a moment until the crowds of workers realized that in the measured stride of those soldiers was represented the strength of their Government in a crisis. A cheer started and it swept along and in a moment thousands were waving and shouting a welcome to the sturdy lads from Eastern France. Then they went on promenading. But the people had shown how they felt. They were for the Government, law and order.

As a matter of fact other workers are very shy of the strike. Generally, French labor is well unified, but not at this time. Last November the Socialists lost half of their Parliamentary representation because the workers deserted the leaders who had espoused Lenin and Trotzky. They have their suspicions of what is behind the present strike. Especially is that true when they know that the railroad workers have just received increases in pay which total 2,250,000,000 francs annually.

Railroad men who received only 1,000 francs yearly before the war now get more than 4,000 francs. Workers who received 1,800 francs in 1914 now get almost 6,000. Other workers do not feel very kindly toward their striking now, and especially when hundreds of thousands of other workers live in the suburbs of Paris and find themselves put out by the present strike. The working public is not behind the railroad men, and that is why the strike will fail.

Transport Workers Offer to Strike.

PARIS, Feb. 29 (Associated Press).—The Subway and Tramway Employes and the Omnibus, Cab and Taxicab Drivers' Unions held several meetings today and adopted in principle a proposal to call a sympathetic strike in favor of the railwaymen, provided they are invited to do so by the General Federation of Labor, which has assumed direction of the present strike movement.

Delegations of the Parisian unions of railwaymen have requested Premier Millerand to receive their delegates. Apparently the dismissal of the railwayman Campanaud for absence from duty to attend a union meeting has been relegated to the background, and the railwaymen's claims are now headed by a demand for nationalization of the railroads.

The price of bread, which was scheduled to advance from 20 to 30 per cent. tomorrow, will remain stationary, the Government deciding to postpone the increase until March 15.

M. Flanding, Under Secretary of Aeronautic Transport, announces that the Ministry of Public Works expects tomorrow to start airplane service to Marseilles, Lille, Brussels and London. Bordeaux may also be included among the stopping places, the announcement says.

Premier Millerand, receiving representatives of the press this morning, said that henceforth the Minister of Public Works would issue an official statement on the situation each morning and evening.

The Government and the Federal Council of the railroad men have issued statements giving a history of the strike. The former gives figures of the wages paid railway men, the minimum wage before the war being about 1,200 francs yearly, and now 2,400 francs, plus 1,080 francs as indemnity for the high cost of living, plus 720 francs as an extra cost of living allowance, a total of 4,200 francs, with an additional 1,600 francs rent allowance for those living in Paris.

Besides this an allowance is made for the men's families. An eight-hour day is being introduced, according to the statement, and indemnities are given to workers to whom it is impossible to give eight hours immediately. A special committee is now sitting daily to discuss improvements, which, when adopted, will raise the amount paid in wages from 750,000,000 to 3,000,000,000 francs.

The Federal Council's statement, which is headed, "The Truth on the Strike," says:

"A worker, having been punished for answering a convocation of this union, his comrades unite with him."

The statement then accuses Yves le Trocquer, Minister of Public Works, of showing an absolutely uncompromising spirit and "incomprehensible levity." It says that Premier Millerand, on his return from London, seemed to show a more conciliatory disposition, but only offered to arbitrate the conflict if work were resumed first. The railway men's delegates, the statement says, making further concessions, offered to accept the Premier's condition if Campanaud's punishment was suspended until after arbitration, but this was refused.

All means of conciliation now seem to be exhausted, the statement goes on, but as M. Millerand had said he would use his influence on the railroad executives, the railway men's representatives returned to the Director of the Paris, Lyons & Mediterranean, who refused even the arbitration proposed by M. Millerand.

"But it can no longer be a question of being bound to an incident which has unloosed a movement, the profound causes of which must be attributed to the discontent reigning among the railroad personnel, whose status and rate of pay have been under discussion nearly a year without reaching a decision," the statement says.

Men Demand Nationalization.

After accusing the railway companies of deliberately misapplying the decisions of the joint grievance commissions, of claiming the right to apply their own wage scale and of making arbitrary appointments meant to split the railway men's personnel, the statement declares:

"Nationalization is the only means to insure rational exploitation of transports."

The Federal Council claims to have shown the utmost spirit of conciliation and moderation, and readiness to discuss the five points on which the railway men are willing to return to work, which it says are, first, recognition of union rights; second, the application on broad lines of the federation's scale of wages and a statute fixing the status of the Federal Council; third, the institution of joint grievance commissions for secondary railroad companies; fourth, immediate and joint study of the future railroad régime, and, fifth, no penalty for striking.

The statement concludes: "The federation protests against the allegation that the strike movement has a political origin."

Students of engineering and similar schools have offered their services to the Government for transport work during the strike. The volunteers number nearly 3,000 for Paris, while several provincial schools have made similar offers. Many of these students volunteered during the last subway strike and gained some experience in driving engines.

Press Hostility Continues.

The Paris newspapers are unanimous today in declaring the public absolutely out of sympathy with the railroad strike.

While expressing the hope that it will come to an end swiftly, the newspapers say they consider it to be the duty of every citizen to support the Government in the present struggle.

The Journal des Debats, in its comment, says that threats of revolution and dictatorship by workmen's syndicates have finally worn out the public patience.

"The country does not want a conflict," the newspaper says, "but if the folly of revolutionists compels the Government to prove that it will resist, it is resolved to do so."

BARCELONA IN FEAR OF NEW LABOR WAR

BARCELONA, Feb. 29.—A feeling of uncertainty is prevalent throughout the city and province, none knowing whether the strike or lockout will be renewed from one day to another. There have been frequent disturbances between syndicalists and non-syndicalist workers. The latter are in the great majority and the Syndicalists, who are said to believe their cause to be lost, have become angry and are perpetrating all sorts of annoyances against the non-Syndicalists and the employers.

Factory owners in several districts have threatened on numerous occasions to resume the lockout should the cases of sabotage continue and some laborers are apparently afraid to return to work in consequence of threats of violence by unemployed syndicalists. Outwardly the city remains absolutely calm.

ANOTHER ARREST IN BERGDOLL CASE

Second Detective Implicated in Alleged Plot to Discredit Draft Board.

TWIN SISTERS AS DECOYS

They Led Sleuths On While Reporting to Their Chief, Target of the Conspiracy.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 29.—Following the arrest yesterday of Herman F. Davis, former assistant manager of the Burns Detective Agency, on a charge of conspiracy to corrupt and intimidate Government witnesses against Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, the alleged draft dodger, Edward Dyer, a former operative of the same agency, was taken into custody today on a like charge. Further revelations of the plot in which they are alleged to have been engaged while in the employ of Mrs. Bergdoll were made today by John P. Dwyer, Secretary of Draft Board No. 32, which is bringing against Bergdoll the draft evasion charges on which he will be tried by court-martial at Governor's Island, New York, on March 6.

When delay in the trial of Bergdoll was granted, following his plea of insanity, he instructed Captain Bruce Campbell, his military counsel, to investigate charges he made that Mr. Dwyer had accepted bribes, had been prejudiced against him and that he had been called on the telephone by Mr. Dwyer a year after he had deserted.

The case was accepted by the Burns Agency in New York and Dwyer was assigned to the case here with Davis. Mrs. Bergdoll paid $500 as the initial retaining fee. A room was engaged in the Adelphia Hotel. The detectives first attempted to reach Miss Gibbs, one of the draft board clerks, according to Mr. Dwyer. She, however, was ill. Nevertheless, Dwyer asserts, the detectives made up reports purporting to give conversations with her in which she made statements damaging to Dwyer.

They then sought Miss Gertrude Raune, another clerk. On Tuesday, Feb. 3, Dwyer called Miss Raune on the telephone at her home. He introduced himself as Edward Dwyer of Syracuse, N. Y., and told her he had been in the army at Camp Jackson. While there, he stated, he had received a sweater bearing Miss Ruane's name and address. The detective asked her to make a dance engagement. She asked him to call. In the meantime she told Dwyer and he in turn called on Major Wynne of the District Attorney's staff to watch the actions of the suspected agent of Mrs. Bergdoll. Dwyer called on the woman, but Gertrude's twin sister, Margaret, acted as her substitute and received the alleged soldier, who never had served in the army.

On another occasion one of the sisters accompanied one of the detectives to a dance, they being shadowed throughout the evening by an automobile containing Major Wynne's men. While the twin sisters were reporting all they learned to Dwyer, the detectives, according to his story, were making glowing reports to Mrs. Bergdoll.

Dwyer charges they invented an "affinity" for him, told how this affinity handled all the graft money which they said he had received, and told of damaging admissions made by Miss Ruane, although they were never certain just which Miss Ruane it was who made the admissions. However, the reports failed to satisfy Mrs. Bergdoll, and she employed another detective agency to watch the Burns men. Thus the two detectives, although unaware of it, were being watched from two angles by Major Wynne and his men, in the interest of the Government, and by the other agency in the interest of Mrs. Bergdoll.

Dwyer made it clear that the two detectives were promptly dismissed by William J. Burns as soon as he learned of the nature of the case, and that the Burns Agency has since co-operated fully with Major Wynne in perfecting the investigation.

At the Burns Detective Agency, in the Woolworth Building, all questions concerning the Bergdoll case were referred to William J. Burns, head of the bureau, who left his Scarborough home yesterday noon for New York, where he could not be found last night. Beyond saying that Mrs. Emma Bergdoll had engaged the Burns Agency before he was retained as her son's civilian attorney, Harry Weinberger refused to discuss the case yesterday.

The board of medical officers detailed by Lieut. Gen. Robert Lee Bullard, Commander of the Department of the East, to examine Bergdoll with a view to determining his sanity, is expected to report either today or tomorrow. Drs. Smith Ely Jelliffe and Menas S. Gregory, two New York alienists retained by the defense, will not express their opinion as to Bergdoll's mental condition until after the army doctors report their findings.

16,000 IN WELSH STRIKE.

LONDON, Monday, March 1.—The steel workers in South Wales decided on Saturday on a lightning strike to secure a 40 per cent. advance in wages, refused by the masters on Friday. It is expected that at least 16,000 steel workers will be affected by the decision.

The steel workers' wages at present range from £8 to £25 a week. The strikers have ignored the union's advice and have thrown over their leaders.

Everybody's Business

The other day in a Milwaukee shop a woman worker admired a fur coat but had only part of the cash necessary to purchase.

The proprietor graciously agreed to cash two one-hundred-dollar Liberty Bonds for $140 as part payment, and the woman agreed very happily.

This shopkeeper later volunteered the information that most of his trade could not afford his furbelows, but were glad to let him have their bonds as they didn't appreciate their value.

Within five years 20,000,000 people have bought government bonds—any bonds—for the first time in their lives—they did it for patriotic reasons.

A deplorably large number are not yet "sold" on the value of their own holdings—hence extravagance with obvious ills in consequence.

"Something should be done about it." "Why don't the newspapers and magazines do something." "There should be a law," etc., etc.

"What's everybody's business is nobody's business."

No wise, far-sighted private corporation would permit its goods or its securities to be kicked around without protection after sale.

The best protection for our bond issues would lie in educating the holders to their values.

National education can always be effected best by the constant iteration and re-iteration of national advertising.

THE NEW YORK CENTRAL LINES have been demobilized. Once more they are in the hands of their owners. We are proud of our war record. Whatever we could do to help win the war was done gladly and with the zeal of patriotism which animated every good American. By reason of our superior equipment and splendid personnel, we were able to contribute to the country an efficient, never-failing transportation service which played an important part in bringing victory.

CHANGED conditions confront the railroads of the country, presenting for solution serious problems. Our rolling-stock is depleted, for, during the war, purchases could not keep pace with the demands of traffic. It will be impossible to restore overnight all the refinements of service which made this the best railroad in the country, or for that matter, in the world. But that will be done, as quickly as lies within human power. We are fully alive to our responsibilities to the public. We want the co-operation and good-will of the public and the public's representatives, the officials of the federal government and the various States which we serve, and intend to deserve them in fullest measure.

TO that end, we purpose to discuss frankly with the public our policies, our ideals, our service, our equipment, our personnel. We want to retain old friends and to make new ones on the basis of thorough knowledge and understanding. Thus we can serve the public as it should be served by a modern, efficient railroad.

HUNT FOR BANDITS IN MEXICO FAILS

Arizona Posse Returns After Search Below Border for Mexican Murderers.

TROOPS SCOUR THIS SIDE

Second Victim, Believed to be a Canadian, Is Dying from Raiders' Bullets.

NOGALES, Ariz., Feb. 29.—Sheriff R. R. Earhart's posse returned to Montana Camp tonight after a fruitless search below the international boundary line for Ezequiel Lara and a companion, alleged Mexican bandits, charged with the killing of Alexander J. Fraser and the serious wounding of his brother, John A. Fraser, during a raid Friday at Arivaca, Pima County, Arizona.

A second posse sent out in search of the first was recalled.

Sheriff Earhart said he followed a "hot trail" to the border, but after he crossed he lost all trace of the bandits.

Colonel E. C. Carnahan, Commander of the Nogales Military District, emphatically denied tonight that men of his command had gone into Mexico in pursuit of Lara and his companion.

John A. Fraser is dying tonight of his wounds, surgeons at the army base hospital said. His wife and children are enroute to his bedside from San Diego.

Divisional General Manuel M. Diguez, who today assumed full command of the military forces in the State of Sonora, accompanied by the Mexican Consul here and the Mayor of Nogales, Sonora, called late yesterday on American Consul Francis J. Dyer and expressed regrets over the killing of Alexander Fraser and the wounding of John A. Fraser.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Feb. 29.—Troop A of the Tenth Cavalry, with headquarters at Fort Huachaca, Ariz., is scouring the country around Ruby, Ariz., for some clue to the bandits who killed Alexander Fraser and wounded his brother, John Fraser, Colonel W. A. Holbrook, Southern Department Chief of Staff, said tonight.

Under existing orders the troops, who are negroes, can follow a "hot trail" into Mexico after the bandits, Colonel Holbrook said. No report of the discovery of a "hot trail" has been received at the department headquarters yet, he added.

No Troops Across Border.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29.—Secretary of War Baker said tonight he had not been advised that any American forces had crossed the Mexican border in pursuit of the bandits who raided the Arizona border mining town of Ruby, attacking the general store and Post Office of the Fraser brothers, killing Alexander Fraser, an American, and wounding his borther, John, said to be a Canadian. Secretary Baker said that General Dickman, in command along the border, had full authority to deal with such a situation. General Dickman, it is stated, has sent no message to Washington calling for action by the authorities here.

The State Department has been advised by the American consul at Nogales regarding the attack on the Fraser brothers. The State Department paraphrased the dispatch in this announcement today:

"The killing of Alexander J. Fraser, an American citizen, and the wounding of his brother, Jack Fraser, said to be a Canadian citizen, during a raid by two Mexicans at Arivaca, Puna County, Arizona, on the night of Feb. 27, has been reported to the Department by the American Consul at Nogales.

"The bandits looted the general store operated by the Fraser brothers and robbed the post office at Ruby, in Santa Cruz County, Arizona. The Department was advised that Jack Fraser was wounded in the head and taken to the base hospital at Nogales."

TWO KILLED BY TRAINS.

Unidentified Men Victims on Subway and Elevated.

A man who has not been identified, about 30 years old, dressed well in dark clothing, with $95.64 in his pockets, was killed by a subway train in the 103d Street station yesterday morning. The motorman and station attendants were puzzled as to how he got on the tracks. The body was taken to the morgue from the West 104th Street Police Station.

Another man whose identity also was an uncertainty last night deliberately laid himself across the tracks of an approaching Third Avenue elevated train at the Seventy-sixth Street Station yesterday afternoon, according to witnesses. He was killed instantly and a fire truck company was needed to get his body from under the train. He was about 55 years old, 5 feet 7 inches tall, weighed about 165 pounds, had mixed gray hair and a dark moustache and wore a dark gray suit tailored by Doblin, Fulton and Jay Streets, Brooklyn, the label of which read: "W. R. Spencer, made Nov. 30, 1909."

REVOLUTION URGED AT SOCIALIST CONGRESS

Loriot, Leader of French Extremists, for a Workmen's Council Dictatorship.

STRASBOURG, Feb. 29.—Paul Faure, amid great confusion, warned the National Socialist Congress today against a "premature revolution." He declared that the Italian party, "although extremely well organized, has not yet found a revolution possible."

Revolution was advocated by M. Loriot, leader of the extreme French Socialists, who said the dictatorship could not be divided between the workmen's councils and unions, as it belonged to the former. Pierre Renaudel then recalled that M. Loriot, whom he described as a "disciple of Lenin," wrote in 1914 that Prussian militarism must be destroyed.

M. Renaudel quoted Nikolai Lenin as writing in 1917 that the Socialists in every country ought to accept defeat. M. Fefevbre rushed to the tribune, shouting: "It would have been better for France to have been beaten in 1914!" The meeting protested against this.

The Congress adopted the motion of the French Socialist Party to quit the Second Internationale. There were four dissenting votes, cast by M. Renaudel, Alexandre Varenne, M. Marquet and M. Poisson.

No decision was reached as to whether the Socialists should join the Third Internationale.

FAVOR SELLING TAX FOR SOLDIERS' BONUS

Many Congressmen Believe This Method Best—Might Raise $2,000,000,000.

REVENUE IS NOW LACKING

For This Reason the Hope Is Expressed That Problem May Go Over to Next Congress.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29.—If bonuses are granted by the present Congress to American World War soldiers, new taxes will be required, and in the opinion of members of the Ways and Means Committee a selling tax, about the only means of taxation unexhausted, must be applied.

Those who have been considering this subject say that the income of the Government will be absorbed by the necessary and ordinary expenses, and that no further loans or Treasury certificates can be issued without injury to outstanding Government obligations and general business.

More than forty Republican members of the House, with many Democrats, including ex-Speaker Clark and Representative Pou of North Carolina, have exerted pressure on Congressional leaders, with the result that the House Steering Committee has abandoned its tentative plans of postponing the bonus issue until the next Congress.

Some members, who foresee all the revenues of the next fiscal year being absorbed for ordinary expenses, hope that, when these facts are presented in the Ways and Means Committee hearings, the leaders of the American Legion will advise postponement until next year, when the revenues may permit inclusion of bonus legislation without resort to unusual means of taxation.

The hearings will start on Tuesday, when the officers of the American Legion and authors of bonus bills will be heard. While the opposition to immediate bonus legislation is strong among the members of the committee, even among the Democrats, the subject is such a delicate one and has so much bearing on diverse political fortunes that it is not likely an out and out expression of this opposition will be registered. Representative Joseph W. Fordney, chairman of the committee, favors the immediate granting of bonuses.

In considering sources of taxation for bonus purposes, general opinion seems to favor a selling tax. The question of such a tax of one-half of 1 per cent., to be absorbed by the retailer, has been suggested. It is estimated that such a tax, continued for a year and a half, would raise about $2,000,000,000, the outside figure required to reward the soldiers, according to the estimates. Just as soon as this amount is raised the tax would be abandoned.

The plan of issuing bonds to the soldiers for the amount of bonus given each individual was abandoned, because financiers are convinced that in the majority of cases these bonds would be sold on the market so greatly below par as to force down the present low market value of Liberty bonds, and that this would not give the benefit to the soldier intended.

Two Other Vexatious Problems.

The problem of bonuses is one of the most perplexing before Congress. There is no desire on the part of members of Congress to refuse such legislation, but the present objection is solely one of lack of money.

The bonus question takes its place along with two other unsettled difficult questions. For months the Ways and Means Committee has considered without action what to do in the case of foreign loans. Treasury officials have urged that interest on the $9,500,000,000 loaned to foreign Governments shall not be collected for three years, and that the notes be refunded into fifteen-year bonds, without collecting interest on the delayed three-year interest. This interest amounts to $475,000,000 a year, and the remission of interest on interest for fifteen years would amount to nearly a billion dollars.

This has to be settled before Congress adjourns, along with the proposal to aid the starving peoples of Europe. The Ways and Means Committee reported a bill authorizing the United States Grain Corporation to expend $50,000,000 to feed the needy in Austria, Poland and Armenia.

DYING MAN LOCKED UP.

Sent from Hospital to Police Station with Fractured Skull.

District Attorney Francis A. Martin of the Bronx announced last night that he would begin an investigation today into the circumstances of the death of Harry Breuer of 1300 Clay Avenue, the Bronx, who died in Fordham Hospital yesterday afternoon after an operation for a fractured skull.

Breuer was injured in a fight in a lunch wagon at Tremont and Park Avenues the Bronx, at 2 o'clock yesterday morning. Patrolman Struebel of the Tremont Avenue Police Station called an ambulance surgeon to treat a wound in Breuer's head and the injured man was taken to Fordham Hospital, where after examination he was returned to the police station. It is the belief of the District Attorney that Breuer should have been placed in the prison ward at the hospital even if his injuries were at first diagnosed as superficial.

At 11 o'clock yesterday morning Norman O'Rourke, an attendant in the police station, reported the prisoner to be in a comatose condition, and the ambulance was called again from Fordham Hospital. The same surgeon took him back to the hospital. There it was learned that the prisoner's skull was fractured and he was put upon the operating table. He died late in the afternoon. The police are seeking the man who attacked Breuer.

our own scientific men, which later produced masks, found methods of manufacturing gases already in use, and found new gases of a novel and peculiarly powerful character.

"It is not generally known that the largest society of scientists in the world is the American Chemical Society. If, as appears now to be the promise, the immediate future is to be largely in the hands of the chemists, America need not look forward despairingly, for we have a stock of men of this training which no other nation can excel. The one product of the war which seems sure of a commercial future is the gas 'helium.' Had the war lasted some time longer, dirigibles and blimps inflated with this noninflammable American gas would have added a new terror to the contest between the chemists of Germany and those of America.

"That Congress is disposed to encourage research work of a practical character dealing with the higher development of our physical resources there can be no question. Of this, the very existence of the Geological Survey, the Bureau of Standards, the Agricultural Department and the Bureau of Mines is sufficient proof."

Mr. Lane has this to say of his plans for land for returned soldiers:

"A year before the war closed it became evident that provision must be made for the soldiers on their return. To meet this I made the suggestion that the opportunity should be availed of to reclaim those great bodies of unused lands which are now found in almost every State. For a hundred years we had had one policy to meet after the war conditions: it was traditional that our soldiers should be given a chance at the land. For nearly two years the matter has been before Congress, and thus far without action, although over 150,000 soldiers have signified a desire for farms under the plan proposed.

"There is a much larger thought behind this plan than the furnishing of farm homes to war heroes. The stability of the country is in no slight measure measured by the number of those who have an interest in its lands. Present industrial tendencies are antinational. They make for the breaking of allegiances which are fundamental to a potent and self-sufficient nation. The life of the great city is feverish and wars with that serenity of spirit in which calm judgments are come at; and such judgments are vitally necessary to the success of democracy. Therefore there is the highest reason for setting the influence of the State against the drift to the cities, which is at present even stronger than before the war.

"Moreover, there is but one way in which our farm areas can be increased, and that is by draining or clearing or irrigating the lands now out of use. Small farms worked and lived on by their owners will hold this country to its ideals, and no better class can be gathered than men who have had the experiences which these soldiers have had. I believe that view will yet be taken by Congress, and we shall see inaugurated a more modern method of building the country into homes."

In conclusion Mr. Lane says: "The supreme usefulness of this department is to lie in its ability to make clear the fuller uses to which our resources of many kinds may be put. The call is for thinking, planning, engineering statesmanship. For we are quickly passing out of the rough-and-ready period of our national life, in which we have dealt wholesale with men and things, into a period of more intensive development in which we must seek to find the special qualities of the individual unit, whether that unit be an acre of desert, a barrel of oil, a mountain canyon, the flow of a river or the capacity of the humblest of men. To conquer and to master—the same old task is ours, but not in the same old way."

AMERICAN KILLED IN KOVNO.

S. J. Harris, Jr., Victim of Mutiny of Lithuanian Troops.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 29.—Word has been received by Mrs. Samuel J. Harris of this city telling of the death of her son, First Lieutenant Samuel J. Harris, Jr., from wounds received while helping to suppress the recent mutiny of troops in Kovno, Lithuania. The message came from Commander Gade at the headquarters at Riga.

Lieutenant Harris was a student at Dickinson College, Carlisle, at the time of his first enlistment with Company G of the old 8th Regiment, and served a year on the Mexican border. Later he re-enlisted and went overseas with the 112th Regiment, 28th Division. Subsequently he had joined the Lithuanian Army and was an instructor at the time of his death.

Lieutenant Harris was a son of the late S. J. Harris, a former Sheriff of Cumberland County.

SAYS FRENCH SAVED CAPITAL TO TURKS

Bishop Darlington Asserts Holders of Turkish Bonds Decided Constantinople's Fate.

PROTEST BY MASS MEETING

Held Despite Hint from Washington—Dr. Manning Criticises Action of Supreme Council.

A large holding of Turkish bonds in France was the reason the Supreme Council decided to permit the Turk to remain in Constantinople, according to information reaching the Rt. Rev. J. H. Darlington, Episcopal Bishop of Western Pennsylvania, who addressed an emergency mass meeting held yesterday afternoon in the Synod Hall of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, for the purpose of protesting against retaining Turkey in Constantinople and the nonfulfillment of allied pledges to Armenia.

Bishop Darlingon said he gleaned his information from well informed individuals who returned recently from abroad. The general opinion among them, he said, was that millions of Turkish bonds would be worth nothing unless a mortgage was placed on Constantinople. From 64 to 65 per cent. of all the bonds, he said, were in the hands of Frenchmen, according to his informants.

Although the meeting was arranged on forty-eight hours notice the Synod Hall was crowded to capacity, and more than 500 men and women applauded enthusiastically attacks on the cruelty of the Turks and the expression of hope that the Supreme Council would carry out its pledges to Armenia.

The other speakers were Dr. William T. Manning, rector of Trinity Church, and Captain George B. Hyde, who observed the results of Turkish cruelty while attached to the Red Cross in Turkey.

Washington Hint Ignored.

The meeting was held in spite of a strong hint from Washington that it would be advisable not to hold it at the present time for fear of embarrassing our Allies. It was reported that Henry Morgenthau, former Ambassador to Turkey, had originally been expected to be one of the speakers but that he cancelled the appointment because of word from Washington. Mr. Morgenthau said last night that he did not accept the invitation to speak but that he was preparing his views on the subject and would make them public on Thursday night at a dinner of the Near East Relief at the Hotel Biltmore.

Mr. Morgenthau admitted that the authorities at Washington at the present time did not desire protest meetings to be held on the decision of the Supreme Council to permit the Turk to remain in Constantinople.

A resolution was adopted calling for the expulsion of the Turk from Europe. It said that Armenia was receiving one-eighth of the territory originally assigned to it. Dr. Manning was instructed to forward the resolution of protest to President Wilson and the Supreme Council.

The action of the Supreme Council, said Dr. Manning in his address, left the Armenians with no hope for the future. No single argument for the retention of the Turk in Europe, he said, could stand the light, and his presence there was a monument to old diplomacy at its worst. "The old diplomacy of expediency, self-interest and mutual distrust."

Ridicules Turks' Argument.

Captain Hyde said the argument used to justify the retention of Constantinople by the Turks was so childish that it was time this bubble was punctured. The city had never been considered a sacred shrine of Islam, he asserted. But such consideration never prevented the Allies during the war from throwing the Turks out of three real holy places, Mecca, Medina and Jerusalem.

Among those who sent messages sympathizing with the purpose of the meeting were U. S. Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Walter George Smith, former President of the American Bar Association; Jacob Gould Schurman, President of Cornell University; A. Lawrence Lowell, President of Harvard University; Alton B. Parker, Gifford Pinchot, Cardinal Gibbons, Myron T. Herrick, Dr. Ernest M. Stires, John Grier Hibben, President of Princeton University; Lyman Abbott, Dr. Joseph Silverman and Dr. Charles E. Jefferson.

Despondent Woman Hangs Herself.

Despondent because of slow recovery from influenza, Mrs. Naumi Zweiter committed suicide yesterday by hanging herself to a waterpipe in the basement of her home at 767 Georgia Avenue, Brooklyn. She gave her three children their dinner and then sent them out to play. Her five-year-old daughter, Mary, returned to ask a question and discovered her mother hanging from the pipe. She told a policeman, who summoned the father, Joseph, from his work.

URGE MANDATE FOR TURKEY.

New York and Montclair Armenians Send a Memorial to Lloyd George.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., Feb. 29.—Prominent Armenians of this town and New York today sent a memorial to Premier Lloyd George calling upon him to exert his influence to establish a mandate for Turkey.

One of the signers of the memorial is Dikran M. Bedikian, who said that a prominent Armenian in New York stood ready to give $1,000,000 to a "public national fund" which would be used to bring about the rehabilitation of Turkey and Armenia.

"The Turks should never be allowed to govern again," says the memorial. "Some way ought to be found to a mandate for Turkey as well as Armenia, by national co-operation. First, a public national fund should be provided, subscribed to by every nation, Government or private people; second, volunteers should be called for from every nation, and, third, a commander-in-chief should be chosen who is able to administer his duties as a first class business man.

"You are afraid of the 70,000,000 Mohammedans in India, but if you were to have them vote on the question you would not find five men who approve of the Turkish Government as it now is. The supreme moment of the Peace Conference has arrived, but if the Turks are allowed to remain in Constantinople peace will not come. The bottom of the perennial source of trouble lies in Turkey. The world has become too familiar with Turkish methods to be fooled again as they have been fooled so often in the past. Do not trust Turkish words and promises."

Dinner to Japanese Ambassador.

Judge Elbert H. Gary will preside at the dinner to be given by the Japan Society at the Hotel Astor Wednesday evening, in honor of K. Shidehara, the new Japanese Ambassador to the United States. In addition to the Ambassador and Judge Gary the speakers will be Dr. Henry van Dyke, formerly United States Minister to Holland, and Charles H. Sherrill, formerly Minister to Argentina, who recently returned from Japan.

PRIEST WARNS OF SPIRITS.

Sees Diabolism in "Ancient Pagan Cult."

There is nothing new about spiritualism, at it was known and condemned in the time of Moses, the Very Rev. John E. Wickham, Superior of the Apostolate Fathers of the Archdiocese of New York, told the big audience at high mass yesterday in St. Patrick's Cathedral. Catholics are forbidden to attend spiritualistic seances he said, or become mediums of what he termed "this ancient pagan cult."

Many of the so-called facts of spiritualism can be ascribed to fraud, Father Wickham said, as was the case of the Italian woman, Eusapia Palladino. "Some facts are explained by hypnotic influences, some facts point to diabolic agency," he added.

"Spiritualism has wrecked more than one brilliant intellect, and mind specialists can relate many sad cases of complete nervous breakdown resultant from dabbling in spiritualistic practices," Father Wickham continued. "It is manifested in the feverish excitement produced by the weird seances, the mediums, under stress of varied type, bringing about such phenomena as table rapping, the spelling of the ouija board, the speaking of unknown tongues.

"The Catholic Church believes that they that have done good and been in perfect friendship with God shall go after death to a place of eternal life and happiness; they that have done great sin, unrepented for, will be sent to a place of everlasting perdition. Purgatory, according to the Church's teaching, is a place or condition of temporary punishment. The Church believes that the souls in Purgatory are helped by the prayers of the faithful, especially by the acceptable sacrifice of the altar."

King George Honors Capt. B. A. Long.

Captain Byron A. Long, U. S. N., son-in-law of Samuel W. Fairchild of New York, now serving with the Atlantic Fleet off Guantanamo, Cuba, has been notified by the Secretary of the Navy that he has been made a Commander of the Order of the British Empire by King George, in recognition of his war services.

Still in active service after thirty years—

The following paragraph is from a letter recently received:—

"I still have in daily use several card cabinets that were purchased from Library Bureau in 1889". The drawers and drawer slides work as easily as the day they were made!

Thirty years! Purchased before Edison perfected his first wax cylinder phonograph! Before Idaho and Wyoming were admitted into the Union! Before the automobile! Before the electric street car!

Long life and continued service are as much a part of Library Bureau filing equipment as the speed, accuracy and simplicity of Library Bureau filing systems.

As one purchasing agent puts it:—"I can always purchase filing equipment from Library Bureau with confidence and a clear conscience. I know it will last. I know I can depend on it".

Automatic-writing

Unlike Planchette or the Ouija Board

Waterman's Ideal Fountain Pen

is ready to write instantly, whenever and wherever "the spirit moves."

Its writing point is permanent—it never has to be sharpened and its "records" neither fade or rub out.

Whether the "communication" is one you are sending or receiving your Waterman's Ideal will glide over the paper without skip, dip, or scratch, with such unconscious effort on your part that its action can truly be said to be "automatic."

Waterman's Ideal Fountain Pen is so scientifically automatic that it has been incorporated as part of the marvelous "SIGNAGRAPH," an instrument used by the government and large corporations for signing as many as twenty documents simultaneously.

It is also an essential part of the DYNAMOMETER, an instrument that automatically records the speed, drag, track grade and vibration of a locomotive traveling at all speeds.

This unfailing reliability, extending over 36 years, has made Waterman's Ideal Fountain Pen the favorite writing tool throughout the world with men of affairs, scientists, scholars, authors, students, doctors, the clergy, and, in fact, all whose business or social requirements demand personal handwriting.

2,000 ARMY OFFICERS TO SUFFER DEMOTION

General March Orders Drastic Reduction from Temporary to Regular Grades.

HITS WASHINGTON BUREAUS

Only a Few Surplus Officers Now on Active Duty with Troops.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29—Drastic reduction of permanent officers of the army from their temporary ranks to regular army grades, effective March 15, has been ordered by General March, Chief of Staff. Of approximately 3,000 officers now holding temporary ranks higher than their permanent appointments, about 2,000 probably will be returned to their regular status.

Field officers only will be affected. The number of offivers holding General rank is now within the allowance, and there will be no cut in the grades of those below the rank of Major.

Final lists for demotion have not yet been compiled. Orders were sent out recently from the office of the Chief of Staff, directing commanders of territorial departments and heads of bureaus to submit recommendations for extensive reductions, and these reports are now being studied by the General Staff.

The bulk of demotions is expected to come from the bureaus in Washington, as there are only a few surplus officers of temporary rank on duty with troops. Recommendations of bureau chiefs have not been uniform, but range from 50 to 75 per cent. As emergency officers will continue to hold their present grades the demotion plan is said to present difficulties in some bureaus, such as the Quartermaster and Ordnance Corps, where reduction of regular officers would leave section chiefs with lower rank than many emergency officers now serving under them.

Under the commonly termed 18,000 officers law, which authorized that number of officers as the temporary maximum, all emergency officers must be discharged by July 1, unless additional legislation is enacted.

There were approximately 7,800 regular officers holding temporary rank at the signing of the armistice. Reductions have been made from time to time since Nov. 11, 1918, in accordance with the policy announced by Secretary Baker of demoting officers as soon as the emergency duty which justified the higher grade has been completed, with the result that to date more than 4,000 demotions have occurred.

ASK DELAY IN LEGISLATION.

Special Commission Recommended to Study Health Insurance.

Delay in legislation establishing a State system of health insurance until a special commission can make a study and devise a constructive plan is asked by Warren S. Stone, Chairman of the Social Insurance Committee of the National Civic Federation and Grand Chief of the International Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, in a letter to the New York State Legislature made public yesterday. Similar letters were addressed to the Legislatures of Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New Jersey and Virginia, where legislation of this nature is contemplated.

The report of the committee indicates that prevention of disease is not a function of insurance, and states that the British compulsory health insurance law has been a failure.

Mr. Stone said that the purpose sought by his committee was to furnish a constructive plan indicating what may be done to relieve conditions arising through sickness.

January 30th. 1920.19

Dear Sir,

As a result of our visit of investigation into the conditions of milk control and distribution in the United States and Canada, we desire to ask whether you would kindly agree to act in an advisory capacity in connection with the improvement of the milk supply of London - so far as this is under our control ?

As you are aware we recently visited most of the larger cities of the United States and Canada - our journey having been made expressly for the purpose of studying the various systems in use for assuring the purity of the milk supply.

We were profoundly impressed with the methods in operation in the best Dairies in all parts of your great Continent but, with a very thorough knowledge and appreciation of these, we have no hesitation in ascribing to your methods and work the foremost position in the world, and we should indeed be happy if with your kind guidance we were able to introduce and popularise these methods in England.

It is because we are convinced that your system best meets the demands of hygiene, promotes child welfare, and avoids culpable waste of milk that we are constrained to ask you to add to your present heavy burden of responsibility by assisting us out of your great experience in the task which lies before us of improving methods in this country.

We are, Dear Sir,
Yours faithfully,

Arthur Barham
Ben Davies.
Directors,
United Dairies, Ltd.

SHEFFIELD METHODS and Sheffield plants are open to everyone—Consumer, Producer or Dealer. The knowledge we have gained in our efforts to advance the standards of milk service we have offered freely to anybody who desired to benefit by its use. In the same spirit we offer our co-operation to the largest milk dealers in Europe.

MR. LODGE'S DISTRUSTFUL FRIENDS.

In a singularly naïve document the League for the Preservation of American Independence begs every friend of liberty "to make the utmost financial sacrifice" he or she is "at the moment capable of making" to bring aid to the support of the weary Senators who now for twelve months have had to withstand the impact of the tremendous public and private forces which the Administration has been able to throw against them," urging them to ratify the Peace Treaty and accept the League of Nations.

It seems that the nefarious friends of business and peace have carried on "an enormous propaganda." They have set out false lights to the misleading of "so many people, in colleges, churches, Boards of Trade, and other similar organizations." To the falcon-eyed sentinels on the ramparts of the L. P. A. I. "are appearing distinct signs of weakness in the ranks of those who have hitherto held fast for our traditional rights." Therefore must the faithful subscribe "large funds" at once.

In short, nobody wants ratification and the League of Nations except a majority of the people; and even the basaltic souls "of those who hitherto held fast" may melt before the communicative ardor of the manifest popular will.

A truly touching confession and dun; yet, too quick despairer, wherefore wilt thou go, disconsolate, and [illegible] resonantly the begging dish? Can the mere demands of business and labor, finance, commerce, industry, agriculture, schools, colleges, churches; can the hopes and prayers of multitudinous "common" men and women for the long peace of the world, for a permanent benefit from the war, for a release from the burden of competitive armaments, for deliverance from the blind hopelessness of the old international hatreds—can such poor trifles soften Mr. Lodge and his associates in the art of compromising by making no concessions and of killing amid the blandest solicitude for a cure?

Why, Mr. Lodge would be one of the unhappiest instead of one of the best-satisfied of men and Senators if he felt any apprehension that the Republican strategy and tactics, varied a little from time to time only to deceive observers, wouldn't beat the enemy—to him and his associates, Mr. Wilson. To them the Treaty is anthropomorphic. They hate the man in the Treaty.

The Senate Committee on Foreign Relations was "packed" against the Treaty. Mr. Taft is a sufficient witness on that point. Its own conduct is still a better one. From the first the energy of all its Republican members, except Mr. McCumber, now apparently fairly orthodox again, has been given to the pious task of spoiling and smashing the Treaty, of discomfiting Mr. Wilson. What is the United States, what is the rest of the world, to Senators obsessed by an inextinguishable fixed idea? They killed the Treaty. They revived it the other day with a solemn pretense of zeal for its welfare, the affection of Joab for Amasa. The course followed in the discussion of withdrawal from the League was significant. The ingenuous Mr. Lodge affects to amend his own reservation. His amendment is beaten. Mr. Hitchcock's amendment to the original Lodge reservation is beaten. Then the original Lodge resolution is adopted. The Republican irreconcilables are in the saddle.

The Democrats who were willing to swallow the irreducible sacrosanct Lodge reservations on Article X. and the Monroe Doctrine, in consideration of modifications on withdrawal from the League and some other subjects, have naturally changed their minds. The Lodge program, however artfully fulfilled even in merely apparent differences between leader and followers, is one and the same. It is to take all and give nothing, to make no compromise. The Treaty is to be ratified only on condition that the covenant of the League of Nations is denatured, made impotent.

The L. P. A. I. needn't worry. While the old porcine system of international arrangements founded on national greed reawakens in Europe; while confidence and credit and reconstruction wait, Mr. Lodge and his Spartan band steadily resist the wishes and oppose the interests of a majority of the American people.

THE RETURN OF THE RAILROADS.

The American people woke up this morning to find the railroads of the country restored to private ownership and there was general rejoicing. Yet there ought not to be elation if the valedictory of Director General Hines was a sound certification of the success of Government management. Many railroad executives will dispute the logic of Mr. Hines and dissent from his conclusions. The report which he renders of his stewardship reads like a brief. He argues that his administration was economical at all points, and the companies are expected to be grateful because the Government deficit was no more than $715,000,000. The companies could not have done as well, he is sure. Mr. Hines will not admit that the working force was too big under him. To his own satisfaction he proves that there was no waste in labor. He meets the complaint that equipment has been lacking by asserting that "more has "been done than would have been "practicable under private control." The condition of the rolling stock is satisfactory to him, though the railroad men groan over it. Roadway and structure are substantially as sound as when the Government took the lines over, according to Mr. Hines, and he appears to regard his methods as worthy of study and imitation by the companies. He is confident that they have much to learn from the Government.

The third party, the public, is so glad to see the roads back in the hands of the old railroad executives that it will not begrudge Mr. Hines his complacency. He may be entirely pleased with Government control as directed by himself, but the third party has had to put up so much with cuts in train schedules, with crowded cars, with delays for hours running into days, and with a hundred and one exasperations in passenger and freight service that it has made up its mind that Government control has not been the success that Mr. Hines boasts it to be. The public is delighted to see the old executives take hold again to do business in the old way, with the extra assistance promised from the Interstate Commerce Commission.

For several weeks the old executives, no longer to be trammeled by Government rules and regulations, often hard to understand and harder to obey, have had their coats off preparing for 12:01 A. M. March 1, and if the traveling and shipping public will be patient during the reorganization period it will soon have an opportunity to judge by comparison of the two systems whether Government control deserved the encomiums lavished upon it by Director General Hines.

INADEQUATE FEDERAL STATUTES

Attorney General Palmer says that he would like to see an open forum like that in Hyde Park set up in every American city. At the same time, because "the right of free speech is "not the right of unbridled speech "without responsibility," he advocates a Federal law to punish the man who "promises, implies or threatens the "use of violence to overthrow the "Government of the country." To the "intellectual" radical who makes contributions for the support of Bolshevist propaganda the Attorney General's proposal is reactionary and dreadful. Why shouldn't an orator call for the overturning of the Government? he demands; and he asks whether it isn't the fact that Governments have been overturned in the past because the people could endure them no longer.

The question is of the application of the Attorney General's principle. Is there no occasion for it when attempts are being made by conspiring aliens and their sympathizers to force upon the people of the United States the kind of government which in Russia has proved more despotic, cruel and ruthless than the rule of the Czar, and has been even more subversive of human liberty? Will remedies intended for other times, when Constitution and laws were respected and anarchy dared not raise its head, suffice to cure the new madness that would pull down representative government everywhere and in its stead set up a counterfeit of liberty and progress? If the world were not suffering from the shock of the most terrible of all wars, if standards were not confused by the diabolical logic of radicals ruling without responsibility on the ruins of what previously was Russian civilization, if the test of reason were universally applied to solicitations to accept their crazy theories of government, and if the public mind were in a normal condition, the old remedies would be sufficient.

But it is known, the evidence being ample, that a widespread conspiracy exists under the surface of American life to destroy the governmental fabric of the Republic. The conspirators may not be numerous, but they are vicious, threatening and will stick at nothing. If not restrained by the enforcement of punitive laws adequate to deal with the emergency, the old remedies will be defied and anarchy in many localities may become a real peril. It is not a situation for complacency. Due consideration should be given by Congress to the Attorney General's proposed legislation.

THE BERMUDAN PERIL.

It is now proposed that part of the war debt due us from Britain be taken out in trade by the transfer of Bermuda to American sovereignty. Senator Kenyon has offered a resolution in the Senate directing the opening of negotiations to that end, and some outside support seems to have been found. We are reminded that Bermuda would be an excellent base for a European fleet operating against our coast. So would Halifax, for that matter; though the impossibility of acquiring the one is no argument, of course, against trying to get the other.

But it may be doubted if fear of the British fleet has much to do with this proposal. Bermuda may be dangerous from the point of view of naval strategy, but it offers a far more serious and more imminent moral menace. Bermuda is the most convenient haven of refuge for New Yorkers who want to get a drink—not so near as some of the Canadian cities, but easy to reach and more favored in climate. The jealous care for the morals of our city which prevails throughout so much of the rest of the country cannot long permit this island of temptation to remain within a few hundred miles of this dry coast. Something must be done about Bermuda; and since it cannot conveniently be sunk, it must be brought under American sovereignty and the prohibition amendment. If the British are recalcitrant, Bermuda may become an American Fiume, the object of an irredentist campaign; some of the most zealous protectors of the public morals are among those who would just as soon fight England anyway. The unhappy Bermoothes are still vexed.

MAJOR SCHROEDER'S RECORD.

An army officered by men as daring and resolute as Major R. W. Schroeder, who drove his airplane to an altitude of 36,020 feet on Feb. 27, would be invincible. In this point of view is the answer to those who regard the Major's attempt to attain 40,000 feet as foolhardy and wasteful of human energy. Such men as Schroeder head assaults that turn defeat into victory, they lead forlorn hopes, they are never beaten as long as troops will follow them. There is not a soldier in the United States Army, not a man who fought overseas, who does not recognize in Schroeder a captain whom it would be an honor to fight under.

Perhaps meteorology may learn nothing from aviators who risk death in flights that take them higher than the ice-capped peak of Everest, perhaps the climb for a record is a feat of sportsmanship and the army may lose a promising officer, perhaps the performance has no military value; nevertheless, what is done inspires other men to acts of indomitable courage, and it is worth while.

Major Schroeder, after falling five miles in a state of unconsciousness, and in the end making a landing somehow with his nerve centres paralyzed, and temporarily blinded, vows that he will try again when he recovers from the shock. As the Major made a record with several thousand feet to spare and escaped death as if by a miracle, the War Department might hint to him that he has done enough for the prestige of the army for the present, and that occasions for distinction nearer the earth will come to him. A soldier of such mettle and dexterity will not let them pass. Destiny is inexorable when aviators cultivate the habit of braving death. The Government may reasonably claim Major Schroeder's services at less than 30,000 feet.

EGYPT AND "ABROAD."

Senator Owen has proposed a reservation to the Treaty which stipulates that "the protectorate of Great Britain over Egypt is understood to be merely a means through which the nominal sovereignty of Turkey over Egypt shall be transferred to the Egyptian people." A Washington dispatch to a newspaper which is hospitable to all changes in the Treaty observed in comment that "the feeling has been growing in the Senate for several months that the United States could not consistently become a party to a treaty which might leave in doubt the rights of the Egyptians to self-determination." Senator Norris took four hours of the Senate's time the other day to recite the wrongs of Egypt, bedewing the floor of the Senate Chamber with tears such as one cannot remember his shedding over Belgium or Poland.

If we believe Senator Norris, "American lives and American blood are mortgaged to add Egypt to the British Empire," and the next time there is a riot in Cairo Lord Allenby will probably send for the garrisons of Honolulu or the Canal Zone to put it down. This is important, but not true. Yet one may wonder why Senators who are so eager to have nothing to do with "abroad" are solicitous for Egypt. Senator Owen was interested in the struggles of races oppressed by Germany and Austria-Hungary, and his attention may perhaps have been turned to Egypt because he felt that Europe had been settled. But what of other Senators who are so afraid that the Treaty will involve us with the rest of the world? They know, if they have read the Treaty, that the strictest construction of Article X. would never obligate any other Power to assist in repressing Egyptian insurrections, so ignorance can hardly be their excuse. There is no Egyptian vote, so another possibility is eliminated. One must suppose either that a number of Senators think that they can go on twisting the lion's tail forever without consequences, or that there is some subtle difference between downtrodden Egypt, deserving of American aid, and the rest of abroad whose touch will only contaminate us.

POLITICAL PERFECTIONISM.

We hear, and like to hear, a great deal about that engaging and original National Chairman, Mr. Will Hays. All for principles, nothing for candidates, vigilant, wide-seeing and wide-journeying, polite to Democrats, honeyed, fluent, immensely active, beginner of a new school of political managers, he is without a parallel. Has not the immortal Hoosier germ of organization politics developed into something nobler, more poetical, more artistic, less parochial?

We love to believe it, nor shall the alarms stirred in so many trusty Indiana and other Republican bosoms by the swift forays of General Wood into the heart of the land make us doubt. In Indiana, as in Ohio, to go no further, is political perfectionism not to be adhered to by all cheerful souls? So if stories are told of Mr. Hays's insistence on unpledged delegates, devoutly wished by so many Anti-Ligneous politicians and candidates, what perfectionist will gulp down such legends, denied, indeed, but needing not denial?

Though Mr. Beveridge, turning from writing to making history, return to his own, his native State, where he has so many warm friends and enemies; though General Wood, avatar of Roosevelt, sounds his terrible approach to the Republican machine, there should not be any shadow of dubiety in perfectionist minds about the absolute readiness of that machine to play the game fairly and to "let the people decide for themselves"—if necessary by means of a few "slick" gentlemen in hotel rooms at Chicago next Summer—whom they want for President.

That brand plucked from the burning, that aureoled saint of reform, Senator Boies Penrose, is the choicest concrete example of the new order to the perfectionists. And, little as he says, and poor as his health has been, who is more likely than he to be the weight that turns the scales at Chicago?

QUALITY IN TEACHING.

In its gift of a million dollars toward a library for Teachers College the General Education Board emphasizes the need of quality in public education. Of the three thousand students in the college, almost one-third, or nine hundred, are taking graduate courses and are specialists in advanced methods of teaching and in school administration. Among them are Presidents and Deans of colleges and Superintendents of schools. Individual research is an important part of their work. For this a large and well-appointed library is fundamental. The importance of adequate equipment is sufficiently evident in the fact that in the United States as a whole one out of every seven trained teachers is a former student of Teachers College, while in the district east of the Mississippi the ratio is one out of six. The college is a national institution of a very high order.

For the time being chief stress is being laid upon quantity teaching, or rather upon the lack of it. During 1919, according to Acting Superintendent W. J. O'Shea, out of approximately 23,000 teachers in New York City 1,021 resigned to take positions that provide a living wage. Throughout the State resignations are very nearly as numerous. Children are being turned into the streets by tens of thousands. And the supply of teachers is drying up at the source. According to George W. Wiley, Assistant State Commissioner for Elementary Education, the registration in our ten State normal schools, which had increased steadily from 2,014 in 1909 to 3,628 in 1916, has now fallen to 1,871. The remedy lies with the State, and bills providing an adequate advance in teachers' salaries are now before the Legislature.

The gift of the General Education Board has the wider outlook which is characteristic of Rockefeller foundations. It goes beyond the daily need. The spirit of any service comes from above, and, if public education is to be adequate to the expanding requirements of Americanism, it must raise the teacher's calling to the full dignity of a profession. To do this is the intention of the present gift; and, urgent as are the needs of the moment, it is to be hoped that the two millions necessary to complete the library fund may be presently forthcoming.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Study of Current Predictions.

It is a fact of much significance that prophecies as to the course of prices vary, not as the opportunities for gaining trustworthy information which have been possessed and utilized by the prophets, but in accord with what it is not unfair to call their interests and therefore their desires. Almost unanimously do purveyors of life's necessaries—especially food, clothing and housing—pull long faces when consulted as to what is going to happen. Some of them are content to say that prices will not go down for two years at least, or ten years at most. Others are bolder and urge inquirers to "buy now," on the ground that prices are sure soon to be much higher than they are now.

Prediction of the more pleasing sort, to the effect that "the peak" has been reached and that before long there is going to be a decided and permanent decrease in the cost of living, comes with an equal approach to unanimity from official observers and investigators. These, too, are not entirely disinterested, for most of them have assumed, or been intrusted with, the task of catching profiteers and bringing down prices. It is only human that they should proclaim success in their efforts rather than failure, and their pleasing assurances therefore must be taken with some caution. Nevertheless, the incentive to be inaccurate is less in their case than in that of their rivals, and faith in them is helped also by everybody's eager hope that they are right.

Why Things Must Get Cheaper.

Nobody knows with certainty whether prices in the near future are going up or down, but there are several indisputable facts that justify defiance of those whose cry is, "Buy now or pay more later!" Prominent among them, if not first, is the fact that great numbers of people, from necessity or preference, are taking whatever risk there is in deferring as many purchases as they can. They are not going hungry or naked, and they are not sleeping in the park, but they are avoiding the more expensive foods, wearing their old clothes instead of getting new, and they are at least seeking cheaper rents, and occasionally finding them. All this tends to lower prices by cutting down demand.

Another thing that helps is the state of foreign exchange, which keeps on this side of the water great quantities of American goods that otherwise would go abroad, and so increases our supply. That, however, is a matter not safely to be approached by common folk.

Most encouraging fact of all is that wholesale prices now show more reductions than increases, and the reductions are on the more important commodities. Dun's list for last week had in it forty-six declines to thirty advances. As consumers know lamentably well, the relation between wholesale and retail prices is not so close as it might be. While retail prices go up instantly when wholesale prices move in that direction, they do not follow them the other way with any such speed. The retailers, as a class, believe thoroughly in the "replacement value" theory when it means profit for themselves, but are skeptical of its soundness when it means a loss.

Still, sooner or later, the retailers have to come down if the wholesalers do, and the change would be much accelerated if consumers studied the market reports more than they do and rendered themselves ready to make intelligent protests when dealers pay no attention to declines "at the source."

They Do What They Can.

As proof of good-will and to confute critics who are charging them with inactivity, the police have arrested something like a dozen men who, in police opinion, are not too good to have had a hand in the holdup of which Dr. Day and his assistants in the sale of excess naval stores were the victims. The majority of these suspects, to be sure, it has been necessary to release for lack of evidence—or abundance of the wrong kind—but there is a remnant still in custody, and that may be a step toward conviction. Also, it may not be.

There is something almost amusing in the news that in some cases these bold robberies are committed by men out on bail charged with other crimes of the same sort. It seems that they had to get money with which to pay the surety company for going on their bond, and what more convenient way to do it than by repeating the offense? The process is hardly one to be continued forever, but it would be practicable for a while.

Two reasons can be imagined for the large degree of immunity with which these crimes are perpetrated. It is a case of the success to be attained—as the copybooks noted long ago—when singleness of purpose competes with divided interest and attention. The police have many things to attend to, including more or less of politics inside and out of the force, while the aspiring brigand concentrates all his energy and such intelligence as he has on carrying out his selected plan for getting something for nothing. How that works out everybody knows—or likes to believe.

Then it must be remembered that the police are a little army defending a long line, and therefore are much extended, while their enemies, though even less numerous, can make a surprise attack at any one of many weakly held points. That is a big advantage of the powers that prey, for they, as well as military commanders, can utilize it.

Pelham Bay Park Is Defended.

For parks as for liberty, eternal vigilance is the price that must be paid. The price is high, but there are those who will pay it, and the result is that only at long intervals do the promoters of some "worthy object" succeed in eluding or overpersuading the guardians of the public's most precious property and effect their reprehensible purpose of doing a good thing in a bad way.

Central Park, fortunately, is more easily defended than those further away and less frequented, but that the others, too, are watched with some care is shown by the promptness with which energetic protest has been made against a proposed invasion of Pelham Bay Park.

This is one of the city's most beautiful and therefore most valuable possessions. Its size is large and "nature" has done much more for it than for Central Park—for which, indeed, she did little or nothing. Of course the Parks and Playgrounds Association is right, and more than right, in demanding of Governor Smith that he warn the Legislature that he will be firmly opposed to the establishment in Pelham Bay Park of an athletic field and stadium.

Again, the object is worthy and more than worthy, but neither this nor any other of the city's parks is the place for it. The object of a park is to be a park—a thing not for the benefiting of a particular class in a particular way, but for the pleasure of all. This truth never will be learned, probably, by all good citizens, but enough of them have been convinced of it now to make commendably difficult, and practically impossible, the path of the would-be invader, no matter how virtuous and well-intentioned.

LESSONS OF THE STORM.

Incompetent City Management and Indifferent Citizenship.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

After trying for a fortnight to collect the pay for a few hours' work for the Street Cleaning Department, I can suggest at least one of the reasons why capable men are not allured even by the promise of 80 cents an hour.

Skipping the five hours wasted in trying to find work—at a time when the department complained that men could not be had—let us jump to what happens when work is done. The laborer, after standing in line in the cold for half an hour or more, gets his ticket punched with the number of hours worked. This ticket, which ought easily to be cashed, may only be turned into money at the branch office where the man was hired, when the paymaster is there. This mysterious individual is supposed to come twice a week at about 7 o'clock in the evening, but he goeth when he listeth, and he may come Monday, or it may be Tuesday, and at 7 or 11 or midnight.

In my own case I missed him on his first visit, and was told next day to go to the Municipal Building. After three visits there, I finally found the cash window working, only to be told that "they only sent you here to get rid of you," and that the only place tickets could be cashed was the branch office. I was on hand at 7 the next pay-day evening, was told to return at 9, and after finally giving it up that night, made a deal with an amiable maid servant, living near by, to collect the honorarium on a commission. She returned the ticket after the next pay day with the report that when she had gone to bed at 11 o'clock the men were still in line, having broken a window with their pushing, and that as a matter of fact they were not paid until 3 o'clock in the morning.

Undoubtedly, if nothing but this money had stood between me and starvation I would have stood in line the first pay evening all night, if necessary, but it seems doubtful if the city is justified in treating even down-and-outers in this fashion, or if ambitious laborers are likely to be attracted by such a prospect.

There are plenty of good fellows among the snow shovelers—I shall remember the charming young Italian who improved my ice-breaking technique (and there is more of a trick with a pick than you might think); the exercise is splendid, and after shoveling on three afternoons I am more than ever struck with the colossal silliness of a big city in an emergency like this. There are thousands of men in New York who, if they were to return tomorrow to the small towns from which they came, would shovel off the front sidewalk, a path from the house to the street, and another along the clothes line—several hundred feet, like enough—and think nothing of it. But collect them in Manhattan, and they will gape at a few square yards of snow in front of their own doorsteps as if they were bound hand and foot. There must be some way of mobilizing this wasted strength in an emergency, even if we do not go as far as some European cities and compel the householder to clean, not only the sidewalk, but the pavement as well, out to the middle of the street.

The thing that strikes the amateur shoveler overwhelmingly is the lack in the department of all that spirit with which the whole air was electric a year ago, that local pride and sense of service, that morale and teamwork, the value of which one would suppose the war had taught everybody. Is it too much to ask that some of the intelligent enthusiasm which was thrown into preparation for a foreign war should be used in running our home affairs in times of peace? Here is a job in which time is money—in terms of millions of dollars—in the most literal sense of the word; on which the safety, let alone the comfort and self-respect, of millions of people depend. If it is necessary that this obvious fact be brought home to the people, then let it be done by posters and pretty girls, if need be, and bands and speakers who have a real sense of personal shame in the disgraceful condition of their town, the ultimate aim being, of course, a properly equipped and disciplined body of men, treated not like hoboes working for a handout, but as self-respecting citizens engaged in a dignified, interesting and important work. ARTHUR RUHL.

MATUTINALE.

Out of their delicate halls,
  Builded of leafless bough,
Cloud maids peer wistfully
  From the hill's brow.
Seeking I know not what Lost mirth of Arcady,
From delicate halls
  Cloud maids peer wistfully.

I think they mourn one day
  When great dames spun the wool
While Homer sang to the Queen
  Brave songs and beautiful;
When maids on the little hills
  Danced—danced in the meadows so green,
One golden day
  While Homer sang to the Queen.

Then, light as thistledown,
  As toys to the rainbow air,
Those maids tossed far from them
  Earth's every care;
Earth's loves, less heeded than
  The trod violet's fragile stem—
All light as thistledown
  Those maids tossed far from them.

"And none since hath danced with us"
  (The cloud maids seem to say).
"Even on May Morning,
  When youth came ever gay
To the village green—true lovers all,
  They danced as captives i' the jocund ring—
So none might dance with us,
  Even on May Morning.

"Nor ladies we have seen
  In gardens pace quaint measures up and down;
Dressed for high festival
  In cap of pearls and damask gown
Broidered with silver apples—how stiff with pride,
  How sad and solemn went they all,
Fine ladies we have seen
  Dressed for high festival.

"And daisies and buttercups
  May lure steps so light,
Yet they bind them to the green earth
  With chains of gold and white.
Little children dance most fleetly,
  Yet they may not share our mirth
While buttercups and daisies
  Hold them down to earth!"

* * * * *

So from the delicate halls
  I seem to hear lament
Made far off, wistfully;
  Seeking for them that went
So light of old
  Up pale green hills of Arcady,
From delicate halls,
  Cloud maids peer wistfully.

SPAIN TO GET $6,600,000.

This Country Carrying Out Agreement Made to Aid Pershing's Troops

MADRID, Feb. 28.—The Minister of Finance, Count de Bugallal, today signed a decree permitting the admission into Spain of 33,000,000 pesetas [about $6,600,000 at the normal rate of exchange], which the United States is granting to Spain as a result of the financial agreement between the two countries signed two years ago.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29.—The commercial agreement between the United States and Spain was brought to a successful conclusion March 7, 1918, by Ambassador Willard and was negotiated as a war measure. The negotiations were of a three-sided character, dealing not only with the trade relations between the United States and Spain, but also with arrangements for a French credit in Spain.

Under the agreement the American representatives, in addition to securing considerable amounts of desired supplies in Spain for General Pershing's forces in France and satisfactorily arranging the problems of American imports and exports, were able materially to assist the French Government in securing a large credit in Spain to finance payments for the supplies which France was drawing from Spanish sources.

In return for export concessions from Spain the United States assured that country its necessary supplies of cotton and oil, the monthly export of these commodities being fixed in the agreement at a figure which would cover genuine Spanish requirements, but barring the possibility of German agents buying up and shipping a stock of cotton against the time of the conclusion of peace.

Under this agreement General Pershing was to obtain for his army 200,000 woolen blankets ready for delivery and 300,000 for future delivery, 20,000 tons of leather, great quantities of saddles, bridles, &c.; mules, copper, bronze, 100,000 tons of chick peas, and the United States was also to receive 20,000 tons of Castile soap and a large amount of olive oil and its by-products.

1,000 WOMEN TO AID DRIVE.

Association for Improving Condition of Poor Campaign Opens Friday.

The drive for the $975,000 fund sought by the Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor will begin Friday, and will be carried on in three divisions by ten teams of ten members each under the Chairmanship of Cornelius N. Bliss, Jr. The industrial division will have charge of different lines of business, trades and professions, and the hotel, restaurant and theatre booth division will be represented from March 5, when the campaign starts, until March 15 in the leading hotels, theatres and restaurants throughout the city.

There will be booths in forty hotels, twenty-five theatres, motion picture and vaudeville houses, thirty restaurants, twenty banks and trust companies, fifteen department stores, twenty office buildings and at the Pennsylvania Station and the Grand Central and Hudson terminals. Fully 1,000 young women who worked in all the Red Cross campaigns will preside at these booths. Mrs. Paul Foerster, under whose direction these young women worked during the former drives, is Chairman of Booths for the campaign.

AIDS HOSPITAL IN FRANCE.

Mrs. Bacon Gives 4,946,000 Francs to Institution in Husband's Memory.

PARIS, Feb. 29.—Mrs. Robert Bacon, widow of Colonel Robert Bacon, one-time American Ambassador to France and a former Secretary of State, has given 4,946,000 francs to endow twenty-four beds in the free wards of the new American Hospital to be built at Neuilly. This endowment is given in memory of Colonel Bacon.

Henry P. Davison has transferred 750,000 francs, the remainder of one of the war funds of which he was Chairman, toward the building fund of this hospital. Mr. and Mrs. George A. Kessler have given 250,000 francs to the building fund.

Mrs. Bacon's gift brings the hospital's total yearly revenue from endowment to 344,900 francs. The amount required to operate the hospital is 438,000 francs. The amount necessary for the proposed building is 6,750,000 francs, of which, in addition to the donations of Mr. Davison and Mr. and Mrs. Kessler, 85,000 francs have already been subscribed.

ASKS QUICK AID FOR EUROPE

American Bankers' Representative Cables, Urging Credit Bill.

The American Bankers' Association yesterday made public a cablegram from Paris, in which Fred I. Kent, a member of the association's Commerce and Marine Committee, urged immediate passage by Congress of the food credits bill providing $50,000,000 for central European countries. He said some of the neutral countries, as well as allied nations, were willing to help if the United States would come in.

"The food in Austria today, together with all supplies which it has been possible to purchase, will feed the people to about March 15," said the cablegram. "Certain food supplies that are available, if shipped immediately from their present locations, can reach Austria in time, provided Congress acts immediately."

CHALONER AWARDS MADE.

Frederick Freder Wins First Prize for Paintings from the Nude.

At the fourth competition of the John Armstrong Chaloner concours for paintings from the nude, held at the National Academy of Design Saturday, the jury made the following awards:

First prize, Frederick C. Freder, National Academy of Design Schools; second prize, Albert A. Warsaw, National Academy of Design Schools; third prize, John Ferris Connah, New School of Design, Boston, Mass.

Honorable mentions were given to Miss Eugenia Silverman, National Academy of Design Schools; Mrs. Edith W. Yaffee, Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, Philadelphia, Pa., and Joseph J. Fischetti, National Academy of Design Schools.

These paintings will be on exhibition at the National Academy of Designs, 175 West 109th Street, from March 4 to March 7.

LEGION TO DISCUSS BONUSES

Several Officers Opposed to the Proposed Measure for Soldiers.

Offices of the State posts of the American Legion will discuss soldier bonuses and pensions at a meeting to be held in the State Capitol in Albany tomorrow. Lucien S. Breckinridge, Secretary of the New York County Chapter, sent out a call yesterday to members to attend the meeting. He and George Brokaw Compton, Chairman of the county post, will lead the delegation. They are opposed to bonuses on the ground that the measure would tend toward the creation of a "privileged class."

Among posts of the Legion which have declared opposition to the bonus plan is the George Garr Henry Post. The members voted against the bonus plan as they did not "feel that the country should at this time assume a further loan of such magnitude, nor that the added proposed burden upon the Treasury is warranted."

Strike of Spanish Doctors Ended.

CADIZ, Feb. 29.—The strike of doctors recently called at Tarifa, on the Strait of Gibraltar, has ended.

END OF DIPHTHERIA ASSURED BY EXPERTS

Co-operation of Parents, Physicians and School Authorities Is Sought.

TO EXTEND SCHICK TEST

Health Department Committee Declares All Children May Be Made Immune.

Diphtheria can be made as rare as is smallpox in New York if the Health Department obtains the hearty co-operation of parents, educational authorities and physicians in extending the application of what is known as the Schick test. This is the opinion of Dr. Louis I. Harris, Director of the Bureau of Preventable Diseases, who with Dr. S. Josephine Baker, Director of the Bureau of Child Hygiene, and Dr. William H. Park, Director of the Bureau of Laboratories, constitute a committee appointed by Health Commissioner Royal S. Copeland to develop and establish the application of the test.

Of the 12,000 recognized cases of diphtheria reported to the Health Department annually 10 per cent. die in spite of dependence on antitoxin. This high mortality rate is unnecessary, according to Dr. Harris, for by means of the Schick test children predisposed to the disease may be picked out and made immune practically for life. The ordinary antitoxin immunizes for a few weeks at a time, it was explained.

Describing yesterday the campaign organized by the Health Department against diphtheria, Dr. Harris said the decision to apply the Schick test generally was arrived at after nearly five years of experimentation by Dr. Park. In that time thousands of children of different age groups in various institutions were inoculated, and it was concluded by those engaged in the work that it had been demonstrated beyond a doubt that the test, if properly applied, would definitely indicate whether a tested child was immune to diphtheria.

Reaction Reveals Test.

Soon after the discovery by Von Behring of diphtheria antitoxin twenty-five years ago, its use caused a marked reduction in the disease, but a point was reached when the number of cases and mortality rate remained practically stationary. Then, about seven years ago, Professor Bela Schick of Vienna, in seeking to discover whether all children were susceptible to the disease found that in those not made immune in advance there was a distinct color reaction at the point of injection. He found this reaction to be a definite index to the presence of immunity. Children who were immunue failed to give any reaction, while those who were not immune gave the characteristic local reaction.

To neutralize the effect of the diphtheria poison used in the test so as not to cause harmful effect a balance of the poison and antitoxin was determined after much experiment. Professor Schick's reports constituted an individual experience and seemed dangerous to apply generally outside of the laboratory until verified. For this reason Dr. Park undertook to test the validity of Professor Schick's statements and to report the results.

In addition to testing for immunization, Professor Schick made the further suggestion that when the child was discovered not to be immune, there might be produced by certain injections a defensive condition that would make the child actively immune against the disease.

"In the Schick test," said Dr. Harris, "is a minute and harmless quantity of diphtheria serum infinitely small, but just enough to provoke reaction on the body to manufacture its own immune substances. This form of immunity gives what we have good reason to believe is lifelong immunity.

"In the light of our experience and knowledge obtained through the research of Dr. Park confirming the claim of Schick, we feel confident in making the assertion that if we could get the united support of the physicians of the city, the parents or guardians of the children and the educational authorities, we could make diphtheria one of the rare diseases of the community.

Brings Permanent Immunity.

"In the Schick test we have the means of ascertaining which children are predisposed, and by subsequent injection on three separate occasions at intervals of a week of a properly balanced mixture of diphtheria toxin and antitoxin we can produce without harm or danger a permanent immunity which will make the child invulnerable, assuming that the test has been properly applied and interpreted and that the method of protective injections has been properly applied.

"We have applied the test to several thousand children a week old or younger without producing any harmful reaction. In this way we have learned definitely that the new-born child, with rare exceptions, is immune.

"It takes special training to distinguish between a true reaction, which shows that the child is vulnerable, and the false reaction, which does not indicate anything bearing on immunity. It is for this reason that the Health Department has established instruction clinics, where physicians may see the test applied. The baby health stations are centres for propaganda work to acquaint the mothers with the test.

"The amazing thing is that only about one-third of all the children of the various age groups who are subjected to the test are found to be susceptible. The protective injections, therefore, need to be applied to a relatively small number of children in the entire community, to produce a startling change in the mortality rate for diphtheria.

"The only harmful effects that have been observed, and these have occurred in very rare cases, have been a swelling and redness of the skin around the site of injection. In institutions where the test has been applied to thousands of children there is practical control over the disease.

"The Department of Education, through Superintendent William Ettinger and Dr. I. H. Goldberger, is cooperating to encourage the application of the Schick test and the use of the protective injections at the opening of every school term. This practice was begun at the opening of the present term.

"Tenants in houses where a case of diphtheria occurs are at once told of the test and they are persuaded to have their children accept it at the hands of private physicians, or, if they cannot afford it, at the clinics of the Bureau of Preventable Diseases.

"The Schick test does not curtail the usefulness of antitoxin. Its field of usefulness remains undisputed when applied to treatment of cases where the disease had already developed. The Schick test takes six or eight weeks for the development of immunity. The antitoxin administered when the child has been exposed and is in great danger can confer almost instantaneous immunity, but it lasts only two or three weeks."

BLAMES FACULTIES FOR COLLEGE ILLS

J. H. Hammond Says Officers and Teachers Are Out of Touch with the World.

WANTS MEN OF AFFAIRS

Undergraduates Lack Ambition, Thoroughness and Earnestness for a Career, He Asserts.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 29.—John Hays Hammond criticises the methods and courses of study in American universities in The Yale News and demands that they be made more practical. As he gave Yale the large Hammond metallurgical laboratory of which he is the head, as organizer of the course in mining, and as the close friend of Cecil Rhodes, founder of the international Oxford scholarships, his views have been received with great interest here. He said:

"The American university is out of touch and contact with the world because its officers and professors are out of contact, and however much they may profess to know about the ways of the world they will not be able to impress the undergraduates unless they have demonstrated their knowledge by a record of achievement.

"Therefore I should put a man who has made his mark at the head of an institution rather than a scholar.

"Today ambition, thoroughness and earnestness are in degree bad form among undergraduates, and the fellow who's avowedly or even professedly at college with the primary object of equipping himself for a career is in the way of being an amusing character.

"Most young men do not view their university days very seriously. They frequently give more attention to the useless trimmings—to the expensive societies, to a show of wealth and to general loose living and heedless extravagance than to their studies, and they will continue to do so until they can have set before them a new ideal in the way of a man who will tear down the false insignia of manhood.

"I am sharply in disagreement with the way that our educational institutions are conducted and with the results they achieve. They are doing only a fraction of the work they should do and they are turning out a quite undue proportion of boys with no higher ambition than to 'tout' for some stockbroker's office and thus to live off the losses of their acquaintances.

"We are wasting a lot of valuable time in our colleges. They are not serving the nation as they might, and I am afraid that the large endowments which are now being accumulated will, unless care from the outside is used, tend to confirm the present practice instead of broadening the institutions for their present real tasks. For the ills are deepseated. Two great a part of the bequests are expended in brick and mortar, rather than in the essential apparatus for instruction.

"It is very nice to have a young graduate thoroughly convinced that the institution he has attended is the best of its kind. We all of us get a great deal of fun out of this chaff, but unfortunately it shows that we are foggy about why we send boys to a university.

"I do not say that a college education is useless, but the boys have too much to learn about things that they should know and too much to forget about things they did not need to know in the first place. They have spent too much time on subjects which they will not use and too little on some of the subjects that they will most desperately need."

PLAY BALL AT PALM BEACH.

Philadelphia Society Team Defeats New York Again, 6 to 2.

Special to The New York Times.

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 29.—Philadelphia defeated New York for the second time in as many weeks at baseball on the Poinciana diamond this afternoon, 6 to 2. The teams were made up of society and business men of both cities, but Philadelphia had three players on recent 'Varsity nines—Bell and Coffin of Penn and Clothier of Lehigh.

Philadelphia scored first in the fourth when Coffin was safe on Hutton's error, stole second and scored on infield outs. New York tied the score in the fifth. Feitner scored from second on a hit by Russell Colt. The Quakers broke up the game in the seventh with a parade around the sacks for four runs, all scored on New York's errors. Both nines scored a run in the eighth.

SOCIETY ORGANIZED TO FIGHT CATHOLICS

J. W. Forest, Albany Lawyer, Describes Purposes of New Militant Movement.

TELLS A STORY OF SULZER

Says Governor Was Ousted for Refusing to Sign McKey Bill at Cardinal's Bidding.

Speaking before the Sons and Daughters of Washington, a recently formed "militant, fighting organization for Protestantism," at the Pennsylvania Hotel yesterday afternoon, J. W. Forest, a lawyer of Albany and a descendant of Colonel Thomas Forest of the Revolutionary War, made a bitter arraignment of the Catholic Church and of those of that faith. The Catholic Church is a wheel, the hub of which is the Pope, the rim is political control and the spokes are the Knights of Columbus and the various other Catholic societies and organizations, he said. More than 300 persons attended the meeting.

He declared that 75 per cent. of the people in the Government service were Catholics, from Joseph Tumulty, Secretary to President Wilson, down to the man who delivers the mail, although there are in the United States, according to the Catholic Directory, only 17,000,000 Catholics, while there are 89,000,000 Protestants. In New York State, he said, 90 per cent. of the officials and employes are Catholics, headed by Governor Alfred E. Smith, while the remaining 10 per cent. are distributed among the other religious beliefs.

The reason for the growth of the Catholic Church in the United States, he declared, was the lax immigration laws, which allows what he termed "cattle" to come into America. In five States aliens can vote in six months, in nine others can vote in one year, and in all States can vote in five years, while the American born has to wait twenty-one years before he can vote.

The removal from office of Governor William Sulzer was through the influence of Cardinal Farley, Mr. Forest declared, because the Governor would not do the bidding of the Cardinal. The specific cause he mentioned was the refusal of the Governor to sign the McKey bill, which would have abolished the office of Superintendent of Schools held by Superintendent Maxwell.

Mr. Forest said that he was present when a Monsignor from New York City came to Albany to see Governor Sulzer with a letter from Cardinal Farley. The Monsignor told the Governor that Cardinal Farley had sent him to Albany to say that he wanted him to sign the McKey bill. The Monsignor asserted that the Governor would lose his political head if he did not. The Governor sent word back to Cardinal Farley that he was still the Governor of New York, and that he would suffer his right arm to be cut off rather than sign the bill. Immediately came the charges against Governor Sulzer, the speaker declared.

He described a scene which he said took place in Delmonico's restaurant. A delegation, headed by Charles F. Murphy, met there and kept the wires hot with Albany until 5 o'clock in the morning, when the Assembly, headed by Governor Smith as Speaker, voted to impeach Mr. Sulzer. When the vote was taken some of the members were drunk in their seats, he declared.

The program of the "militant, fighting organization for Protestantism" is to elect an American Assembly and Senate, Mr. Forest said, regardless of party affiliations, a Governor of like ideals, and then to get through several pieces of legislation which will make for stronger Americanism.

Mr. Forest referred to the St. Patrick's Day parade planned for March 17, and declared this would be the last one, for the Sons and Daughters of Washington hope to have passed a bill prohibiting the use of any but the American flag in parades in this State. Mr. Forest said that 900 new members were to be received in the organization in Brooklyn last night. Organization has been effected in New York State, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, which is the stronghold of the Catholics in their work of propaganda, he said, and no other States will be organized.

JUSTICE DUGRO GRAVELY ILL

Complications Develop, Following an Attack of Pneumonia.

Justice Philip Henry Dugro of the Supreme Court is seriously ill in his apartments in the Hotel Savoy with pneumonia, complications having developed since the first attack a week ago. Drs. Richard Weiner, Herbert Weiner, B. C. Haskell and Evan Evans are associated in the case, and three nurses are in attendance.

Justice Dugro, who was born in this city sixty-four years ago, was made a Supreme Court Justice in 1896 by Constitutional amendment. He has served continually ever since, having been elected in 1900 and re-elected in 1914. Previous to his elevation to the bench he served in the Assembly and in Congress. He built and owns the Hotel Savoy, where he has made his home for many years, and also built the Hotel Seville, but later sold it. He was the organizer of the Union Square Bank.

Mrs. John Wanamaker Ill.

ATLANTIC CITY, Feb. 29.—Mrs. John Wanamaker, wife of the Philadelphia merchant, was reported yesterday afternoon to be in a serious condition from pleurisy, but late last night her physician, Dr. E. J. Porteous, said that she was making satisfactory progress toward recovery and could not be considered in a critical condition. The doctor's only fear is that pneumonia may develop. John Wanamaker and his son, Rodman Wanamaker, are both with Mrs. Wanamaker.

Wyoming Bishop Refuses Delaware See.

WILMINGTON, Del., Feb. 29.—The Rt. Rev. Nathaniel S. Thomas, Missionary Bishop of Wyoming, has declined the Bishopric of Delaware, to which he was elected by the Diocesan convention. His letter of refusal was read in the Episcopal churches of the city today. Having previously told the Diocesan Committee that the burden of proof that he should leave his present field and come here rested with them, Bishop Thomas said in his letter they had failed to convince him.

The cast will be headed by Blanche Yurka and will include Yvonne Garrick, Margaret Ranil, Leah Temple, Henry Mortimer, Cecil Owen, Douglas Garden, Scott Moore and others.

$3,457,350 IN YEAR GIVEN FOR EDUCATION

Rockefeller Board's Allotments Includes $700,000 for Medical Schools.

Appropriations aggregating $3,457,350 were made during the last year to universities, colleges and other educational institutions by the General Education Board, founded by John D. Rockefeller, according to the annual report made public yesterday. The Harvard Graduate School received $500,000. Drury College at Springfield, Mo., and Tulane University, New Orleans, each received $200,000.

Agnes Scott College, Decatur, Ga., received $175,000; West Virginia Wesleyan College, Buckhannon, W. Va., $125,000; College of St. Catherine, St. Paul, Minn., $100,000; Emory and Henry College, Emory, Va., Salem College, Winston-Salem, N. C., and Westminster College, Fulton, Mo., each $75,000; Cornell College, Mount Vernon, Ia., Dakota Wesleyan University, Mitchell, S. D., and Jamestown College, Jamestown, N. D., each $50,000.

Appropriations for medical schools, totalling $700,000, were distributed as follows: Johns Hopkins University, $400,000; Washington University, St. Louis, $150,000; Meharry Medical School, Nashville, Tenn., $150,000.

The board contributed $767,355 to negro schools, mainly for annual maintenance, and $115,000 for experimental education to Teacher's College for the support of the Lincoln School. The board set aside $109,795 as its regular support given Southern State universities and departments of education.

As a result of Mr. Rockefeller's recent gift of $70,000,000, of which $20,000,000 was for medical education, the board's report says that it will now be possible to aid medical schools whose clinical departments are not on a full time basis. A comprehensive school code has been adopted, based on the results of the board's survey of public education in Delaware, the report adds.

The Rockefeller Foundation announced yesterday that John G. Agar had been elected a member of the body and Dr. Edwin O. Jordan a member of the International Health Board of the Foundation. Mr. Agar, who is an attorney in this city, was active during the war as a member of the National Catholic War Council. Dr. Jordan is professor of bacteriology at the University of Chicago and is a writer in the field of public health and preventative medicine.

NEW CHAPEL DEDICATED.

First Presbyterian Church Opens Branch for Italians.

The new $100,000 structure of the combined Bethlehem Chapel and Memorial House for English-speaking people and the Church of the Gospel for Italian people at 198 Bleecker Street was dedicated yesterday afternoon.

Mingled with the Italians and Americans of the neighborhood were many persons of wealth from the First Presbyterian Church, of which the new house of worship is a branch. Among these were Francis Louis Slade, Treasurer of First Church; Roger H. Williams, Dr. John P. Munn, Henry M. Humphrey and Miss Emily M. Wheeler. One of the largest contributors to the building fund was Miss Wheeler.

The dedication service was conducted by the Rev. Dr. Harlan G. Mendenhall, Moderator of the Presbytery of New York, and the dedication sermon was preached by the Rev. Dr. George Alexander, pastor of First Church. The Scripture lesson was read by the Rev. Thomas Guthrie Speers, associate pastor. The hymns were sung one verse in English and the next in Italian. Other clergymen who took part were the Rev. Ernest Louis Walz, pastor of the English congregation, and the Rev. Thomas Barbieri, pastor of the Italian congregation.

The new structure is of stucco, and has four stories. One whole floor is given over to a day nursery, where fifty children can be accommodated while their mothers are at work. Other features are a kindergarten, playground and gymnasium.

REOPEN VICE INQUIRY TODAY

Naval Court Has Examined 16 Witnesses, and 129 Remain.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, Feb. 29.—In the naval court of inquiry investigating the alleged misconduct of Lieutenant E. M. Hudson of the Naval Medical Corps, and improper methods alleged to have been used by a naval vice squad, sixteen witnesses have thus far been heard, including the ministers who made complaint in an open letter to President Wilson.

There are 129 more names on the witness list yet to be called. The court, which has been in recess since February 17, will convene again at the Naval Training Station tomorrow morning.

Bishop James De Wolf Perry, who was on the stand when the court recessed, will probably be on the stand for a day or two longer, under cross-examination.

Grecian Views Exhibition Opens.

An exhibition of photographs by Frederick Boissonnas, showing views of Grecian buildings and landscapes and reproductions of swords and daggers of ancient Greece, was opened yesterday at the Grand Central Palace under the auspices of the American-Hellenic Society, of which Nicholas Murray Butler is the President. It was held in the Boeotian Hall in Paris last Summer while the Peace Conference was in session.

The Rev. A. R. B. Hegeman.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Feb. 28.—The Rev. A. R. B. Hegeman, Archdeacon of the Episcopal Diocese of Central New York, died in this city last evening, following an attack of meningitis. He was here on a visit. Dr. Hegeman was born in Brooklyn in 1868 and was the son of Thomas Blackwell Hegeman. For fifteen years he was pastor of Trinity Church in this city. At the outbreak of the war he organized the Y. M. C. A. welfare work at Camp Wadsworth. He will be buried in Cypress Hills Cemetery, Brooklyn, N. Y.

FEARS BOLSHEVISM MAY WIN GERMANY

Methodist Bishop, Back from Relief Distribution, Counsels Help from America.

CHAOS IN CENTRAL EUROPE

Austria and Hungary in Sad Plight—Calls Rearrangement of Nations an Error.

There is great danger of the Bolsheviki overwhelming Germany this Spring unless the Allies make drastic efforts to help the people of Central Europe, according to the Rev. William Burt, Methodist Episcopal Bishop at Buffalo, who returned yesterday on the Cedric with his daughter, Miss Edith Burt, and the Rev. William Shepard, Bishop at Wichita, Kan. They went to Europe on Nov. 8 last, with a committee representing the Methodist Episcopal Church to distribute $400,000 among the hungry of Central Europe.

Bishop Burt said the committee had visited Germany, Austria, Hungary, Italy, Serbia, France and England, and would have gone to Bulgaria and Rumania but for bad travel conditions.

At Belgrade, he said, the Serbians were like roosters since their hardships were ended and food was more plentiful than in other countries of Central Europe.

"If conditions are to become stabilized in Europe," Bishop Burt said, "we must tell the truth and face things as they are. Europe looks to the United States for help, and unless aid is given very soon bad conditions will become worse.

"I talked with President Ebert in Berlin and found him capable and sincere and doing all in his power to make the new democratic government a success. The chief danger lies in the spread of Bolshevism from Russia, which has been promised for this Spring. Agents of the Soviets have been spreading their propaganda throughout Central Europe, especially in Germany. There is also possibility of the military party, which includes more than 150,000 officers, taking a hand in the government. At present the party leaders are quiet but are watching events in Berlin.

"It was a big mistake of the Allies," the Bishop continued, "to split Central Europe into small nations instead of waiting until the Peace Treaty had been put into operation. Every nation is dissatisfied with present conditions. Budapest, capital of Hungary, is worse off than any other city because a million peasants whose land was taken by the Allies and given to the Rumanians and Jugoslavs swarmed into the city. They had nowhere else to go, nothing to eat and nothing to do. Conditions in Budapest could hardly be worse. We saw the Prime Minister, Karl Huszar, and gave 300,000 kronen for relief of the starving and of sick women and children.

"In Vienna at the Grand Hotel I ordered coffee, cream and bread and butter for breakfast the first morning. The waiter said there was no bread, butter, cream or sugar. I got the coffee black. Rye bread could not be had in Central Europe, but there was meat in Viennese restaurants and potatoes, sometimes. The misery of the Austrian people, once so wealthy and proud, was pathetic, especially among the middle classes. Thousands of children have been sent away to save them from starvation, many of them to Italy, Austria's traditional enemy. I wonder how the Austrians will exist under the new order because as a nation they have been a parasite upon others."

Bishop Shepard thought chaotic conditions in Europe resulted chiefly from the breakdown of transportation.

Another passenger on the Cedric was Alexander Smith Cochran, of 820 Fifth Avenue, owner of a carpet factory at Yonkers, who has been in France and England since last October for his health.

Robert George Laws, a retired English stock broker, 72 years old, who devotes his time to inventions, was on the Cedric. He told fellow-passengers that he owed his health and unusual vitality to having taken 75 capsules prepared from the glands of monkeys by Professor Sergius Voronoff, of Paris. "I had been ill for months before the monkey pills were recommended to me by a Dr. Paul, in Kingston Hospital, near London," Mr. Laws said. "There were fifty in the box and I took them and half of another box, which I have brought with me, should I need them."

The Cedric brought 566 passengers and 3,000 sacks of mail.

Music
By DR. BERTHOLD A. BAER.
Music arouses a storm of thoughts in some; in others, music acts as a pacifying tonic, a healer of heart-sobs, a creator of all that is beautiful and good.
How often, when I passed an open church door and heard the strains of an organ or the voices of a choir, have I entered, listened and left refreshed in body and in mind.
When Mr. Frank E. Campbell had decided to engage the permanent services of a quartette to enhance the services held in The Funeral Church, he searched for the best obtainable, for, like everything in The Funeral Church, the singers must be of the highest standard.
A new hymn, which I recently had composed, the quartette sang without rehearsal; a proof of their masterly art.
If you wish to hear a mixed quartette of unusual merit, if you enjoy music, if the strains of a beautiful melody arouse the best that is in you, come to The Funeral Church, Broadway at 66th Street, any day, at almost any hour.

YANKS AND ROBINS WILL START WORK TODAY AND GIANTS TOMORROW

GIANTS ON SECOND LAP OF LONG TRIP

Leave St. Louis for San Antonio, Where They Are Due to Arrive Late Tonight.

CLUB DENTIST WITH SQUAD

Players' Molars Must Be Fit for Training Menu—Deal Predicted for This Week.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 29 (en route with Giants).—The Giants tonight are speeding toward Texas on the Sunshine Special on the first step of the long journey toward the National League pennant. Most of the party thus far is made up of ambitious youngsters who can hardly wait to get to San Antonio to show Manager McGraw their ability. They have their pet bats and gloves with them and plenty of confidence.

Waiting here today for the party from New York were Lew McCarty, Art Nehf, Eddie Sicking, Jimmy Garton, Lee King, H. E. Moyer, a new pitcher; Harry Bates, the Pittsfield (Mass.) third baseman; Earl Smith, the catcher, and Ed Mackall, the veteran trainer of the Giants.

The first part of the trip here was somewhat delayed yesterday when the Empire State Express, to which the Giants' car was attached, ran out of the line of base and lost a couple of hours. The detour was caused by a wreck, and after plowing through two or three driving snowstorms the party arrived at Buffalo, where they made an eyelash connection to this city. The lost time has since been made up.

Club Dentist on the Job.

In the party from New York was Dr. [illegible], the club dentist, who also went South with the club several years ago to look after the players' molars. The dentist will look after the chewing apparatus of the players. No ball player can do himself justice when he is carrying around a jumping toothache, and McGraw doesn't want any of his men out of the game with ailments of the teeth. They are subject to enough injuries without troubles of this sort. Another reason why the Giants brought a dentist along was to be sure the players' teeth would be in shape to eat. Eating is one of the most important things the ball players do on the training trips. A hungry ball player is a sad affair.

Treasurer Frank X. McQuade stated tonight that Manager McGraw would conduct all the negotiations for the trades the Giants have in mind. He said that the Giants' manager would probably be in San Antonio on Tuesday morning, when he would continue the deals he is trying to negotiate. It is known that a deal is pending with St. Louis for Milton Stock.

Deal Expected This Week.

The coming week is sure to bring forth something important in the trading line, for before leaving Cuba Manager McGraw started negotiations with several managers by cable. He is not depending on a new infield star being developed at San Antonio, and is laying wires for a second or third baseman who has been thoroughly seasoned. If the present crop of hopefuls should produce an infield star like Frank Frisch, so much the better.

In Artie White, the infielder from the Catholic University in Washington, who was recommended by Arthur Devlin, it is believed that the Giants have another promising lad. Devlin told McGraw that he firmly believes that young White is fully as good as Frisch. If Devlin's prediction should come true, McGraw would not have to worry about any trades.

All the snowstorms have been left behind, and the Giants' party expect to get into San Antonio late Monday night or early Tuesday morning.

YANKEES REACH CAMP.

Players Will Begin Training Work at Jacksonville Today.

Special to The New York Times.

JACKSONVILLE, Feb. 29.—The New York delegation of Yankee ball players, minus their manager, Miller Huggins, who was kept in New York by illness, arrived in Jacksonville tonight. They are all ready to begin their Spring training in the morning, as per schedule, will help direct the preparations. With tice will be in charge of Scout Bob Connery, who was here this evening on the arrival of the metropolitan squad.

Connery says the grounds are in good trim, and that light work will be begun tomorrow. Joe Kelley, another scout, got aboard at Baltimore, and will help direct the preparation. With Kelley was Wilson Fewster, who is to succeed Baker at third base, in case Baker sticks to retirement. Fewster is heavier than last season, which is a good sign with him. He needed more weight.

Babe Ruth quickly adapted himself to his new environment. The Babe is a restless individual. The first thing he asked about on the train was a card game, the while passing around a box of Babe Ruth cigars. He shifted from a cigar to a new $12 merschaum pipe, and chewed gum incessantly. He "cussed out" H. H. Frazee, Red Sox owner, who, he said, wouldn't even give him a hearing at which to ask for a cut of that purchase money. Ruth declared that he hoped Huggins would put him in centre field. "For," explained the big boy, "I'm liable to knock my brains out if there are any fences or walls. The only thing I see when I'm going after a fly is that ball."

Herbert Thormahlen, the southpaw, is in much better trim than a year ago. He was just over the flu then, but he is real stalwart now. He has been playing basket ball. Bob Shawkey, with his protege, Rice, a young third baseman, got aboard at Philadelphia. Rice is a rosy cheeked lad who looks as if he is just from prep school. "A coming star," says Shawkey of him.

Mario De Vitalis, the former Brown star; Benny Geiser, the outfielder; D. J. Murphy, catcher, and John Biemiller, a pitcher, were the other recruits in the party. Geiser is a powerful looking youngster.

Pitchers McGraw and Murphy and Infielder Ward were the first arrivals in camp, all three reaching here this afternoon.

DODGERS FIND RAINY SOUTH.

Arrival of Brooklynites Swells Squad at Jacksonville to Eleven.

Special to The New York Times.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Feb. 29.—Wet weather greeted the Dodgers who arrived here this morning from New York to start their season of preliminary practice.

The party that arrived from Gotham consisted of Pitchers Mitchell, Mamaux and Heitman and Infielder Chuck Ward. Heitman is a member of the Buffalo club of the International League, but will prepare for the season under the direction of Manager Robinson.

Other members of the Robins who are in camp ready to start work are Ivan Olson, Pete Kilduf, Erne Krueger, John Miljus, Paul Beyers, Joe Conlon, and George Mohart. Others, including Manager Robinson and Rube Marquard, are scheduled to arrive late tonight or early in the morning.

Johnny Evers, former star of the Cubs' great fighting machine, bobbed up in the Robins' camp. The little Trojan is not connected with any major league outfit and is planning to visit several big league camps this Spring.

Will Not Trade Any of Moran's Regulars, Says Herrmann

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Feb. 29.—There will be no trades involving the regulars of the Cincinnati National baseball team. August Herrmann, President of the champion Reds, made this declaration when told today of a New York dispatch stating that Manager McGraw of the Giants had offered to exchange Ross Young for Eddie Roush and Larry Kopf.

"There is not one word of truth in any report that Roush, Kopf or any of our regular players are roing to be traded to New York or any other club," said Mr. Herrmann. "Manager Moran intends to stand pat on his winning team."

MILITARY A. L. IS MADE STATE BODY

Organization, Revived and Enlarged, Will Conduct Athletics on a Large Scale.

Plans for a revival of the Military Athletic League on an even more extensive scale than existed when the organization became inactive with the mobilization of Uncle Sam's forces on the Mexican border in 1916 were adopted yesterday at a meeting of State Guard officers at the First Field Artillery Armory, Broadway and Sixty-eighth Street. Representatives of twelve National Guard units throughout the State attended the meeting and unanimously adopted the New York State Military Athletic League as the official title of the organization. This means that the league, which heretofore has been practically confined in its activities to the metropolitan district, will in future conduct athletics on a Statewide scope. The military officials will not confine their endeavors to track and field athletics alone, as was the custom under the old league, but will promote every branch of sport among the Guard units throughout the State.

Those who attended yesterday's session are confident the new organization will surpass the work of its predecessor. Representatives of Buffalo and Troy units were the only outsiders present at the meeting, but with the work of organization almost complete, it is practically assured that every National Guard unit in the State will conduct athletics under the supervision of the league, and commanding officers of all Guard units in the State were yesterday elected to the N. Y. S. M. A. L. Board of Governors.

With the arrival of Spring and the return of the outdoor season it is planned to conduct a handicap athletic meet and a championship military hike. Efforts will be made to have one or two events for members of the different regiments added to the programs at future indoor meets this season. Indoor baseball and basket ball, popular with the soldiers, will be encouraged without delay. In the Summer it is planned to hold handicap meets once a month. The program of athletic activities will be definitely adopted at a meeting which will be held next Sunday, when an athletic committee will be appointed.

Captain Charles J. Dieges of the 22d Engineers presided over the meeting as temporary chairman and appointed a nominating committee which named the following, who were elected unanimously.

President, Col. J. W. Carlin, 47th Infantry, Brooklyn; First Vice President, Col. Ranson Gillette, 2d Infantry, Troy; Second Vice President, Col. W. R. Tooley, 74th Infantry, Buffalo; Third Vice President, Col. H. G. Wells, 71st Infantry; Treasurer, Col. Clarence W. Smith, 13th C. A. C., Brooklyn; Recording Secretary, Capt. Charles J. Dieges, 22d Engineers; Corresponding Secretary, Capt. Joseph G. Hardmeyer, 13th C. A. C., Brooklyn.

RUSSO IN THE VAN.

St. Anselm's Runner First Home in Bronx A. L. Race.

Mike Russo of St. Anselm's A. C. led home fifteen rivals yesterday in the revival of the Bronx Athletic League's weekly handicap road races, held over a five-mile course under the auspices of the Mohawk A. C. Russo, starting with a handicap allowance of two minutes thirty seconds, gained the lead before the runners entered the third mile and set the pace thereafter to the finish. He raced passed the judges about forty yards in front of Thomas Birch, a clubmate, who started from the 2:45 mark. The winner's time was 28:27.

Sixteen harriers, impatient for activity after the enforced lack of competition because of the recent heavy snowfall and garbed variously against the elements, started from varying handicap marks. All finished without any visible effect of their trying race. The chase led over a difficult course, covered with snow and slush, so that progress was slow at certain stages of the race. For this reason the time was slower than is customary over this course.

The order of finish follows:

Pos.	Name and Club.	Hdcp.	Actual Time.
1	M. Russo, St. Anselm's A. C.	2:30	28:27

TRIPLE TIE FOR RING VAULT.

Stern, Berger and Weiss Clear 9 Feet 6 Inches in Y. M. H. A. Meet.

Athletes of the Ninety-second Street Y. M. H. A. continued their struggle for points in the association's series of bi-monthly athletic meets which was resumed yesterday. In the ring vault three competitors tied, each with an effort of 9 feet 6 inches. They were B. Stern, J. Berger and M. Weiss. Because of the time required to conduct this event the officials decided to discard the customary jump-off, and divided the points among the deadlocked athletes. M. Braun captured the quarter-mile run in 1:06, and in the potato race Charles Dickman, runner-up for the local title, finished first in 22 3-5 seconds. The summaries:

Ring Vault—Tie for first place between B. Stern, J. Berger and M. Weiss, each with a vault of 9 feet 6 inches.

440-Yard Run—Won by M. Braun, J. Berger second, S. Eberstein third. Time—1:06.

Potato Race—Won by Charles Dickman, H. Goldstein second, J. Hauser third. Time—0:22 3-5.

A. A. HAS LONG SCHEDULE.

Big Minor League of Middle West Follows 168-Game Plan.

The American Association will begin its championship baseball campaign on April 14 and close on Oct. 3, according to the schedule of the league released for publication today. The league has adopted a schedule of 168 games, the longest played by any baseball organization, except the Pacific Coast League. The same cities which have been represented in the association for several years past again make up the membership. The opening day schedule shows Columbus at Louisville, Toledo at Indianapolis, Minneapolis at Kansas City and St. Paul at Milwaukee.

Comment on Current Events in Sports.

They're Off on Spring Grind.

Some time today at Jacksonville, Fla., if the weather does not interfere two of Greater New York's three major league clubs—the Yankees and Robins—will start the preliminary campaign of what each hopes will be a pennant-winning year. In distant San Antonio, Texas, tomorrow the Giants will get into uniforms for the first time, bubbling with a similar enthusiasm. For New Yorkers, therefore, the baseball season of 1920 may be said to have begun, and the doings of their diamond representatives will be closely followed until the early days of next October, and in the case of some of them perhaps through the next world's series.

It is a season holding out the highest promise upon which the big league clubs are embarking this week. Several other major league clubs, scattered through the Southern States and even on the distant Pacific Coast, will also begin their conditioning campaign during the coming week, all the teams except the Chicago White Sox being scheduled to start work during the current week. The box score, about which the average fan dreams, and for which he longs from early Autumn until March, will soon be a reality, and days will pass quickly until the Polo Grounds and Ebbets Field are again the scene of diamond encounters between the best ball players of the land.

For followers of the Giants there probably is not at this time the same feeling of confidence that prevailed a year ago when McGraw started work at Gainesville with a team that showed not a weak spot, not a vacant place to be filled. This year the Little Napoleon faces the task of reorganizing his infield, an important part of any club. He has no worries elsewhere, but the inner cordon can, and undoubtedly will, be strengthened. McGraw has the well earned reputation of being able to readjust his lineup to meet conditions, and the followers of the club may feel sure that changes will come. There is plenty of money behind the club, and the necessary strength is likely to be obtained before the bell rings for the start of the pennant scramble on April 14.

New York fans who class themselves as Yankee rooters see better days ahead for their favorites than any local American League entry has enjoyed in years, if at any time since the younger league invaded Manhattan in 1903. The acquisition of Babe Ruth by the third place club of the 1919 pennant chase makes the Yanks real pennant contenders. Furthermore they are assured of the services of Carl Mays from the start of the season. Some critics are emphasizing the team's lack of speed on the bases as an almost insurmountable barrier to pennant acquisition, but they have not history to back up their arguments. The Red Sox and Phillies of 1915 and the Red Sox and Robins of 1916 were the slowest teams of their leagues in this respect, yet all were pennant winners. Good pitching and hard hitting will overcome lack of speed, and the Yanks have both, so there is no undue cause for worry. It looks like a big season for both Manhattan clubs.

Avoirdupois of Champions.

Through a conspicuous lack of effort to provide remedial conditions, boxing followers must go on apparently indefinitely witnessing matches between champions and their rivals in which there is only an insignificant element of danger for the title-holders. Champions of today, displaying in the majority of cases a greater business than boxing ability, make their matches so that practically every element of danger is removed. The weight is a matter of discretion with a champion, but for a prospective successor it is often made a hardship. The champion forces his rival to a poundage which will rob that rival of boxing effectiveness.

The recent Kilbane-Valger match furnished another illustration of this deplorable condition. Kilbane, the champion, entered the ring against Valger intent on one thing alone—the careful preservation of his title. Minus his title Kilbane's worth as a boxing attraction would deteriorate almost to insignificance. With this realization uppermost in his mnd, Kilbane mapped out his plan of battle accordingly, with the result that there was none of the boxing from the title-holder which is commonly expected from a champion. Valger gained the verdict, an unofficial decision which did not in the least affect Kilban'e championship, but served to emphasize the fact that Kilbane is receding pugilistically.

Kilbane compelled Valger to make 124 pounds at 3 o'clock on the afternoon of the recent match, and collected a forfeit of $1,000, because Valger, on the scales, was twelve ounces over this notch. Kilbane was perfectly within his rights in exacting this financial guarantee. He was collecting on a hard and fast bargain, which, with him, did not permit of the entrance of the high ideals generally associated with the term sportsman.

Yet there remains a question as to Kilbane's ability to get himself down to 125 pounds, the featherweight limit, and still be in condition successfully to defend his title. The impression has long been abroad that Kilbane is nearer a lightweight than he is a featherweight. Because of his title, however, Kilbane is empowered, under prevailing conditions, to keep his exact poundage a secret. Arranging bouts at catchweights for himself eliminates the possibility of an accurate line on Kilbane's weight. The champion's weight will remain somewhat of a mystery probably until such time as a recognized governing body, such as the Army, Navy, and Civilian Board of Boxing Control, steps in and assumes the task of eradicating such conditions.

Kilbane is not the only title holder about whose weight there is question. Benny Leonard in the lightweight class has long been considered incapable of again making the universal limit, 135 pounds. Critics throughout the country have expressed the opinion that Leonard is a legitimate welterweight, yet like Kilbane, Leonard through his championship rating, is able to suppress accurate information on this point. Pete Herman, bantamweight champion, is another title holder whose weight is surrounded with mystery, with the impression prevalent that he cannot make the accepted bantamweight limit.

Accession for Argentine Turf.

With attention held by an almost unbroken series of turf events in this country it requires an unusual happening to remind us that elsewhere than here and in Europe racing is being conducted on a large scale. The sale abroad of the American-bred racer Tracery to a wealthy horseman of the Argentine Republic last week for $180,200 served notice that South America is not only taking a renewed interest in the sport but is doing much for the development of the thoroughbred.

Tracery is to stand at the head of his owner's stud at Buenos Aires and is being counted on to enrich the South American turf with his get. Though but little is ever heard of it in this country, except from the casual traveler, Buenos Aires has one of the finest race courses in the world, a course which, if it has been properly described, is vastly more artistic and more beautifully laid out than any we can boast of in this country. The sport is not only well supported by the public there but is encouraged by the Government. The mutuel system of betting prevails.

How substantially established is racing in Argentina is best indicated by the fact that the price paid for Tracery, which is expected to be one of the leading sires of the country, is fourth among the record prices in turf annals, and is more than has ever before been paid for a horse in America. Prince Palatine sold at the world's record price of $209,000 and Flying Fox, another European horse, sold for $189,000. Batafogo, which was sold in South America, brought $200,000.

While the price paid for Tracery is short of a record one it is an unusual and interesting fact that both he and his sire, Rock Sand, are among the first five high-priced horses. Rock Sand brought the highest price ever paid for a race horse in this country when he was sold in 1912 by August Belmont to a syndicate of French, English and American breeders for $150,000. This is the only case in the history of the turf where sire and son have brought such high prices.

Power Craft Devotees Happy.

If any doubt had obtained previously that motor boating, like practically every other sport, would reach a wider spread of popularity in 1920 than ever before, the events of the last ten days in connection with the Motor Boat Show at the Grand Central Palace would have dispelled it. Inasmuch as the influence and value of a sport depends in the last analysis upon the extent of general participation in it, the most notable development of the show was the increased number of purchasers of the speedsters. There will be more power boat fans in 1920 than ever, and in addition there will be more to interest them in the number and quality of the races and cruises offered.

Greatest of all the events naturally will be the races for the Harmsworth trophy off the Isle of Wight on Aug. 9, and, according to the plans so far as they have developed on this side of the water, the winning boat will have to do a good bit better than seventy miles an hour. As France, according to latest advices, is unlikely to be represented, the test will be between England and America solely. England has not disclosed her plans, but rumors come from overseas of a veritable speed demon to be built for Mackay Edgar, who owned the Maple Leaf III., victor in the last race for the trophy, held off the Isle of Wight in 1913.

Of the three fliers that will probably represent America, New York had a view at the show last week of the only one already built. This was the Miss America, which is expected to do seventy miles, or even a little more. But the specifications for the speedster that is being built at Algonac, Mich., for Gar Wood call for a guaranteed speed of seventy-five miles an hour, while the third probable contender, which Mrs. Gar Wood is having constructed, will be capable of seventy miles or better. All in all, American chances look very alluring for a recovery of the trophy which was held on this side for five years until England won it in 1912.

For followers of the sport in and near New York the program just given out by the American Power Boat Association promises a world of action. A few of the most strikingly interesting events scheduled are the Bermuda race of the Columbia Yacht Club, on June 26; the New York to Albany race of the New York Motor Boat Club, July 2; the Block Island race of the N. Y. A. C., July 10; the Colonial Yacht Club's race to Cornfield Light and return, on July 17; the A. P. B. A. cruiser championship over the N. Y. A. C. course, Aug. 14, and numerous other events of equal attractiveness in nearby waters. If Congress yields to the present movement to have the war tax on motor boats reduced to a reasonable amount, there will be everything in the prospect that the most exacting follower of motor boating could ask for.

Luscious Feast for Golfers.

With the announcement of the important golf dates, the coming season, destined to be by all odds the greatest in history, assumes such a form as may be visualized. With only the Metropolitan Golf Association to hear from, the playing year of 1920 can now be judged in perspective.

There will be greater interest than ever before in the United States championships. The titles held by Miss Stirling, Herron and Hagen will have notable aspirants. But 1920 will be remembered principally because of international golf relations. The meeting of Briton and American, foreigner and home-bred, will give to the coming season a zest and potent charm generally lacking. An occasional linksman almost yearly happens by accident to play away from home, but the great, impressive matches come in cycles, like the Wagnerian operas at Bayreuth. Englishmen came here in 1900, again in 1913 and now again after seven years they are returning.

England will get the first half of the season and America the final months, with the sectional championships sprinkled in whenever opportunity offers a place. Starting on May 20 at Newcastle, in the north of Ireland and safely out of harm of Sinn Fein mêlés, Miss Stirling, Miss Hollins and others will assault the British ladies' title held by Miss Leitch. Two weeks later at Muirfield, Scotland, the British amateur championship will begin. The lack of American representation there will be counter-balanced by the number and strength of golfers from this side who will begin on June 28 at Deal to battle for the British open championship. Hagen, flanked by Barnes and Hutchison, with McNamara in reserve, will lead the sortie against Mitchell, Vardon, Ray and Duncan. Undoubtedly the group will cross the Channel for the French open at La Boulie on July 5 and 6, but by the end of July the Americans will have returned, and accompaning them will be the four greatest Britishers of our time, the quartet just mentioned.

International golf will begin in this country at Chicago on Aug. 4. Waiting until the U. S. G. A. fixed its dates, the Western Golf Association promptly scheduled its open tournament for the week before. On Aug. 10 the scene shifts to Toledo for the national open, where the greatest golf since the game took root in this country, in the late '80s, is almost certain to be played. Vardon and Ray will attempt to erase the blemish on their records made in 1913 when Ouimet overpowered them. The masters of golf will return to Chicago for the week of Aug. 18, where the P. G. A. title will be contested, and then after a few weeks of barnstorming for exhibition purposes the Britishers will return home, leaving America once more to her own headliners.

New York will entertain the national amateur title contestants at the Engineers' C. C. from Sept. 6 to 11. No international matches with the Canadians have yet been listed, but the grand old men from each side of the border—the seniors—will clash Sept. 10 at the Royal Ottawa Club. The last big event will be held Oct. 4-9 at Cleveland, when patient, persistent women will again essay the formidable task of wresting the national women's title from Miss Stirling.

The Future of Racquets.

It is a pity that such games as racquets and court tennis are necessarily played under conditions which permit of neither a general participation nor widespread interest so far as the onlookers are concerned. Comparatively few clubs can afford the space and the expense of keeping up the courts needed for these exclusive indoor sports and there is a corresponding limit to the gallery room for spectators, yet racquets and court tennis are among the most spectacular and consistently interesting of all the games based upon the competitive batting of a ball.

The final round of the recent tournament for the amateur racquets championship of the United States, played at the Boston Tennis and Racquet Club, between Clarence C. Pell, the defending title holder, and Stanley G. Mortimer, was perhaps the most sensational exhibition of its kind ever staged by non-professionals. The gallery was crowded with devotees of the game, yet comparatively few of those who would have been interested could be accommodated.

Any increase in the size of the galleries seems scarcely feasible at present, for of the indoor games of the racquet only squash tennis has as yet won a really large following. Moreover, the size and nature of the racquets court necessitate an immense amount of wall space, which cannot even be pierced with convenient openings, as is the case with court tennis. A few more battles like those of the most recent championship, however, may well bring about a state of affairs in which the accommodation of spectators will be considered quite as important as the convenience of the players themselves.

The game of racquets, like the more highly complicated court tennis, retains the picturesque features which all the sports of this type had in their primitive form, and the gray stone walls, the red boundary lines, the long-handled bats and white balls suggest something of the actual environment of the Middle Ages, when the traditions of all batting games were first established. Both Champion Pell and his final challenger represent the best that is still to be found in these traditions, and the other entries in the tournament, Jay Gould, Stanley W. Pearson, R. Fulton Cutting and Frederick C. Frelinghuysen, are all sportsmen of the same kind. If their example of skill, strength and agility plays a part in attracting an increasing number of players to the centres where the game of racquets flourishes, it may eventually be as highly rated in the democratic as in the aristocratic circles of sport.

SCRATCH RUNNER WINS.

Rosen Overtakes Entire Field in Five-Mile Race in Harlem.

The unusual feat of a scratch runner carrying off premier laurels in a handicap road race was accomplished yesterday when the Harlem Heights Athletic League resumed its weekly handicap five-mile races with a chase over the Catholic Club of West Harlem's course. H. Rosen of the Glencoe A. C. started from the honor mark against eleven rivals and finished first, more than 100 yards ahead of S. Kiely of the Morningside A. C., who started with an allowance of two minutes. Rosen's time was 32:55.

C. Seon of the St. Christopher Club, allowed the limit handicap of 2:30, set the pace for about one and one-half miles, when Kiely forged to the front and held the position until a quarter mile from the finish.

The order of finish follows:

ANNUNCIATION PAIR RALLIES AND WINS

O'Brien and Demerest Land in Final of Doubles Handball Championship.

The most remarkable rally that has been produced in the tournament was furnished yesterday by Andy O'Brien in the semi-final round of the Metropolitan A. A. U. doubles handball championship on the Annunciation A. C. court. O'Brien, teamed with Edward Demerest, a fellow-member of the Annunciation A. C., gained final round brackets by defeating Dr. Carlos Henriquez and R. Manes, another Annunciation pair, in straight games at 21—17, 21—20.

P. Ryan and J. McGann of the Pastime A. C. earned their way to the final round in the other semi-final match, disposing of James Best and Frank Cregan, Annunciation A. C., in convincing fashion. The scores were 21—6 and 21—11. Ryan and McGann outplayed their rivals at every stage of the match and were never in danger.

The summaries:

SEMI-FINAL ROUND.—P. Ryan and James McGann, Pastime A. C., defeated James Best and Frank Cregan, Annunciation A. C., 21—6, 21—11. Andrew O'Brien and Edward Demerest, Annunciation A. C., defeated Dr. Carlos Henriquez and R. Manes, Annunciation A. C., 21—17, 21—20.

BEST-BALL MATCH AT BELLEAIR WON BY HAGEN AND SMITH OVER BARNES AND ROBERTSON

HAGEN'S GOLF WINS IN BELLEAIR MATCH

CHAMPION SHOOTS A 72

Match at New Orleans on Saturday Will Furnish First Real Comparison of the Two Great Pros.

Special to The New York Times.

BELLEAIR HEIGHTS, Fla., Feb. 29.—Walter Hagen, national open golf champion, paired with Alex Smith of Wykagyl here today and defeated Jim Barnes of St. Louis and Davie Robertson of Detroit by 2 and 1. Hagen carried the burden of the match for his team.

Hagen and Smith started out by winning the first two holes, Hagen getting the second with a birdie three. He mussed up the fourth by getting into a trap, but had plain sailing after this.

Barnes was not as steady as usual. Robertson brought the match to even terms by a birdie four on the ninth and a birdie three on the tenth, but missed a short putt on the twelfth and put his side one down again. The match ended on the seventeenth when Hagen sank a ten-footer for a three.

The best ball scores were: Hagen and Smith, 70; Barnes and Robertson, 71. Individual scores were: Hagen, 72; Smith, 77; Barnes, 73; Robertson, 76.

First Test of Strength.

Today's meeting provided the first inkling of the comparative strength of Hagen and Barnes for the new golfing season. Long Jim has been taking a fling at the Southern resort course for several weeks, first in Texas and the Southwest, then around New Orleans, and for the last week he has been prowling up and down Florida in search of easy money. On Friday and Saturday Barnes competed in the open tournament at Deland, but finished three strokes behind Jock Hutchison, who won the event.

Ever since Barnes made amends later last season for his dismal showing at Brae Burn, when Hagen won the national open championship, the world of golf has looked toward a match between the great pair of pros. Middle Westerners attempted during the Fall to bring the two together, and they did actually meet in November at Detroit. But as there was a third player at that time the event was not regarded as conclusive proof of one man's superiority over the other. Incidentally, Barnes won by a wide margin at Detroit. Neither is today's match here absolute evidence of Hagen's greater ability, since the veteran Alex Smith and Dave Robertson figured in the best ball score.

Hagen, however, is giving the resort folk plenty to talk about. He only arrived from New York ten days ago, yet he has been exhibiting the kind of golfing wares which generally come from a Winter of practice, instead of one of rest. The champion did not compete in the Deland tourney, but on Saturday over the local course he played two rounds, getting a 70 in the morning and a 71 after luncheon.

Big Match to be Played Saturday.

A considerable delegation of vacationists and golfers is expected to go to New Orleans Next Saturday for the Hagen-Barnes thirty-six hole match for $1,500. This will be the first meeting of the two, unimpaired by other contestants, in more than a year and will take precedence over any other match of the Winter season. Other golfing sections throughout the country will doubtless schedule matches between the two during the Spring, and they will meet also in tournaments in such fixtures as the West Coast open and the North and South open. Both men, accompanied by Hutchison, and possibly McNamara, will go to England in May for the British open.

McGOWAN IS WINNER.

St. Paul Skater Is First in Three of Four Senior Events.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Feb. 29.—Taking first place in three of the four senior events, Everett McGowan of St. Paul, international skating champion, today won the Northwestern Indoor Amateur Skating Association's championship with a total of 90 points. Charles Jewtraw and oJe Moore of Lake Placid tied for second place with 60 points each. A. Leitch, Jersey City, N. J., finished fifth with 10. McGowan captured first in the quarter, half and mile. The two-mile event was won by Moore.

Rose Johnson of Chicago won the woman's events with 60 points. In the quarter Miss Johnson broke the world's record for women, making it in 45 seconds. She held the previous mark of 45 2-5 seconds.

SNOW FLAKE WINS EASILY.

O'Brien's Flier Leads Ice Yachts Over Manhasset Bay Club Course.

James O'Brien added another to his triumphs in ice yachting yesterday when he helped the Manhasset Bay Club to celebrate its first race off Port Washington, L. I., by winning the event with his Snow Flake. Yesterday's race was the first of a series to be held under the auspices of the new association, composed of devotees of the thrilling sport from the Manhasset Bay Ice Yacht Club, Knickerbocker Ice Yacht Club, and the Port Washington Ice Yacht Club.

Morningside A. C. Awards Life Membership to Girl Athlete

The distinction of being the first woman athlete awarded life membership in a men's club in the metropolitan district is now enjoyed by Miss Ruth Smith, former Columbus, Ohio, swimmer, who recently joined the Morningside A. C. with her twin sister, Eleanor. Ruth recently captured the national 100-yard free style swim championship at Cleveland, and this feat, under the constitution of the Winged M club, entitled her to a life membership. In the eighteen years of the organization but five members of the club have gained this distinction. In addition to Miss Smith they are: Bill Kennedy, winner of the Boston Marathon in 1917; Willie Plant, national walking champion; A. Abromit, junior and senior metropolitan high jump champion last year, and F. Ward Conway, present junior metropolitan outdoor 100-yard champion.

HEIGHTS CASINO TENNIS.

Beekman, Mathey and Williams Reach Class A Semi-Final.

Leonard Beekman, Dean Mathey and J. H. Williams advanced to the semi-final round in the tennis tournament for the Class A club championship at the Heights Casino, as a result of yesterday's play. L. H. Fitch, who had previously scored an easy victory over Edwash Freshman in the second round, was eliminated by Beekman in the third round in straight sets, 7—5 and 6—1. Mathey advanced through a straight set victory over J. Gallon, the scores being 6—3 and 6—2, while Williams disposed of F. P. Ferguson in his third round match, 9—7, 6—1.

The summaries:

Class A Club Championship, Singles, Second Round—L. H. Fitch defeated Edward Freshman, 6—1, 6—1.

SWEENEY TOPS LIST IN POINT SCORING

Penn Basket Ball Star Passes Van Slyck of Yale in Intercollegiate League.

After leading the college basket ball tossers every week except one during the season, Captain Van Slyck of Yale tumbled as a result of last week's games and has probably lost first honors permanently to Sweeney of Pennsylvania. Although the Yale star is only one point behind the Quaker forward, Penn has three more games to play, whereas Yale has only two, and the opportunities offered to Sweeney to put the individual honors high out of Van Slyck's reach are unlimited.

Pennsylvania has the third league championship and permanent possession of the Heppe Trophy within its grasp. There is little doubt of an upset, for any team that can win seven league games straight cannot be expected to lose the remaining three. Yet Penn has not definitely clinched the championship and will not until one more victory is scored. The Quakers' next game is on Friday at Ithaca, and although Cornell has furnished such unexpected accomplishments as beating Yale, there is little reason to believe the Cornellians can topple Penn. As the matter now stands, either Yale or Princeton could tie for the championship by winning all remaining games, provided, however, Pennsylvania lost its remaining three court battles. It would be a poor bet to wager on Penn's defeat. After the Cornell game Friday the Quakers have only to meet Yale at New Haven and Princeton in Philadelphia, both of which teams Penn already has beaten soundly.

During the coming week four games will be played, as follows: Tuesday, Dartmouth at Columbia; Friday, Princeton at Columbia and Pennsylvania at Cornell; Saturday, Yale at Dartmouth.

The ten leading individual scorers and the standing of the colleges follow:

Players.	Field Goals.	Foul Goals.	Total Points.
Sweeney, Penn	20	67	107
Van Slyck, Yale	23	60	106
Porter, Cornell	27	35	89

Holy Name Five Wins.

Excellence of team work was the main explanation of the 29 to 12 victory of the Holy Name Big Five over the Parson's five in a fast basket ball game at the Manhattan Casino yesterday afternoon. Holy Name held the lead all the way and every man in its lineup was represented in the final score by four or more points. The Parson's players showed up stronger defensively than on the attack.

Holy Name will play the Portchester Stars on the same court next Sunday.

COLE WINS SHOOT AT N. Y. A. C. TRAPS

Takes High Scratch Prize with a Card of 95—Handicap Cup Falls to Sloan.

Thirty-four gunners, the largest field that has gathered this season for a Sunday shoot, took part in the final event of the month over the Travers Island traps of the New York Athletic Club yesterday.

The high scratch prize went to R. B. Cole, who had a card of 95 out of a possible 100 targets. R. B. Sloan won the high handicap cup.

DR. SHORT HIGH GUNNER.

Takes Larchmont Club Scratch Prize at Traps After Double Tie.

Ties were the feature of the shooting at the Larchmont Yacht Club yesterday. For the high scratch prize, Dr. W. B. Short and H. E. West each broke 91 out of a possible 100 targets. On the first shootoff at 25 targets both ran straight. On the second shootoff the doctor kept his eye and finally won by 45 to 43 targets.

Three gunners tied with full scores of 100 targets for the high handicap prize. On the third shootoff, Dalley beat out Knight by 75 to 73 targets.

The scores in the original shoot follow:

Name.	Hit.	H'cap.	Total.
L. C. Dalley	81	24	100
M. E. Knight	72	28	100
S. J. Duffey	82	24	100
A. W. Fitzgerald	79	20	99
H. E. West	91	4	95
W. E. Webb	46	28	74
C. J. Winninger	84	8	92
Dr. W. B. Short	91	4	95
T. J. McCahill	87	0	87
H J. Brown	38	48	86
A. B. Alley	68	16	84
C. A. Trickle	64	20	84
E. M. Dalley	44	36	80

Rowing Leads in Popularity.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 29.—In the Winter activities for Harvard freshmen, 217 men are taking part in organized athletics. Crew leads the sports with seventy-three men enrolled, hockey comes second with forty-four, track with thirty-nine, and basket ball fourth with twenty-nine. In sports not classed as intercollegiate, squash is the most popular game.

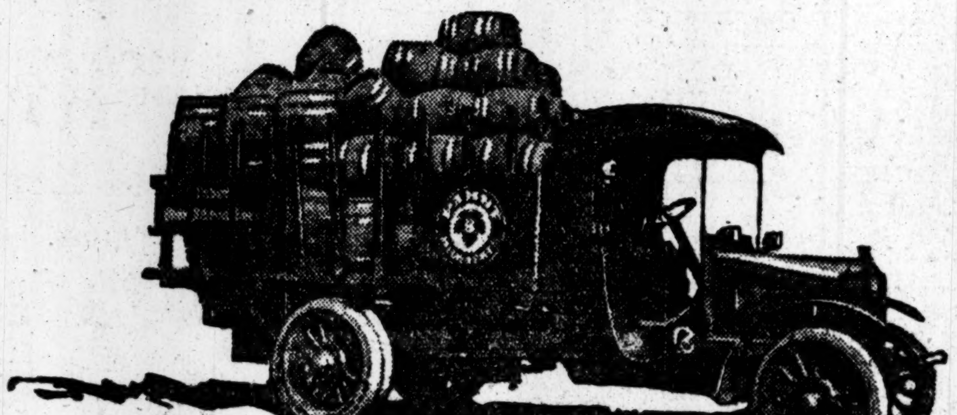
Pierce-Arrow

trucks are still running after 8 years

Such reliability is not only worth all it costs, but pays big dividends. It eliminates many other delivery problems.



No. 19 has been used for more than 8 years by the Pabst Brewing Company of Milwaukee for city deliveries. Its service has been so notable that the Pabst Company has standardized its equipment and now operates 23 Pierce-Arrows.

It has been singularly free from mechanical trouble and, though it suffered one serious collision, has cost in repairs less than $600. It has missed in periodical overhauls only 30 days of service during 8 years.

It gives no evidence of its age and should be good for many more years of service.

You rarely find Pierce-Arrows in the second-hand market. When you do find them, they always command a high price. This is direct testimony to their recognized value.

WHY PIERCE-ARROW?

1. Delivers more work in a given time.
2. Loses less time on the job and off the job.
3. Costs less to operate and less to maintain.
4. Lasts longer, depreciates less and commands a higher resale price at all times.

WRITE FOR BOOK, THE FIRST FIFTY

43 Years Ago Today This Tree Was Planted

43 years ago today Wilmer Atkinson launched into an exacting world a modest farm paper of eight pages.

It was small. Its circulation was limited—although 25,000 copies of the first issue were gradually distributed.

But it was the expression of a great ideal. In its conception, it was masterful. It was the sapling, taking root, and destined to grow into a mighty oak. Among those eleven advertisers who appreciated the incipient value of The Farm Journal was John Wanamaker.

This afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, in Philadelphia, the 361 employes of The Farm Journal will gather with Wilmer Atkinson to celebrate its 43rd birthday. There will be speeches, and as a memento of the occasion, an autographed copy of the 172-page March edition will be given.

What a transformation these 43 years have wrought. The 25,000 circulation has bounded to over 1,050,000 a month. The first number was eight small pages, folded loosely together, not even cut. Today The Farm Journal is printed with color cover and inside color pages, profusely illustrated, trimmed pages—a fine mechanical and typographical product.

Advertisers, left to take their chances in the early days, today receive the protection and collaboration of an elaborate research bureau.*

Surely The Farm Journal has just cause today to review the past 43 years with pride.

The strength of The Farm Journal must be attributed to the fact that the roots of this enduring oak have struck deep into the problems of the farmer's home and work. Its editorial policies have been molded by that breadth of vision which looked far into the future, and built for permanence. Its power is its overspreading circulation—as innumerable as the leaves upon the oak which symbolize it.

But this is no time to halt and contemplate achievement. There are issues in the world today so vital that The Farm Journal chooses rather to dedicate itself anew.

We find ourselves in a world beclouded by unrest, depreciated currency, inflated prices and lack of production. It is a time to make the power of The Farm Journal felt.

The Farm Journal is vitally interested in the welfare of the American farmer. And this is true, not alone because he is a farmer, but because he makes possible the prosperity and well-being of these United States.

Take care of the American farmer, and the American farmer will take care of you.

Help him produce more at less cost. Aid him to adopt efficiency methods on his farm. Assure him of sufficient returns on his investment and work to enable him to invest in farm machinery, tractors, trucks, silos, and blooded stock, and he will bring down prices.

Greater farm production at less cost through efficiency methods is the keynote of our economic situation. Give the farmer his just profits willingly—"a good living and 10%"—and he will bring prices down a-tumbling.

It is to such vital issues that The Farm Journal rededicates itself on this, its 43rd anniversary.

*As an example of this new research work, observe our "study as to when the farmer does his buying," showing that 22% more business is done by country trading center stores in June, July and August than in December, January and February.

FRAME INDUSTRIAL CODE IN CLEVELAND

Chamber of Commerce Committee Declares Interests of Public Paramount.

UPHOLDS THE OPEN SHOP

Advocates Negotiations Between Employers and Workers Accredited by Employes, Without Outside Control.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 29.—The formation of a labor relations policy for Cleveland is contemplated in a Declaration of Principles concerning labor relations in this city, issued in a report by the Committee on Labor Relations of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce.

"The first step toward industrial peace must be a realization of the interdependence of all elements related to industry," says the declaration. "The prosperity of any community is dependent upon the success of its enterprises. The success of any enterprise is in turn largely dependent upon the degree of co-operation maintained between its employers, its employes and its investors, and upon the good will of the public.

"Public interest requires increasing production as a prime factor in reducing commodity prices. Profits, wages, hours and working conditions should be regulated by this requirement. Employes should not, therefore, intentionally restrict individual output to create an artificial scarcity of labor as a means of increasing wages or continuity of employment, or of equalizing the productivity and wages of employes having different degrees of skill and ability. Employers should not intentionally restrict production to create an artificial scarcity of the product in order to increase prices, or put into practice production methods that prove hurtful to the health, future productivity or welfare of the employes. Employers should so adjust their production program as to afford the maximum continuity of employment for their employes consistent with efficient business methods. They should recognize that their duty is to produce the largest output at the smallest cost to the public, consistent with due regard to the welfare, economic advancement and productive capacity of the worker.

Wages and Hours of Work.

"While the law of supply and demand in relation to all classes of employment must inevitably influence wage rates, in fixing rates of wages for both men and women the following factors should be taken into consideration: Cost of living, opportunity to advance standard of living, savings, loyalty, productivity, initiative and individual skill, nature and hazard of the work, importance of the work performed, punctuality and steadiness, and continuity of employment.

"Hours of work should be fixed at a point consistent with the physical well-being of the worker, providing him adequate time for leisure, rest, recreation, home life and self-development, and consistent with the public's economic requirements. Overtime work should be discouraged. The Saturday half-holiday should be encouraged.

"Employes should be safeguarded against unjust treatment or arbitrary discharge by their foremen or immediate superiors, and provision should be made permitting employes to appeal to higher officers.

Representative Negotiation.

"Proper industrial relations are promoted by practical means of communication and negotiation between an employer and his employe. Where the channel of communication existing between an employer and the individual employe does not offer employes suitable means of negotiation with their employer, the employer should seek to establish mutually satisfactory means. For this purpose representative negotiation is advocated. Representative negotiation is defined as that form of collective bargaining which provides for negotiation between an employer and duly accredited representatives of his employes, regarding hours, wages, and all other matters properly affecting their relationship. Employes' representatives should be duly accredited and be chosen by the employes from among their own number, unless otherwise agreed by employer and employes, and be empowered by the employes to negotiate for them. Such negotiation should be under control of the parties immediately concerned.

"When employes in any establishment desire to do so, they should have the option of choosing, without restriction on the part of the employer, a competent adviser or advocate to meet with representatives chosen by and from among the employes in negotiations with their employer. Representatives of employes, selected by and from among their own number, should be assured that no discrimination will be made against them by their employer because of anything said or done in their representative capacity.

"In those industries where an establishment cannot practically be the unit of representative negotiation, the principle of representative negotiation between a group of employers and groups of employes is advocated. Under such conditions it is essential that the principles of this document be applied wherever practicable. Nothing herein is intended to abrogate the right of an individual employe to negotiate directly with his employer.

"Freedom of contract of employment must never be impaired. However, employers should not discriminate in the employment or discharge of employes on the ground that they are, or are not, members of a trades or labor union. Employes should not arbitrarily insist that employment in any establishment be conditioned on membership or nonmembership in a trades or labor union. Nothing herein is intended to prevent the making of an agreement between an employer and his employes to maintain a closed union, or a closed non-union, shop or department, where both parties desire such an arrangement.

"Employers should recognize the need of informing their employes on the subject of business principles as affecting their mutual interests, especially the relation of wages and expense to costs and prices, and the necessity for an equitable return on invested capital. Employes should be equally frank in discussing with their employer matters affecting their conditions of employment and the interests of their industry.

Public Interests Paramount.

"The employes' right to strike and the employer's right to lock out his employes are both secondary to the public's right to service. Since the public interest is paramount it follows that public opinion is, and should be, a potent influence for the settlement of labor disputes. Therefore machinery should be set up to develop and crystallize this opinion according to established facts, and until these facts have been established neither party should resort to either strike or lockout.

"The committee believes that a general acceptance by the people of Cleveland of these principles will have a stabilizing effect on industrial conditions in this community. While the committee does not seek to act as a medium for settlement of labor disputes, it is willing to act on request either as arbitrator or as a board of investigation for the information of the public."

MORE BELGIAN MINERS OUT.

But Leaders Agree to Await Results of an Inquiry Into Profits.

BRUSSELS, Feb. 29.—The strike of coal miners, called a few days ago in the Mons fields in protest against the new bread prices and for higher wages, has extended to the central district of La Loucière, fourteen miles west-northwest of Charleroi, where some disorders are reported.

The Socialist Labor Minister has had an interview with the leaders of the miners, with the result that the latter have agreed to await the results of an investigation into the profits of the owners. The strike in this region is largely a protest against general profiteering.

MT. SINAI TO BUILD $3,250,000 ANNEXES

Hospital Adopts Plans for Private Pavilion and Children's Structure.

WILL ERECT AUDITORIUM

George Blumenthal, the President, Announces Progress in Research Work.

Plans for increasing the size of Mt. Sinai Hospital, making use of all the available space on the grounds bounded by Ninety-ninth and 101st Streets, have been completed and the erection of two new buildings to cost $3,250,000 will commence this Spring. George Blumenthal, President of the hospital, made this announcement yesterday in his report at the annual meeting. One of the proposed buildings will be a private pavilion containing 130 rooms, to take the place of the present pavilion, in which there are fifty-seven rooms. The other will be a new children's building, the capcity of which will be 100. The present children's building accommodates only seventy-two.

In view of the increased building costs, the sons of the late Mayor and Barbara Guggenheim, in whose memory the pavilion will be erected, have added $250,000 to their original gift of $359,000, making a total of $609,000, plus the value of the present pavilion, or approximately $1,000,000, said Mr. Blumenthal. Through the will of Henry L. Einstein the hospital received $125,000 for the erection of the children's building. It will be dedicated to the memory of Lewis Einstein and Millie Einstein Falk, the present building reverting to the hospital. Both buildings, said Mr. Blumenthal, will be opened in two years.

An auditorium building also will be built for use by the hospital, the Department of Health, Columbia and New York universities, and various medical associations, Mr. Blumenthal announced, at the same time stating that the Board of Trustees of the hospital has accepted his contribution of $150,000 for such a building.

A new laboratory has been opened in the last year, Mr. Blumenthal said, and a great deal of research work is being accomplished. He said it probably was the best equipped laboratory in the country. In the special clinic for the operative treatment and overnight care of tonsil and adenoid cases in the children's dispensary 1,192 cases were operated on last year, he added.

"It was not until June, 1919, that the hospital found itself in a position to take the first defnite steps for the creation of a department whose sole object is the prevention of disease," he said. "At that time a children's health class was inaugurated, under the direction of Dr. Ira S. Wile, with headquarters in the new children's dispensary building. After a half year of operation, the health class may be declared a distinct success. The attention of the class is directed chiefly to the periodic examination of children between infancy and school age."

The annual expenses, a total of $747,833.37, exceed the highest previous record by about $95,000. Receipts from all sources amounted to $738,264.28, leaving a deficit of $9,569.09, to be made up from the permanent fund.

The report stated that legacies amounting to $139,316.98 had been received during the year, the larger ones being $95,000 from Mrs. Olivia Sage, $15,000 from Benjamin Blumenthal and $10,000 from Kalman Haas. Under the will of Joseph Frank, who died last October, Mount Sinai Hospital was made one of the residuary legatees, with a share of considerably more than $350,000.

A special fund has recently been established for scientific research. This work will be permitted to expend only in so far as money is contributed for this special purpose. The fund now totals $7,000.

Dr. Abraham Jacobi, who up to a few months before his death, on July 11, had been President of the Medical Board of the hospital, was eulogized by Mr. Blumenthal, who said: "He was one of the country's best citizens—one of its greatest leaders in clinical medicine and in civic movements. Mount Sinai mourns in him one of its master builders and as faithful and devoted a physician as any hospital was ever fortunate enough to have on its staff."

Dr. Abraham Flexner of the Rockefeller Foundation made a brief address in which he urged the hospital board to utilize the full resources of the hospital and its laboratories for medical education and for intensive medical research.

Milburn to Aid Barnard Campaign.

John G. Milburn, President of the Bar Association, has accepted appointment to the Men's Committee which is working with the Alumnae of Barnard College to raise the $500,000 necessary to complete the Endowment Fund. Mr. Milburn is Chairman of the Board of Trustees of Barnard. Among the members of the committee are George McAneny, former President of the Board of Aldermen, and James Lees Laidlaw, the banker.

OPENING

TODAY, MARCH 1ST of the New Effects in
CONTINENTAL FULWOOL FABRICS

THE assortment represents a grouping of entirely new and distinctive shades, some of them never before achieved in fabrics.

The models, which show Fulwool to practical advantage, are by Hickson, Inc.

Continental Fulwool made its debut a year ago. During its first season it was used by more than one thousand manufacturers. We regret that over one half of these were able to obtain but a small part of the quantity needed.

Probabilities point to Continental Fulwool remaining oversold despite increased production with new equipment.

Over three hundred inquiries have already been received asking us about the opening date. There have also been many requests to "cover."

We believe, then, that your best interest will be served by taking early action on your requirements.

HARVARD DEGREES ARE GRANTED TO 308

One Hundred and Nineteen Young Veterans Get Special Degrees for War Services.

MEN FROM THREE CLASSES

Names of Those Appearing in the Mid-Year Award of the Governing Boards of the University.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 29.—Three hundred and eight Harvard students have received degrees granted by the governing boards of the university in the regular mid-year award, of which more than a third received a special degree "For Honorable Service in the War," which signifies that the man who holds it left college to enter the national service and, returning after the war, completed three-quarters of the regular requirements for the college degree.

Of the 119 young war veterans who secured degrees for "Honorable Service in the War," fourteen are members of the present senior class; fifty-seven belong to last year's graduating class, while forty-five would have finished in 1918 if the war had not interrupted their course.

Among the students who finished with the highest rank are Otto S. Wagner of Salem, who graduated magna cum laude with final honors in classics; Frederick G. White of Newton Center, magna cum laude in English; Martin S. Swanton of Ralston, Pa., magna cum laude in chemistry, and Lewis E. Ward, magna cum laude in mathematics.

The men who receive degrees include Captain William J. Murray, Edward L. Casey and Ralph Horween of the football team, and Lloyd K. Garrison, President of The Advocate.

The complete list follows:

HARVARD FUND $11,989,335.

Every Continent and Every State in This Country Has Contributed.

With Australia's initial subscription of $5,000, every continent in the world is now represented in support of the Harvard Endowment Fund of $15,250,000, which reached a total of $11,989,335 for the week ending today, according to Edgar H. Wells, Vice Chairman.

New York's total now is $4,020,721. Boston continues to increase its lead, and its figure stands at $4,697,750. Outside districts report an aggregate of $3,270,864.

Wyoming sent in five subscriptions for a total of $1,900 and now every State in the union has contributed. Hawaii is still the leader amoung all districts for the greatest percentage of giving.

A total of 16,500 Harvard men have thus far given to the fund, less than half of the entire alumni body.

A CO-OPERATIVE SHARING-PLAN in which ALL OUR CO-WORKERS will participate monthly is announced

The whole-hearted service which has characterized our business for will be the controlling factor in the operation of this plan.

This is the day of "getting together"—the day of co-operation and mutual aid

We are glad that the bonds of friendship and good will, which have united us with our customers and our co-workers in the past, will be made even stronger in the future.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company has resumed, as of this date, the operation of its property, and now solicits, and will endeavor to handle satisfactorily, business to and from all points on or via its lines.

By virtue of its geographical location, The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, tapping as it does the large industrial centers of the interior, and connecting the principal cities of the Seaboard with those of the Mississippi River and Great Lakes, is logically in position to furnish satisfactory transportation service between the Eastern Section and the Middle and Western States.

Regular freight schedules will be established between New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington in the East, and Pittsburgh, Wheeling, Columbus, Toledo, Detroit, Cleveland, Chicago, Cincinnati, Louisville, St. Louis and other important centers in the West, and special efforts will be made to maintain regularity of service.

It will be the aim of The Baltimore and Ohio Company in the future, as in the past, to satisfy the reasonable requirements and desires of its patrons, both freight and passenger, and it solicits business solely upon that basis.

SIBERT'S TRANSFER STIRS ARMY MEN

They See Disciplinary Purpose in Sending General to Command Camp Gordon.

FOUGHT BAKER-MARCH PLAN

Opposed Proposal to Abandon Chemical Warfare Service, of Which He Was Chief.

WON APPROVAL OF CONGRESS

Officers Recall Cases of Others Who Have Disagreed with Department Heads.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29.—Army circles were stirred today by information that Major Gen. W. L. Sibert had been summarily relieved of his duties as Chief of the Chemical Warfare Service of the United States Army and ordered to Atlanta, Ga., to assume command of Camp Gordon.

In this sudden and unexplained shifting of General Sibert army men see a purpose to discipline him for his successful opposition to the plan of Secretary Baker and General March, Chief of Staff, to abandon the Chemical Warfare Service as a separate section of the army organization.

The army reorganization bills, as drafted finally by the House and Senate Military Affairs Committees, rejected the official War Department recommendation that this important new branch of the army be abandoned and its activities merged with those of the Corps of Engineers. They incorporated, instead, the urgent plea of General Sibert for maintaining the Chemical Warfare Service as a distinct and independent part of the army.

General Sibert was summoned before the committees and frankly stated his disagreement with the Baker-March program. He dwelt upon the tremendous importance of the use of gas and other chemicals in the world war, and prophesied that it would have a decisive effect in future warfare. For the effective and efficient development of the Chemical Warfare Service, both offensive and defensive, it was imperative, he asserted, that it be maintained on a separate basis, similar to the Signal and Engineers' Corps.

General Sibert, who, with Major Gen. Goethals, shares credit for construction of the Panama Canal, was sent to France with General Pershing in June, 1917, to command the 1st Division. Later, as the immense importance of gas in the war became increasingly apparent, he was sent back to organize the Chemical Warfare Service for the United States Army. This he did in such an able manner that the United States Army, shortly before the armistice was signed, was able to produce more gas than all of the other belligerents combined, including Germany. At the same time, the entire United States Army was supplied with the most efficient gas masks and the officers and men trained in their use.

General Sibert, who is an engineer, had headed the service from its inception, organized its extensive personnel, and mastered all the highly technical details of the service. It was his ambition to remain with it until it was reorganized on a permanent peace-time basis, as he had recommended. The peremptory order for his transfer will prevent this. Colonel Fries, a subordinate, has been placed in charge as his successor.

Members of Congress who remember the demotion and removal of Brig. Gen. Samuel Ansell as Judge Advocate General of the army after he had opposed the War Department's court-martial system, believe that ythe Sibert incident may have something of the same boomerang effect.

Camp Gordon, to which General Sibert has been relegated, is now a comparatively unimportant post. The command comprises, it is said, fewer than 1,500 men.

PENROSE AND KING MAKE UP.

Former Manager of Wood's Campaign Visits Senator in Florida.

Special to The New York Times.

STUART, Fla., Feb. 29.—Under the influence of the genial climate here United States Senator Penrose is showing some improvement in his condition. He is able to take a short walk around the grounds of the bungalow at the High Point Gun Club, near Port Sewall, where he is staying.

As the Senator improves the politicians who are sojourning in Florida seek his company. Early in the list of callers was John T. King of Bridgeport, Conn., member of the National Republican Committee, who spent a couple of hours with Senator Penrose. They have renewed the friendship broken four years ago when King insisted on recognition for the Roosevelt independents and began a boom for Roosevelt for another term as President. Mr. King recently retired as manager of the campaign for General Leonard Wood for President.

The Connecticut Committeeman was invited to return next Tuesday or Wednesday and attend a dinner at Senator Penrose's bungalow at which some other party leaders will be present.

SMITH TO OPEN MILK FIGHT.

Governor Will Speak Under Auspices of Community Councils.

The Community Councils announced yesterday that Governor Smith would launch his fight upon the Legislature to force action upon New York's milk problem, through an appeal to the city at a meeting to be held at the Hotel Biltmore next Friday night. This meeting will be held under the auspices of the Community Councils.

Two bills drafted by Governor Smith and introduced by Senator G. F. Thompson, one empowering New York to go into the milk business, and the other providing for the appointment of a State Milk Commission, have been locked in committee. These bills were drafted in accordance with a recommendation of the Governor's Fair Milk Price Committee.

One bill authorizes the Board of Estimate to build or purchase a pasteurization plant in the city or outside its confines, and to maintain it.

Germany Appeals to Allies For Frontier Trade Control

BERLIN, Feb. 29.—The Government has made an urgent appeal to the Allies for permission to control import and export traffic on the western frontier on the ground that the allied suspension of German regulations permits uncontrolled traffic and results in wholesale importation into Germany of luxuries, instead of the needed foodstuffs and clothing and helps to further depreciation of the mark.

It is argued by the Government that it would benefit the Entente as well as Germany to restore German control and thus assist in the recovery of mark exchange.

PRINCESS PICTURES BOLSHEVIST RULE

Grant's Granddaughter Says Germans Brought About Present Regime in Russia.

POLICE GUARD SPEAKER

Tells of School and Factory Openings as Staged for Benefit of Outsiders.

With policemen standing in the rear of the auditorium and around the entrances of the Church of St. John the Evangelist, 224 Waverly Place, Princess Cantacuzene-Speransky, granddaughter of President Grant, spoke there last night on "Bolshevism As I Knew It." Although she spoke in bitter terms of the Lenin-Trotsky régime, the presence of the police had a deterrent effect on the Soviet sympathizers who may have been in the church.

Before the service began the police discovered two men, believed to have been potential disturbers, hiding under seats in the gallery. As neither could give any good reason for preferring the floor to the cushioned seats, they were escorted to the street. Following the address of the Princess a resolution, introduced by the Rev. Dr. John A. Wade, rector of the church, opposing the recognition of the Soviet Republic by the United States, was adopted. Only one man stood up to vote against the resolution.

Princess Cantacuzene charged that the present régime in Russia was brought about through German money, which, she asserted, was provided with a free hand by German spies sent by hundreds across the frontier. She said she spoke not from hearsay, but from actual knowledge gained from her residence in Russia during the rise of Lenin and Trotzky.

"There were German gold and documents in Lenin's house, some of which I personally saw," she said. "When my husband was commandant in Kiev he raided a Bolshevist nest and uncovered more evidence of German aid to this cause. There were gold coins of the French Government prior to 1870 which the Germans had seized and kept until this time."

The First Revolution.

When the first revolution occurred in Russia, rich and poor alike joined in thanking God for the new day which gave such hope of promise for the people, she said. There was no class feeling and every one was filled with a desire to develop a republic along the lines of the United States. The Princess told of some of the difficulties of the early days, pointing out that it should be kept in mind that the masses had been accustomed to a paternal government and it was hard to make a quick readjustment.

"After three years of war our people were ready to keep their obligations with the Allies," she continued. "Like the Americans they hated the Germans and wanted to do their share in putting down the enemy."

At this time, she said, the German spies began coming over the frontiers, supplied with plenty of money, and scattered into different parts of the country. Their first act was to get control of the printing presses of the cities, on which they got out their propaganda.

"A friend of my husband's, who was Minister of War, wanted to get some orders printed for his department," the Princess said. "He soon found that the Germans controlled the presses and he had to wait until radical propaganda orders on hand were run off."

Telling of the rise in power of Lenin and Trotzky, she said these two leaders worked very cautiously at first. A fake demonstration was staged one day to feel out the attitude of the populace, who displayed such indifference that it finally broke up into vague groups and disappeared.

Masses in Confusion.

"It was three months later before the insidious doctrines preached by Lenin and Trotzky began to take effect," she continued. "And it was several months before a party feeling was apparent among the people. The mind of the masses was in a whirlwind with the rapidly changing conditions since the fall of the Czar. Unfortunately, we did not have any counter propaganda to meet the preachments of the Soviet leaders, and so the idea spread rapidly as the weeks went on.

"It was a long time before the committee representing the Soviet Government visited our village. The population was going about its affairs without taking any interest in the Soviet doctrines, when suddenly we found the committee in our midst. They came supplied with plenty of money and vodka. At first they found no response among our people, despite a generous distribution of money and drink. The committee was there eight weeks before they made their first convert.

"Then one night, after an orgy of drinking, urged by these radical leaders, the peasants burned our house and barns and destroyed our cattle and agricultural implements. I leave it to you to decide, had this been a peasant movement, if the people who were to cultivate our 30,000 acres of land, if they eventually received it, would have destroyed the cattle and farm tools. I assert it was a movement from the outside fostered by German money, because, after the committee had accomplished their mission of destruction, they departed, leaving our people in a distressing state."

The Princess said that Americans who had gone into Russia with interpreters had returned with wonderful stories of peaceful conditions which they had seen. They described in newspapers how they had seen schools open and factories operating, she went on, but those who had been in Russia during the rise of the Soviet Government knew that this was all staged for the benefit of outsiders.

"To us who have seen Bolshevism enter Russia, all this has a different meaning," she said. "Remembering how the Bolsheviki do things, we know that schools have been opened just for one day to make an impression on visitors. If you ask what can be done to help Russia at this late day, I can only say that to spread among the people here an understanding of how the Soviet movement was aided by German money and to provide food and clothing for the thousands who are suffering on the frings of Russia will be the best means."

CONTEST CLAIMS OF MOSES FOR WOOD

Lowden Managers Say Many Delegates Counted for General Will Vote for Governor.

CANDIDATES ARE HOPEFUL

Wood, Lowden, Harding, Also Johnson's Manager, Find Themselves in Chicago on Same Day.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Feb. 29.—Three of the four leading candidates for the Republican nomination for the Presidency were in Chicago today. They were Major Gen. Leonard Wood, Governor Frank O. Lowden and Senator Warren G. Harding. Senator Hiram Johnson, who is campaigning in the Dakotas, was represented by Angus McSween, his campaign manager. The managers of all the candidates declared themselves as thoroughly satisfied with the progress of the fight for the nomination and all were equally positive that their particular candidate would be nominated next June.

THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent visited the headquarters of all the Republican candidates during the day, and was told by the directors of the candidates how they sized up the situation as it existed at the present moment.

The Lowden people said that while they were not asking for a single instructed delegate from any State, they were, nevertheless, confident that Governor Lowden would receive at least 292 votes on the first ballot. Senator Johnson now expects to receive between 75 and 100 on that ballot, while managers of Senator Harding asserted that he would go into the convention with the solid delegations from the States of Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky, and with a considerable number of delegates from other States, among them Oklahoma, West Virginia, Iowa and two or three of the New England States.

None of the candidates is as yet claiming New York or Pennsylvania, although it is pretty generally understood that the Harding forces look for a favorable break in those two delegations.

Expects Harding to Get Texas.

Senator Harding is on his way to the Southwest to make a fight for the Texas delegation, and informed Texans that if the McGregor machine retains control in Texas it is certain that the delegation will be for the Ohio candidate.

McGregor, who is the Texas member of the National Committee, came into power in 1912, when the Roosevelt delegation, which represented 175 of the 202 counties of the State, was unseated and a delegation favoring Taft and headed by McGregor was seated. The Taft delegation represented twenty-seven of the Texas counties, and since 1912 a large proportion of the Roosevelt men in Texas have remained unaffiliated with the Republican organization in their State. A friend of Senator Harding, who is a member of Congress, in conversation with the TIMES correspondent quoted Senator Harding as having informed him that he had the solid Texas delegation.

At the headquarters of Governor Lowden the managers of the Lowden campaign in Chicago declared that Senator Moses was in error last night when he said that the Wood total on the first ballot would be at least 300 votes. They asserted that many of the delegates now counted for General Wood as well as other candidates would be found in the Lowden line-up when the voting began.

The solid delegations which the Lowden people say they expect to vote for their candidate on the first ballot will be those from Illinois, Iowa, North Carolina, Florida, Alabama, Louisiana, Arkansas, Kentucky, South Dakota, Montana and Wyoming. They also profess to believe that the Illinois Governor will get an even break in the Oklahoma, Wisconsin and Minnesota delegations. In Missouri they say they will get 32 of the 36 votes and 20 of the 30 from Michigan, which makes a total of 292. The Lowden forces also expect the support of contesting delegations from Mississippi, Tennessee and South Carolina.

The Lowden managers are also preparing to launch a campaign for the Roosevelt vote. This was indicated today when the Chicago headquarters of the Lowden Campaign Committee gave out a letter written in 1916 by Theodore Roosevelt to Governor Lowden, in which Colonel Roosevelt congratulated Mr. Lowden on his election to the Governorship of Illinois.

Claims for Lowden Challenged.

The claims of Gov. Lowden's supporters as to his probable strength on the first ballot were promptly challenged by the managers of the other three candidates.

Mr. McSween said that Johnson and not Lowden would get the solid delegations from Wyoming and Montana, and he added that he had every reason for claiming a majority of the delegates from Iowa and Minnesota. Both of the Iowa Senators, Cummins and Kenyon, Mr. McSween pointed out, are supporting the Californian, while his reports from Minnesota, he said, indicated a strong Johnson drift in that State. Senator Johnson has the indorsement of the Non-Partisan League in North Dakota and this it is believed will be reflected in Minnesota, where it is said the Non-Partisan League has been making considerable headway in the last two years.

Senator Johnson, according to Mr. McSween, will go into the convention with the solid backing of the delegations from California, Oregon, Wyoming, Montana, Idaho, Nevada and North Dakota, a total of sixty-six delegates. On the next ballot he will gain, the Johnson men say, the sixteen votes of Washington and several other Western and Mid-Western States. A majority of the Iowa and Minnesota votes are also claimed for Senator Johnson on the first ballot and if these claims are realized he will have a total of a little more than 100 votes on the first ballot.

It will be decided tomorrow whether or not Senator Johnson will enter the Illinois primaries against Governor Lowden and General Wood. It appears certain now that he will remain on the Ohio primary ballot as a second choice candidate with Senator Harding.

Robert Armstrong, manager of the Harding campaign, denied tonight that Senator Harding and Governor Lowden had entered into an agreement not to oppose each other in the primaries in States where General Wood is very strong. The Lowden managers also denied the report and called attention to the fact that Lowden and Harding had both filed in Indiana. Indiana is the only State in which there is a fight involving all four of the leading candidates.

General Wood resumes his campaign for the Michigan delegation at Ann Arbor tomorrow night. On Tuesday he makes five speeches in Detroit and on Wednesday speaks in Lansing and Battle Harbor. Senator Harding stops off in Kansas City tomorrow night, where he will make a speech, after which he will proceed to Texas. Senator Johnson will be in South Dakota all this week.

Woman's Party Sees Federal Suffrage Near; Candidates for President Lined Up on the Issue

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29.—Spurred on to further efforts by the substantial gain for the cause which was won when Oklahoma ratified the Federal amendment and brought the total States now in line up to thirty-three, the suffrage workers have brought their guns to bear upon the Presidential candidates in both parties, in the hope that they may be influential in helping to obtain the approval of three more States, and thus make nation-wide suffrage a reality before the Presidential election.

The National Woman's Party now has lined up at least five Democratic candidates for the nomination as President, and as many Republicans.

Candidates heard from include, on the Republican side, Major Gen. Leonard Wood, Governor Lowden of Illinois and Senators Harding, Poindexter and Johnson; on the Democratic side, Attorney General Parker, William G. McAdoo, James W. Gerard, William Jennings Bryan and Senator Owen of Oklahoma. The statement follows:

General Wood: "I heartily indorse immediate ratification of the woman suffrage amendment, and hope it is ratified in time to enable women to vote in the coming Presidential primaries."

Governor Lowden: "I am in favor of granting full suffrage to women. When the amendment to the Federal Constitution was adopted, I recommended its ratification by the Illinois Legislature, and Illinois was the first State to ratify that amendment."

Senator Poindexter: "It is of great importance, in my judgment, that the suffrage amendment be ratified in time to enable women to vote in all the States in the Presidential election of 1920."

Senator Harding: "I very much hope for the ratification of the women's suffrage amendment in ample time for the women of the Republic to have full participation in the election of the next President and the next Congress as well."

Senator Johnson: "Justice as well as political expediency would dictate the immediate ratification of the suffrage amendment by thirty-six States and the placing of the ballot in the hands of the women of our country."

Attorney General Palmer: "Women should be permitted to have a voice in the Presidential election and assume their part of the responsibility of determining America's future."

Former Ambassador James W. Gerard: "No more important question is before the public than the speedy ratification of the Federal suffrage amendment."

William Jennings Bryan: "The suffrage amendment should be ratified first, in order that the Democratic Party may be able to make a successful appeal to women voters, and, second, because we need the conscience of the women to aid the moral causes to which Democracy is pledged."

The Woman's Party announces that Senator Owen supported ratification when the amendment was before the Oklahoma Legislature, and that he believes woman suffrage will "promote good government."

ATTACK ELIGIBILITY OF MISS MARBURY

Women Assert Non-Residence Bars Her as Candidate for Delegate at Large.

TO SUPPORT MRS. BARIGHT

State Convention's Choice Said to Have Declared She Lived in France.

Women opposed to the election of Miss Elisabeth Marbury as a delegate at large to the Democratic National Convention intend to question her eligibility on the ground that she is not a resident of the United States, it was learned yesterday. Opposition to Miss Marbury has continued since her selection by the unofficial Democratic State Convention, and arrangements are being made to run Mrs. Clarice M. Baright, a lawyer, of No. 171 Broadway, against her in the Democratic primaries. Petitions for Mrs. Baright will be placed in circulation this week.

The attack upon Miss Marbury's eligibility will hang upon a technicality connected with her refusal to pay customs duties on her return from France two years ago. At that time Miss Marbury claimed to be a resident of France, in the sense that she was an American citizen residing abroad. Her contention was sustained by the Court, which ordered the customs duties assessed against personal property she brought in to be rescinded. The decision said:

"It is a well settled question that residence is determined largely by intention. Residence is entirely different from domicile. The first involves intent to leave when the purpose for abode ceases. If a person seeks a place for pleasure, business or health with intent to remain, it becomes his domicile; if with intent to leave as soon as the purpose is accomplished, it becomes his residence."

The Court stated that Miss Marbury in 1903 bought jointly with Miss Elsie De Wolfe a house in Versailles, France, and had resided there a part of each year until her return to New York in 1916 to engage in war work. In her application for a passport Miss Marbury said: "I am domiciled in the United States, my temporary residence being in Versailles, France."

Miss Margaret Vale, organizer of the Women Democrats of America, said yesterday that an effort would be made to organize women throughout the State to support Mrs. Baright. Miss Vale declared that there was considerable resentment among the Democratic women over the action of the Democratic State Convention in setting aside Mrs. Elizabeth V. Colbert of Albany first choice of the Democratic Women's Conference, and in selecting Miss Marbury and Miss Harriet May Mills of Syracuse Miss Vale said that a number of up-State women had already promised to support Mrs. Baright in the primaries.

JOHNSON REBUFFS TOWNLEY

Rejects Nonpartisan League's Proposals to Entertain Him in Fargo.

FARGO, N. D., Feb. 29.—The first presidential preference primary, that of March 16, in North Dakota, will fail to give evidence of the sentiment of the voters, as only one Republican Presidential candidate, Senator Hiram Johnson of California is assured of being on the ballot of that party, while no Presidential candidates will be listed on the Democratic ballot.

There is still a possibility that Major Gen. Leonard Wood's campaign managers will place his name on the ballot. They have until tomorrow to file his name, but it is believed that the General will abide by the request of the Republican State Convention, that no Presidential candidates enter the primary.

While there may be no contest over the Presidential candidates in either party, a bitter fight is being waged for control of the delegations to the two conventions, these fights being between party factions within the State.

Senator Johnson's tour of the State ended last night. Indorsed by Townley's Non-Partisan League, Senator Johnson has avoided discussing the League in any form, and has on several occasions ignored advances made by the League agents, who undertook to act on reception committees to direct the arrangements for his tour of the State.

HEAD PORTER GETS HOTEL.

McAlpin Employe Leases Colonial in Harlem for Fifteen Years.

Harry J. Choucherie, in charge of the transportation and porters' department of the McAlpin Hotel, has taken over the management of the Colonial Hotel, at 125th Street and Eighth Avenue. Under a lease signed on Saturday Choucherie will control the hotel for a term of fifteen years. The United Cigar Stores Company, which recently bought the entire hotel block, from 124th to 125th Street on Eighth Avenue, gave the lease at a gross rental of $250,000.

The United company already has under way extensive improvements in the stores on the first floor, while the hotel restaurant is being entirely remodeled. It will be reopened March 5. Choucherie has made contracts for extensive improvements to the hotel rooms and lobby, which will be made without closing the house, one floor being renovated and refurnished at a time.

The Colonial has 200 rooms. John Tonges, lessee and manager for the last fifteen years, retired from active management a short time ago.

PALMER DISCLAIMS SEEKING PRESIDENCY

Tells Swarthmore Alumni That Being Attorney General Satisfies His Desires.

PRAISES GOVERNOR SPROUL

Admits He Would Approach an Offered Nomination "with the Proper Spirit."

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 29.—"If Governor Sproul were here tonight, I would feel obliged to tell him that he has a much better chance for the nomination for the Presidency than most people believe. The people are too weary of war to elect a soldier to that position, and the Republicans would not dare to nominate a Senator, as no Senator was ever elected to this office, and they will not try it this year, when they have important opposition."

These words from the lips of Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer, spoken at the thirty-second annual banquet of the Swarthmore Club at the Bellevue Stratford Hotel, caused a stir among the diners. Both Governor Sproul and the Attorney General are members of the Swarthmore Alumni.

"I believe that a Swarthmore man will be nominated for President," said the Attorney General. "Excluding Senators and soldiers, it is safe to predict that the nomination will go to the Executive Chambers of a strong Republican State, and the fittest and best man of this nature is Governor Sproul."

Governor Sproul was unable to attend. The Attorney General made his address in answer to a demand voiced by James F. Bogardus, President of the club, that Mr. Palmer accept a nomination for the Presidential chair should it be offered.

In answer to this the Attorney General said that he disclaimed any personal desire for the nomination, but, should it be offered, he would approach it with the proper spirit.

"I say honestly and sincerely that this is the first time that I have talked publicly concerning any mention of me for the Presidency, because this position has never been within the scope of my ambitions," said Mr. Palmer. "I had the desire to be the Attorney General of this country since I was a boy, and now that that desire has been realized I would be satisfied to go back to the practice of my profession, feeling that I had served my country in trying times."

Mr. Palmer reviewed the work of his department in ridding the country of radicals and anarchists. He said the hardest thing to bear in public life was carping criticism based on false foundations, made by those who would not see the real facts in the case.

Having been near the President during the last year, Mr. Palmer said, he could only approach the possibilities of going to the White House with grave misgivings, adding that the man who leaves the White House leaves it with depleted strength, health and capacity to serve, and that whoever is in that seat should have the undivided support and prayers of the entire nation.

WON'T CALL LEGISLATURE.

Vermont's Governor Favors Referendum on Suffrage Amendment.

RUTLAND, Vt., Feb. 29.—Governor Clement announced tonight that he would not call a special session of the Legislature to consider ratifying the Federal Woman Suffrage Amendment, as recently requested in a resolution adopted by the Republican State Committee. He made known this decision through a letter to Colonel J. E. Piddock, Chairman of the committee, which he made public here.

The resolution adopted by the committee, Governor Clement said in his letter, appeared "to be good political propaganda, and, if so, will adequately serve the present purpose." He added that the proposed Federal amendment would radically affect the State Constitution, and for that reason he preferred to have the voters register their opinion by a referendum before calling upon the Legislature to act in the matter.

IRISH DEMAND RECOGNITION.

Meeting in Providence Also Wants Article X. of League Killed.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 29.—Resolutions calling upon the Senate to strike out Article X. of the League of Nations covenant and demanding recognition of the "Irish Republic" were adopted here tonight at mass meetings of Irish sympathizers attended by more than 5,000 people.

The principal meeting was held in a large theatre and hundreds were turned away. An overflow meeting, arranged at a hall nearby, was jammed. The meetings were arranged to further the sale of "Irish Republic Bonds."

Speakers included Justice Daniel F. Cohalan of the New York Supreme Court, Former Congressman Eugene F. Kinkead of New Jersey, United States Commissioner Cornelius C. Moore of Newport, and Professor Arthur U. Pope of the University of California.

PERSHING IS THRUST INTO CAMPAIGN HERE

Republican Backers Engage Quarters and Enlist Staff of Workers.

HOOVER SUPPORTERS BUSY

Will Open Contest for Republican Delegates in Seventeenth District.

Although General John J. Pershing said several weeks ago that he was not a candidate for the Republican nomination for President his announcement did not stop the political movement in his behalf, which, it was said yesterday had progressed so favorably that it had been decided to open campaign headquarters here this week. Arrangements already have been made for quarters in the Hotel Commodore and for a staff of workers. In view of the fact that the Pershing supporters have arranged for him to qualify in the Michigan Presidential preference primary on April 5, the move here will have greater significance and interest for the other Republican candidates and party leaders.

George A. Wood of Nebraska, who, with his two brothers, started the original Pershing boom, had a conference with the General on Saturday, and again before he returned to the West yesterday. It became known shortly afterward that a fight would be made for delegates to the Republican Convention at Chicago. Mr. Wood was rather secretive concerning his immediate plans and the source of the strength for his candidate, but it was intimated that General Pershing, while he would not seek the nomination in an active personal campaign, would not refuse to accept efforts in his behalf if a good show of support should be developed.

Much quiet political work has been done by Mr. Wood in this State and throughout most of the New England States, and he believes delegates may be got here and in the "Down East" districts. He has had conferences with leaders and individual Pershing supporters in the several States and thinks that the sentiment is sufficient to warrant a general movement for his candidacy. In fact, it is asserted that workers and supporters of General Pershing already are active in a half dozen States.

The Western managers for General Wood are making their main fight this week for Ohio delegates, said Frederick Moore of the Wood forces here. The invasion of Senator Harding's own State is based on the refusal of the Harding manager to agree to support Wood as a second choice. The latter's leaders there assert that they will get 25 per cent. of the delegation, and have a prospect of getting one-third of the delegates.

The first organized effort here to get a pledged delegation to support Herbert Hoover for the Republican nomination was announced in the Seventeenth Congressional District. It was said Republicans who had agreed to serve as delegates were Julian S. Myrick, a merchant, and Miss Mabel Choate, daughter of the late Joseph H. Choate. Those mentioned as alternates are James S. Cushman, a realty operator, and Miss Edith P. Morgan, niece of Herbert Parsons, Republican National Committeeman. A committee to fill vacancies, with Watson Washburn as temporary chairman, includes Herbert L. Bodman, Miss Mary J. Schieffelin and Edmond E. Wise.

This move was announced as a "spontaneous effort," to which Mr. Hoover had not been a party in any sense. It was announced that the committee and other workers, ignoring the announced policy of electing uninstructed delegates to the National Convention at Chicago, were canvassing Republicans in the district to support instructed delegates for Hoover at the primary on April 6. Chairman Washburn said:

"Not only does this movement assume considerable interest because it is the first of its kind, but also by reason of the fact that this was Mr. Hoover's home district when he lived in New York. Many of his friends are making this effort in the belief that he is pre-eminently the man best fitted to be the next president of the United States."

Volunteer workers were busy on Saturday and yesterday, it was said, getting signatures to Hoover petitions for the nomination of an instructed delegation. The names of 700 enrolled Republicans must be obtained before March 9, which is the date for filing petitions. Headquarters have been opened at 52 East Seventy-ninth Street.

The Seventeenth District extends on the East Side from Fourteenth to 110th Streets, between Third Avenue and Central Park, comprising a large part of the upper Fifth Avenue residential and Republican voting sections as well as some Democratic strongholds. Its upper reaches on the West Side are roughly from Fifty-ninth to Eighty-sixth Streets, between Central Park and the North River. Below that point it is bounded approximately by Fourteenth Street and Seventh and Eighth Avenues.

Judge John R. Davies, executive head of the Nicholas Murray Butler Campaign Committee, announced that Dr. Butler's candidacy had been endorsed by Governor Edward T. Coman of Washington State. A Butler sentiment is growing in the West, Governor Coman reported.

According to Judge Davies the support of leaders and others in eight New Jersey counties has been pledged to Dr. Butler as the result of the reception to him on Friday by influential Republicans in Essex County. His strength and support in Connecticut has been emphasized, it was said, but the statement of Governor Marcus M. Holcomb at the Republican dinner at New Britain.

Ex-State Senator William M. Bennett, one of the managers for Senator Hiram W. Johnson, said he had obtained 6,000 signatures to his petition for the primary fight against the "Big Four" delegates at large, and intended to get 10,000 names to his list. Mr. Bennett is trying to displace William Boyce Thompson, one of the delegates chosen at the Republican unofficial State convention.

PERSHING UNVEILS TABLET.

General and Lieut. Colonel Roosevelt Speak at Grace Methodist Church.

General John J. Pershing unveiled a tablet bearing the names of the 140 members of the congregation who served in the World War at Grace Methodist Episcopal Church, West 104th Street, last evening. More than 4,000 persons, only half of whom were able to get inside the church, gathered for the ceremony. After he had unveiled the tablet, General Pershing said:

"It is a privilege to participate in ceremonies honoring those who served their country so well. As long as Americans are ready and willing to fight for right and justice, so long will liberty be guaranteed. We honor ourselves when we honor these men.

"I have a sympathy for the gold-starred mothers. It is the mother who makes the sacrifice. We have the glorious battles, but she must wait. But she and we have the consolation of knowing that their sacrifice furnishes a splendid example for us to follow."

General Pershing stood at salute while the names of the six dead on the roll were read. He then signed his name in the church Bible, and left to attend the meeting at the Hippodrome. He was enthusiastically cheered by the crowd outside.

Lieut. Col. Theodore Roosevelt, who spoke later, followed the example of his father in advocating early marriages. Lieut. Col. Roosevelt declared that one of the dangers to the nation came from the people thinking only for the present and not considering how action taken now might affect their children.

The Police Band furnished music. Solos were sung by Arthur Hackett and Raymond Hunter. The Rev. Frederick Brown Harris, minister of the church, presided.

German Assembly Debates Bill for War Trials Today

BERLIN, Feb. 29.—The National Assembly tomorrow will open debate on the new bill relating to the trial of "war criminals."

The measure would empower the Supreme State Attorney to propose to the punishment tribunal the discontinuance of any prosecution if the Attorney should be convinced that there is no ground for the public accusation of the person involved. It also would provide for the resumption of proceedings against any person, even after a trial resulting in acquittal, and for the rehearing of cases of persons convicted when the sentences were clearly disproportionate to the seriousness of the offenses.

FIRE STARTS SCARE AT THE HIPPODROME

Odor of Burning Paper Alarms Audience of Which Gen. Pershing Is a Member.

CROWD AT LEGION CONCERT

John McCormack and Mary Garden Sing at $50,000 Benefit for Ex-Soldiers.

A fire scare at the Hippodrome last night during the John McCormack-Mary Garden concert for the American Legion, at which General John J. Pershing was present, drove several hundred persons from their seats. There was no danger, nor did any disorder result. General Peshing did not learn of the incident until after he had left the theatre.

The scare started just after Colonel Robert Alexander, who commanded the Seventy-seventh Division, had presented Mr. McCormack with a legion medal in recognition of his services during the war. A cigarette, tossed into a pile of papers in the hallway, had started the blaze, which was quickly put out by policemen and firemen stationed in the theatre. The smoke, however, was sucked into the auditorium by a draught and its odor was faintly perceptible on the Forty-fourth Street side.

Several persons left their seats just as Mr. McCormack started to sing. He hesitated for a moment and then went on with his program. He was singing "She is Far from the Land" when there were whispers of "Fire" and the nervousness in the audience increased. About 400 persons got to the back of the theatre before they learned that there was no danger, but many of them continued on into the street. There were four songs in Mr. McCormack's group, and when he had finished many others who had hesitated to disturb the concert and who had remained in spite of their fears also left.

The concert drew a great audience. The Hippodrome was packed from the lobby to the drop at the back of the great stage. The total receipts were said to be about $50,000, of which the legion will receive an unusually high percentage of net profit, thanks to Mr. McCormack, Miss Garden and Charles B. Dillingham of the Hippodrome.

General Pershing Arrives.

General Pershing entered about 9 o'clock amid an outburst of applause. He sat in the right stage box, with Colonel Alexander, Colonel Kuckemeyer, his aid; Admiral Glenn, Francis L. Robbins and T. Douglas Robinson. During the intermission he went back of the stage to see Mr. McCormack, and, following a number by the Chicago Opera Orchestra with Marcel Charlier as conductor, the General was introduced to the audience by Mr. Robinson of the legion.

The American Legion's principles and its influence for Americanism was the theme of General Pershing's remarks. After referring briefly to New York City's part in the war, as played particularly by the men of the 27th, the 77th and the 42d Divisions, General Pershing declared that our troops did more than bring back the victory—they brought back the highest ideals.

"A deep religious note prompted them to service," he said. "It gave them a moral tone, and it caused them to lead moral lives. They made a record of morality which was never made by any other army at any other time

"The American Legion has a creed which stands for all the principles for which the country as a whole stands. It stands for law and order. Moreover, it obligates itself to teach the principles which are set forth in the Constitution. The Legion is composed of sons of laborers and farmers and of sons of bankers. They have been able to learn a great deal about each other. They understand each other better than they ever did before. So the Legion is better able than any body we have ever had to solve the perplexing problems of the day."

During the performance General Pershing talked with Mrs. E. M. House, who, with Colonel House, sat in the adjoining box. He also received in his box Miss Josephine Morfit of El Paso, who said she had known him "down home." He left the Hippodrome shortly before 11 o'clock, after Miss Garden and Mr. McCormack had finished.

There was a popular trend in the concert program. Miss Garden sang "Coming Through the Rye" and "Annie Laurie," in addition to several classical numbers. "Dear Old Pal of Mine" and "When Pershing's Men Went Marching Into Picardy" were among Mr. McCormack's selections. Even Marcel Chalier, who conducted the Chicago Orchestra, led his musicians into strains far removed from the Lexington Avenue Theatre program.

Tribute to McCormack.

The tribute to Mr. McCormack, which gave him the badge of the American Legion, came after the intermission. Colonel Alexander, who bestowed the emblem, referred to him as one who during the war gave "his voice, his time, his money, his heart and his soul in full to help bring about the victory." There were cries of "speech," but Mr. McCormack, beyond a word of thanks and appreciation, only said: "I think I hear some one whisper: 'For God's sake sing, John.'"

Miss Garden received from the legion an engraved testimonial. Mark A. Luescher, manager of the Hippodrome, received a similar testimonial in recognition of his services during the war, as did Coles Phillips, the artist.

The boxes were shared by society leaders and wounded soldiers, who came from hospitals in and near the city as guests of the legion. Among the boxholders were Colonel E. M. House, E. H. Gary, Mrs. D. Guggenheim, Mrs. T. R. Gerry, Mrs. L. M. Josephthal, Mrs. Otto Kahn, Mrs. W. DeLancey Kountze, Mrs. Lewis Wadsworth, Mrs. John T. Pratt, Mrs. T. Douglas Robinson, Mrs. H. M. Slater, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, Mrs. Forsyth Wickes, Mrs. Henry P. Davison, Mrs. Michael Gavin, Mrs. Charles H. Senff, Mrs. William A. Burden, Mrs. Ambrose Monell, Mrs. John McCormack, Miss Ruth Twombly, Clarence H. Mackay, Harry Harkness Flagler, A. W. Aub and Charles B. Dillingham.

Thirty débutantes sold programs. They were in charge of Miss Katharine D. Porter, President of the Junior League, and included Misses Phyllis Batcheller, Lucy Bulkley, Marian Carroll, Dorothy Clapp, Christine Crane, Janet Croll, Alice Davison, Eleanor Francke, Olive Gawtry, Elise Hughes, Elizabeth Jackson, Eunice James, Eleanor Landon, Helen Lee, Mary Lockwood, Elsie Parsons, Frances Nott, Adelaide Rhinelander, Louise Schieffelin, Virginia Sterry, Mary D. Strange, Elizabeth Simonson, Helen Schniewind and Katherine Van Ingen.

NEW COAL FIGHT ON ANTHRACITE WAGES

Miners Will Place Demand for 60 Per Cent. Increase Before Operators on March 9.

WANT A FIVE-DAY WEEK

Ask That New Agreement Be Framed for Two Years Instead of Four.

HIGHER COAL PREDICTED

Secretary of New York Wholesalers' Organization Says Consumer Will Pay Increase.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 29.—Demands for a 60 per cent. increase in wages for contract miners, $2 a day raise for day men and a six-hour day and five-day week for men paid by the day or month, will be presented to the anthracite coal operators in New York on March 9 by the union representatives of the hard coal diggers. These demands were formulated at a convention of the anthracite miners in Wilkes-Barre last August and ratified by the national convention of the United Mine Workers of America in Cleveland in September.

The conference of operators and mine workers will endeavor to negotiate a new agreement to take the place of the contract now in force. The present general wage agreement covering the anthracite industry was entered into in May, 1916, for four years, ending March 31 this year and will continue until that time. Because of war conditions wages have been since readjusted by supplemental agreements between the miners and operators.

About 170,000 mine workers will be affected by the new contract to be negotiated. The miners' Scale Committee which will meet the operators will be composed of the officers and Executive Board members of the three districts comprising the anthracite fields, the three International Board members in the hard coal regions and three mine workers from each district. It is expected that after the demands are formally presented and views are exchanged between the two sides a small sub-committee of the operators and miners will be named to carry on the actual negotiations.

Any agreement reached will have to go back to a convention of the mine workers for ratification.

Whether the mine workers will remain at work, if an agreement is not reached by March 31, will depend largely, it is said, on how strenuously the operators oppose the demands. The opinion has been expressed that the anthracite negotiations probably would not be taken up seriously until the bituminous wage scale had been agreed on.

The mine workers demand that the next contract be for a period of not exceeding two years, and that the making of individual agreements and contracts shall be prosecuted.

Just increases secured in the supplemental agreements of 1917 and 1918 are to be included in the wage scale as the basis upon which the 60 per cent. shall be added.

MEDICAL DRIVE OPENS.

New York Post Graduate School Seeks $2,000,000 Fund.

To increase the facilities of the New York Post Graduate Medical School and Hospital, which has become one of the most important institutions of its kind in the world, the Board of Directors have undertaken the raising of a $2,000,000 endowment fund during the coming three months. Dr. Frederic E. Sondern, President of the school, announced yesterday that the Directors had purchased the property on the southwest corner of Twentieth Street and Second Avenue, adjoining the Margaret Fahnestock Training School for Nurses.

"New York is now the medical centre of the world," Dr. Sondern said yesterday. "With the elimination of Vienna, Berlin and London as centres of advanced medical research, the Post Graduate Medical School becomes the world's ranking institution devoted to teaching and research in applied medicine. The purchase of this property is the first step toward the enlargement of the facilities of the school, which no longer is adequate to the demands being made upon it by practicing physicians and surgeons from all over the United States."

This year's registration exceeds any of the thirty-six years of the school's history. The enrollment of 1,692 for the present term is double the attendance of last year.

AS ROOSEVELT SAW KAISER.

Far Asunder on International Morality, Letters Reveal.

Colonel Theodore Roosevelt's impressions of the former Kaiser and the German Court are set forth in the seventh installment of his letters appearing in the March issue of Scribner's Magazine. The letters relate that the Germans showed him every proper respect, but "were decorously enthusiastic, and that was all," in contrast with his reception in other countries. In part, he wrote:

"The Germans did not like me, and did not like my country; and under the circumstances they behaved entirely correctly, showing me every civility and making no pretense of an enthusiasm which was not present. The upper classes, stiff, domineering, formal, with the organized army, the organized bureaucracy, the organized industry of their great, highly civilized and admirably administered country behind them, regarded America with a dislike which was all the greater because they could not make it merely contempt.

"They felt that we were entirely unorganized, that we had no business to be formidable rivals at all in view of our loose democratic government methods, and that it was exasperating to feel that our great territory, great natural resources, and strength of individual initiative enabled us in spite of our manifold shortcomings to be formidable industrial rivals of Germany; and more incredible still, that, thanks to our navy and our ocean-protected position, we were in a military sense wholly independent and slightly defiant, and they felt that I typified the nation they disliked."

In the fundamentals of domestic morality, religion which is moral, the former Kaiser and Colonel Roosevelt agreed heartily, but there were many points in international morality where they were completely asunder, he said. There was a good deal of dogmatic theology which, to the Kaiser, meant much but was meaningless to him, Colonel Roosevelt added.

'MYSTERY HOSPITAL' TO COST $3,400,000

OWNER REFUSED $3,000,000

Illinois Members Active in Putting Through Provision for the Larger Sum.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29.—After one of the most spirited legislative fights in recent years the Speedway Hospital, at Chicago, built by Edward N. Hines, and described by former Assistant Secretary of War Council as the "hospital of mystery," will be taken over by the Government at $400,000 more than was originally offered, if the Deficiency bill containing the item is approved by President Wilson.

The controversy, which has been waging for more than eighteen months, was virtually settled by the action of the House yesterday, when, by a vote of 196 to 24, it instructed its conferees to accept an amendment to the Deficiency bill increasing the previously offered fund for the completion of the Speedway Hospital project from $3,000,000 to $3,400,000. An amendment added by the Senate had increased the amount to $3,500,000. House conferees had refused to accept the amendment and yesterday were instructed to compromise at $3,000,000, with a proviso that the additional sum should not include any profit to the contractors.

Representative Byrnes of South Carolina, who has led the fight to prevent the Government buying the uncompleted hospital, offered a motion repealing the entire authorization and directing the Secretary of the Treasury to build a new hospital on some other site in the vicinity of Chicago. His motion was defeated by 81 to 228.

"This project does not look well and has never had the approval of the War Department or the cordial support of the Public Health Bureau," said Mr. Byrnes, in discussing it to-night. "Last December, after the men favoring the building of this hospital had forced an item into the deficiency bill making it mandatory upon Secretary Glass to take over the hospital for $3,000,000 for the Public Health Service, the contractor refused that amount, saying that material had gone up since he had made his original offer.

Doubts Loss of Million.

"The contractor and those speaking for him on the floor of the House said last December that it would not cost more than $3,000,000, and they would not approve any larger appropriation, but we now find them supporting this increase. They claim that Edward Hines, through sentiment, is willing to lose $1,000,000, and will lose this amount even with the increase. But I never in my life heard any one hiring a lawyer for six months to get the Government to accept a gift of $1,000,000.

"On March 13, 1919, an item appeared in the Deficiency bill, which was rushed through on the last night, appropriating $3,000,000 for the purchase of the Speedway Hospital, but this contained a provision that the hospital must be acceptable to the Public Health Service Bureau and the Secretary. The supervising architect reported that it would cost fully $700,000 more than this amount to put it into shape for the use of the Public Health Service.

"Acting upon this report, Mr. Glass refused to purchase the Speedway Hospital, and the next move by the projectors was to make it mandatory upon him to do so in a bill which passed in December, 1919. When Secretary Glass was finally ready to act in accordance with the mandatory law, Mr. Hines refused to accept the amount, saying that the cost of materials and labor had increased such an amount that he could not sell it at the original offer.

Increased by the Senate.

"Following this nothing was done until the Senate increased the amount to $3,500,000 in the pending Deficiency bill. This was reduced by the House by $100,000, with the understanding that some changes can be made in the plans to lessen the expenses of completing the hospital to that extent.

"Mr. Hines, when he originally offered to sell the uncompleted hospital, said that it stood him at $1,600,000, and the remainder of the $3,000,000 would be expended without profit in completing the structure.

"The supervising architect reported that the land was worth $300,000 and the hospital at that time was not worth more than $1,000,000. This would give him a profit of $300,000.

"Another thing the contractor asserted as a basis for his claim of $500,000 additional was that the union labor scale would be advanced in Chicago next April and therefore this additional amount was necessary to cover this increase, as well as the increase in the cost of building materials. Congress by this move guaranteed the increase. This seems to me a very bad policy."

POE'S "THE BELLS" SUNG.

Lady Alida Brittain's Air with Harp Given at the Metropolitan.

Lady Alida Brittain's setting of Poe's poem "The Bells" for bass solo, with harp, 'cello and piano, was a novelty in last night's Metropolitan concert, where it was sung near the program's close by Louis d'Angelo, with Willy Tyroler and two members of the orchestra accompanying. Mr. d'Angelo made Poe's words, with their imitative bell sounds, clearly heard in most parts of the theatre; the music, of a light, melodious sort, helped in that respect, and the house applauded the "Wedding Bells" carillon in descending scales of sixths. A sombre ending, the death toll, was apparently puzzling to a Broadway audience, but it was true to Poe.

Rudolph Ganz, as guest star of the evening, played Grieg's concerto and later pieces by Liszt. Miss Sundelius sang an air from "Pagliacci," Miss Romaine the Jewel Song from "Faust," and the orchestra under Hageman gave Goldmark's overture "In Spring Time" and Adolph Fink's "Jewish Rhapsody."

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The first performance of "Not So Long Ago," by Arthur Richman, will take place tonight in Atlantic City. The Shuberts are the producers.

Ruth Shepley will return to the cast of "Adam and Eva" tonight after an absence of several weeks.

A special performance of "The True Power," a drama by Jacob Gordin, will be given in Yiddish at the Irving Place Theatre on March 16, with Gustave Schacht in the leading role.

Mary Garden, who appeared in the operatic "Aphrodite," will attend tonight's performance of the play at the Century.

"The Passion Flower" will tour to the Coast following its run at the Belmont.

"Princess Virtue," a musical show by Louis Allen Browne, with lyrics and music by Gitz Rice and B. C. Hilliam, will be placed in rehearsal next month by Gerald F. Bacon.

Louise Groody of "The Night Boat" has been placed under contract for another year by Charles B. Dillingham.

Frederick Howard will join the cast of "East Is West" tonight, playing the leading male role.

Three one-act plays by Hirshbein, Chekhov and Dunsany will be produced at the Jewish Art Theatre on March 12.

MUSIC NOTES.

Mme. Frances Alda takes her leave of the Metropolitan company for the season on Wednesday in "Cleopatra's Night." Henry Hadley will conduct.

The 700th of Samuel Baldwin's free organ recitals at the City College was among a score of concerts scheduled in New York yesterday.

Maximilian Rose, violinist, gave a recital last evening in Carnegie Hall. He made an Aeolian debut two years ago.

Edwine Behre, formerly of the Washington Square Players, appeared as pianist at the Garrick Theatre last evening.

THE SCREEN

"Partners of the Night," a screen version of a story by LeRoy Scott, and the first production to be put out by Eminent Authors, Inc., of which Samuel Goldwyn and Rex Beach are the sponsors, is at the Strand this week. It was directed by Paul Scardon from a scenario by Charles S. Whittaker.

Here is another crook play, rather heavily though transparently co... with "moral purpose." At its opening it offers itself as a dramatic treatise on criminology, and every once in a while holds up its pleasantly rapid action to "put over" some part of its "lesson," but those who like it, and many undoubtedly will, will like it as a good old melodrama of crooks and counter-crooks, in which, of course, the villains are on top until nearly the end, when honest men triumph, as they should. The scenes which will excite spectators are those in which the battle between the opposing forces is at its height, and everybody's ideas of whether criminals should be cured with love or clubs are forgotten. It is the purpose of the photoplay to demonstrate that the method of love should be followed, but when an honest detective has a very personal love for a lady crook and she, likewise, for him, her reformation is just as probable as his contamination, and the efficacy of kindness to criminals is not established by it, especially if, while she is reforming herself in the moonlight, with her detective's arm around her, her former accomplice in crime, an internationally notorious crook, is escaping scot free and unreformed.

All of which gives an idea of what the story is about. Introduced into it, besides the heroine, her honest detective and the international crook, are a corrupt police official, a gentle commissioner, a foolish youth and several other characters to reinforce the powers of good and evil.

The most agreeable feature of the picture is the acting. Pinna Nesbit, as the heroine, does excellent work. She almost makes Mary Regan human, and E. Corrigan, as the corrupt detective chief, is even more convincing. Vincent Coleman, as the foolish youth, Tenny Wright, as the chief's bagman, and Mario Majeroni, as the international crook, all add zest to the story. William B. Davidson, the hero, looks and acts like an honest detective, according to the tradition of the stage and screen, and William Ingersoll, as the gentle Commissioner of Police, does satisfactorily the little required of him.

A number of the scenes in the photoplay are cinematically good, for which Mr. Scardon, the director, was probably most responsible.

"Chasing a Horizon," a Bruce scenic, is also on the Strand program.

Those gay and festive young persons, Douglas MacLean and Doris May, are at the Rivoli this week in an adaption with frills of May Tully's play, "Mary's Ankle." Principally because of the two stars and Lloyd Ingraham, the director, some of the scenes of this picture are exceedingly merry. The other members of the cast, including Victor Potel and Neal Burns, especially, also contribute to the fun, and, then, of course, there's the amusing story itself, which, if not sufficient for five reels of film, breaks out every now and then into gayety of its own.

It must be admitted that "Mary's Ankle" lags at times. It is not continuously funny. But its bright spots are so full of wit—the wit of acting and directing—that only an impatient person would be unwilling to wait through the dull stretches for the purely delightful parts.

The story, probably familiar to many, is about three penniless young men whose comic efforts to eat are mostly unsuccessful until a lady with an injured ankle is thrust upon them. One of them, the story's hero, is a doctor, and, of course, loves the lady, but there are complications when it is discovered that she has the same name, Mary Jane Smith, as the entirely fictitious bride he is supposed, by his rich uncle, to have married. When there is no more confusion, it's time for the final fade-out.

"The Log of the La Viajera," a pictorially interesting Bruce travel scenic, is also on the program, as is "The Count," a Chaplin revival.

Mary Miles Minter and an exceptionally good cast, consisting of Theodore Roberts, Allan Sears, Little Frankie Lee, Clo King, Fritzie Ridgeway, Herbert Standing and others are at the Rialto in "Judy of Rogues Harbor," a story of the "Pollyanna," "Ann of Green Gables" type, which, it seems, is to become the stock in trade of Miss Minter, especially as long as William D. Taylor, specialist in child and rural subjects, is her director. And a not unpleasant type it is as done by Mr. Taylor, although it indulges a bit too much in sentiment and romance, but surely it is intended primarily for schoolgirls, children and their mothers, and might be expected, therefore, to be consistently pleasant and free from offense. "Judy of Rogues Harbor," however, is by no means pleasant all of the time. Some of its scenes are as ugly in what they show and suggest as the crises of a brutally realistic work might be. In such a story as "Judy of Rogues Harbor" they are decidedly objectionable.

"The Right of Way," with Bert Lytell, is at the Capitol, and "The Sporting Duchess," with Alice Joyce, is at the Broadway.

THE PLAY

By Alexander Woollcott

Poe Plays Presented.

The long-deferred program of playlets contrived from the works and life of Edgar Allan Poe was finally presented last evening at the Little Theatre—apparently on the initiative of one William Barstow, whose name figured prominently four times in the playbill as author and actor. The two pieces, "Bon-bon" and "Lenore"—as written, as staged and as performed—represent the lowest ebb in the playgoing experience of this reviewer of dramatic entertainment.

It is an interesting commentary on the present-day custom of running a theatre with the hospitality of a Raines law hotel that so elegant a playhouse as the Little Theatre should be sponsor, even for a single evening, of such an astonishing enterprise. However, as the auditorium was something less than a third full, it is probable that the audience was mostly made up of friends of the participants, which also accounts for the quietness with which this incredulous assemblage dispersed shortly after 10 o'clock. The whole matter was over and done with in an hour.

ORCHESTRA PLAYS ALONE.

Allen McQuhae, Tenor, Ill as Philharmonic Starts Last Month.

By way of ushering in the closing month of New York's crowded hundred or more of orchestral concerts, the Philharmonic Society yesterday in Carnegie Hall gave a Beethoven-Wagner-Liszt program, such as was specified in the Pulitzer bequest. To this music it had planned to add a memorial or Lenten character by including two sacred airs for tenor, Beethoven's from "The Mount of Olives" and Liszt's of the 23d Psalm, the latter rescored by Stransky, and both sung by Allen McQuhae. Mr. McQuhae, however, was ill and could not appear.

The tenor's place was taken hastily by the orchestra itself with Wagner's "Siegfried Idyl" and Liszt's "Tasso." Among a half dozen other numbers the audience applauded the overture to "Rienzi."

Marie Mikova, Pianist, Plays.

Marie Mikova, fleet fingered and of faun-like slenderness, was a matinee recital giver at the Princess Theatre yesterday, playing with intimacy that such a concert room allows some little classics of Bach, Scarlatti, Beethoven, and the Chopin sonata of the "Funeral March" episode. Miss Mikova wisely added some less conventional pieces for contrast. Her hearers found interest in a neat "Melody," by Dal Young, another called "Gnossrenne," by Erik Satie, two polkas, in A minor and F major, by Smetana, and a half dozen more.

Miss Fabry in Slovak Songs.

Her Czechoslovak countrymen gave Anica Fabry more than the usual greeting of a Sunday matinee audience in Aeolian Hall yesterday, when the young soprano reappeared in recital, assisted by Emil Polak at the piano. Miss Fabry's fresh, unaffected singing charmed others than Czechs, indeed, in her Slovak airs such as "The Cuckoo," by Schneider Ternavsky, or the folk songs arranged by Francisci. There were opera airs from Halevy's "La Juive," and from the Bohemian Smetana's "Dalibor."

PARIS moves the WAIST-LINE

is prophesied

Paris revels in new modes. Fascinating features are borrowed from the Greeks, Chinese, Isolde, the Empress Eugenie—and even from African idols. To know now—months ahead—the colors that will be smartest, the fabrics most favored, and how to achieve the new lines in frock and gown, suit, cape and hats, you simply must read the February

Simplicity acquired by the deftest art—is the new coiffure in Paris. Spinelly originated it and all the fashionable world has followed.

FINANCIAL SITUATION

Railroads Enter Today a Period of Readjustment—Test of Credit.

An epitome of railroad thought in respect to the Railway bill as passed by Congress was presented by Alfred P. Thom, general counsel for the Association of Railway Executives, when he said on Friday last:

"The Government policy of the future will, no doubt, depend upon the success of the experiment now made. The act itself is about to enter upon its 'test period.' If, under the system which it establishes, the credit of the carriers is made sufficient to enable them to perform their public duties the legislation will, by universal concession, be a success. If, on the other hand, such credit is not established the legislation will be a failure."

The carriers enter into a six months' period today in which their income will continue on the basis of the standard return. During this time, set aside as an interval for the carriers to be free of new financial complications, the managements of the several lines and systems will be expected to present their application for freight rate increases to the Interstate Commerce Commission. They will also be engaged in rearranging the channels of traffic on a basis comparable to that existing before the Government began to manage the business. They will find considerable to do in readjusting their relations to labor. They will need to unscramble an amazing freight car situation, which has resulted in such acute shortages in particular localities that activities of many corporations have been seriously curtailed. They must have an eye to conditions surrounding new financing, striving to build up income accounts with profits sufficient to attract the banker and through the banker the investing public. Credit being in the state of construction that it is, it would seem that a not inconsiderable part of the test to which Mr. Thom referred will be entailed in strengthening the attractiveness of railroad securities. And in this regard, no less than in other directions, the Interstate Commerce Commission will have the power for weal or woe. The commission is intrusted with all the forces to make or break the railroads. The commission is to establish the valuations upon which railway income will be figured for two years or longer. The freight rates to be fixed by the commission will determine whether many properties are to make money sufficiently in excess of a bare living to appeal to sources of new capital. Through the decisions of the commission the smaller roads will be put in position either to earn a reasonable return upon the investments in them or to exist through the charity of stronger neighbors. The commission possesses the right to redirect the flow of traffic in case such action would tend toward better service of the public and a reduction of costs of transporting goods. Interested fundamentally in all stages of railroad endeavor, from the point where traffic originates right through to the determination of the proportion of aggregate income from traffic movements which scores of roads shall enjoy, the Commerce Commission is the dominant factor in the railroad situation. In the opinion of railroad men and railroad bankers the crux of the test of the railway statute lies in the attitude of the commission, and the success or nonsuccess of the law will be shaped in greatest part by the willingness or unwillingness of the commission to break away from the habit of mind and the practice which used to be the despair of railroad managers and the owners of railroad securities.

It is becoming increasingly evident that the country's industrial undertakings now under way and projected are overtaxing the available supplies of credit. At a time when rates of money and credit should be fairly easy in the East, they are high and tending higher, and interior funds, normally present in the New York loan market in quantity until along in March, are scarce and growing scarcer. Gold, the basis of credit, is flowing out of American centres in streams, and the effect of the movement is accentuated in bank statements of condition, because credit expansion goes on apace. A theory is voiced in some quarters that the liquidation of commodities under the stress of the calling in of loans has made considerable progress in the last six weeks, but has not shown itself in bank loan accounts because unfavorable weather and car shortages have retarded the delivery of goods and the payment therefor. There may be something in this, yet all signs indicate that transportation factors of retardation are slight in contrast with the desire of manufacturers to increase their lines of credit and the evident success they are having.

The country possesses no livelier topic of discussion than the need for deflating credit, the burdensome cost of living being the principal urge. It is sometimes said that prices may be "talked" up or down, and if conversation has any psychological effect upon the markets there certainly should be results before long. But thus far in the year there has been, outside certain articles of food, little permanency in occasional fluctuations of commodity prices and in many forms of goods quotations have persisted upward. The overpowering influence working against both a curtailment in the use of credit and a shrinkage of prices is the inability of manufacturers to meet the demand for their wares. Extraordinarily high wages of industrial workers promote purchases of goods, stimulate extravagant buying, influence producers to contract for more material than they would under normal conditions, and promote speculation for expected profits later on. One way to get at the root of the matter would be for the Federal Reserve Banks to rigorously check rediscounting by member banks, which would cause the latter, in turn, to curtail accommodation to mercantile borrowers. That would cause a shock, and a sudden checking of the industrial machine is what the banking authorities are striving to avoid. They trust that deflation may occur smoothly and easily, although requiring considerable time.

The time element is disclosing its importance in the monthly statements of foreign trade. From export and shipping quarters the news has come for some weeks past that the outward flow of merchandise is decreasing, as a result of the unfavorable foreign exchanges, yet the January report of the export movement disclosed one of the largest months in respect to values that the country has ever had. Doubtless the goods which aided in making up the $730,707,863 total in January were contracted for and financed last Autumn, when the pound sterling and the franc bought more dollars or fractions of dollars than in the days the merchandise was being shipped. February may show a different front, or it may be that the Spring months will be coming in before the low levels of the exchanges disclose their effect.

RANGER FIELD
GAS PRESSURE

Some disappointment has been felt because of the rapid falling off in the producing wells of the Ranger Field, caused by the exhaustion of gas pressure, which in some cases has followed shortly after the completion of the wells. However, field operators conducting experiments in deep pumping have demonstrated that most wells will yield a good supply of oil under the pump.

It has been proved that wells which have stopped flowing through lack of gas pressure are now yielding oil in quantities which show that it is possible to pump many of the smaller deep producers in Eastland and southeast Eastland county with a fair profit.

TRADE PROSPERITY FORECAST IN SPRING

Federal Reserve Board Finds Outlook for Business Generally Favorable.

SPECULATION IS CHECKED

Buyers Showing Disposition to Use More Care and Judgment in Their Purchases.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29.—That a check has been placed on the era of speculation which may have a beneficial effect is the belief expressed today by the Federal Reserve Board in a review of general business and financial conditions of the nation.

There is evidence, the report states, that financial and banking authorities all over the country are looking seriously to the situation in credit and are beginning to urge the adoption of conservative policies. In the New York district during the last thirty days there has been a reduction in bank loans, more than two-thirds of which has been in loans secured by stocks and bonds.

"The general prospects at the close of February," the Board says, "are favorable to an active, prosperous Spring season in the principal manufacturing, wholesaling and retailing lines. Wages continue very high and labor in strong demand. Agricultural prospects are good, and the curtailment in exports due to foreign exchange conditions, while undoubtedly beginning to make itself felt, is believed by many to be beneficial to the consumer rather than injurious.

"A tendency to resist the advance in prices and some increase in care in purchasing are regarded as favorable symptoms. The credit and money situation continues strained, and there is a scarcity of funds both for long and short term use."

One unfavorable symptom found in some districts is the inclination of labor to produce less, although receiving high wages. Plants in some instances have reported a falling off in production despite an increase in the number of employes. High living costs and the upward movement of prices apparently have not been checked, it is stated.

Using More Caution.

"While Federal Reserve agents in their reports as to business conditions and the outlook for trade forecast the continuance of an active demand for products," says the report, "the situation in some districts is such as to raise questions and to lead to predictions of possible reduction in business activity and in prosperity. There is in many sections of the country indication of some alteration in outlook and a disposition on the part of the customer to use more care and judgment in his purchases. No increase in labor unrest is observable, but in some districts a continuation of under-production or limitation of production is centered.

"In District No. 1 (Boston), which is given as an illustration, the Federal Reserve Agent reports that 'it seems clear, not only that commodities are finding their way to the counters of the retail merchant with increasing facility, but that the shelves of the latter are, in general, being stocked to capacity, and merchants are buying more and more cautiously from month to month, willing to take chances which they would not risk a few months ago on deliveries; and though they may not yet have actually observed any appreciable falling off in the purchasing activities of the public, they are becoming increasingly conscious that the inevitable time of forced retrenchment is approaching nearer and nearer.'

"In District No. 7 (Chicago), 'it is not surprising that the tone of replies to inquiries concerning business conditions in the Middle West should reflect more or less apprehension of a period of business depression.' This is said to be particularly noticeable in the advices received from producing centres.

Credit Conditions.

"Throughout practically all the reports runs a recognition of the existence of an overstrained condition of credit and of some continued tendency toward speculative operations, while high living costs and the upward movement of prices have apparently not been checked, notwithstanding the decrease in prices of some classes of goods and a tendency toward restricted trade in specified lines. Interest rates are high and rising in most places, while banks are exercising a greater degree of discrimination and judgment in complying with the demands of their customers.

"February has witnessed a beginning of active preparations for the coming agricultural season, particularly in the South and Southwest and on the Pacific Coast.

"While the information is not yet sufficiently complete or the season sufficiently far advanced to furnish conclusive facts, the prospects are evidently regarded as entirely favorable. Practically throughout the country the problem of agricultural labor, both as to amount and cost, is regarded as one of unprecedented difficulty. The high wages offered in the cities have attracted many farm workers from the land and as a result decreased production in various sections can scarcely be avoided.

"Farm animals in most parts of the country are reported as wintering in exceptionally good condition.

"The demand for iron and steel continues to be vigorous and many mills are sold far ahead.

Heavy Pig Iron Buying.

"In District No. 4 (Cleveland) it is reported that pig iron buying during the last four or five weeks has been in 'tremendous volume,' and it is estimated by trade authorities that total sales during that period exceeded 1,000,000 tons. Consumers have bought ahead up to Jan. 1, 1921. The advance in pig iron prices has ranged from $3 to $6 a ton. The Lake Superior iron ore market for the season 1920 has opened at an advance of $1 a ton. Predictions are now being made of a season's movement of 60,000,000 tons. The unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation for January were 9,285,441, while for January, 1919, they were 6,684,268.

"In District No. 3 (Philadelphia) demand for iron and steel has been exceptionally heavy and manufacturers were recently operating to capacity. Weather difficulties have lately retarded their production and fuel shortage has been troublesome.

"Petroleum production in the Kansas and Oklahoma fields for January was somewhat over 10,000,000 barrels, or about the same as for December. This was a gain of 96 per cent. over January, 1919. In Wyoming and Colorado current monthly figures are not obtainable, but reports indicate a good January output. A tendency to substitute oil for coal throughout the country is proceeding and increasingly severe drafts are being made upon the accumulated stocks of the product.

"General manufacturing is very active all over the country, but in textiles there has been some decline as compared with December. Prices are highr today than they were a year ago by about 100 per ent. in some cases. There is a conviction that 'prices have at last attained their maximum.' Cotton goods manufacturers are running at capaity, and export demand is fairly strong, while opinion as to prices is divided, some manufacturers believing that the peak has been reached.

Wholesale Trade Prosperous.

"Raw wool supplies of the finer grades are insufficient, and little is being offered in the market. Woolen yarn manufacturers report an excellent demand, and are operating their plants to capacity when they can get the labor.

"Wholesale trade conditions are reported prosperous almost throughout the country. Some jobbers report the largest bookings in the history of their business.

"In shoe manufacturing producers have received heavy orders, but there is a dullness in the leather market, while the reduction of exports is believed likely to forecast a cut in prices to consumers. The demand for good grades of shoes, regardless of price, seems to continue. In the leather field sole leather continues dull and weak, while prices are not much changed. Declining quotations for hides have brought no corresponding movement in leather Shoe price lists for the new season are higher than ever.

"In spite of exceedingly high costs of building material the intense shortage of accommodations is causing a great growth in building operations in many parts of the country.

Labor Fairly Stable.

"Labor conditions are quite generally reported throughout the country as being in fairly stable position. The most unfavorable aspect of the labor outlook is the tendency reported from various districts toward restriction of output. Even in those cases, however, where this tendency is noted, the opinion is occasionally expressed that the effect of the restrictive policy in injuring those who practice it is beginning to be better understood. Scarcity of labor is noted in many districts, particularly in the agricultural regions, and as a result reduction in the acreage of farms and the output in some manufacturing lines is foreseen. An especially acute situation in farm labor is reported from the Southwest.

"In the Eastern manufacturing districts notable increases in the number of men employed and in the advance of factories toward capacity production have occurred. In some specialized industries, however, either strikes or shortage of raw material have led to restriction of output, although such interferences have not been extensive. Many plants which during the war were not able to bring more than a substantial percentage of their machinery into active operation have succeeded in getting much closer to total activity.

"It is noted, however, that even those plants which are running full capacity are in some instances unable to turn out as much as in pre-war days. From Cleveland it is reported that one large employer of labor finds that while the numerical strength of his staff has increased 11 per cent., the augmented force is producing 14 per cent. less than the old force.

"During the month of February there was a continuation of the heavy demand for funds which had been characteristic throughout the country for more than ninety days. Advances in rates of interest, both for call and time money, and for commercial paper, carried the general cost of loan funds up to a figure probably in advance of any that had been recognized in the United States for some years past. Coincident with these advances in the cost of loan funds was a decline in the quotation of the best investment securities, while on the whole a shrinkage or contraction in the volume of trading in all classes of securities throughout the country was observed.

Reduction of Speculation.

"In the opinion of some districts there were also indications of a reduction in the volume of speculation in commodities. The effects of the increase in rediscount rates of the Federal Reserve banks made themselves evident in a more conservative attitude on the part of banks in general with respect to industrial expansion and in the cutting of commitments on speculative account. From District No. 2 (New York, it is reported that during the last thirty days there has been 'a gradual reduction in bank loans, more than two-thirds of which has been in the decline of loans secured by stocks and bonds. Since last October, when bank loans at this district were at their highest point, they have declined 10 per cent.'

"This contraction of bank credit was not, however, general throughout the country, but the reduction in New York was partially offset by an increase in other districts. A decline in bank deposits, both in the financial centres and throughout the country generally, has occurred, a part of it being due to the withdrawal of Government funds. Very great difficulty in placing both commercial paper in satisfactory quantity and conservative investment securities is reported by dealers. Sure evidences of the transference of demand which would naturally be through investment institutions to commercial banks is also noted, and member banks have quite generally increased the scope of their demands upon Federal Reserve banks.

"In the West and Middle West 'money is in strong demand, both in the country and in the city,' while the movement of credit continues to indicate great activity. In District No. 4 (Cleveland) there has been little activity in the acceptance market, dealers are purchasing as few bills as possible and credit accommodations are limited, although there is abundant money for 'legitimate uses.'

"On the Pacific coast bank clearings have fallen slightly, as compared with December, but are still far ahead of January, 1919. Interest and discount rates are firmer and the demand for funds is strong. In the South and Southwest borrowing is active, although a temporary check has been caused by advances in discount rates. This temporary setback is not expected to continue long, Spring requirements necessitating a renewal of sharp demand for accommodation.

"There is evidence that financial and banking authorities all over the country are looking more seriously to the general situation in credit and are beginning to urge the adoption of conservative policies.

"Foreign exchange has suffered a collapse which carried rates down to the lowest level thus far recorded early in the month, after which recovery took place. Predicted reduction of exports has not been borne out by the Government figures for January, which show an advance over December amounting to about $50,000,000. A material cut in the amount of credit available for the support of exportation is taking place."

Packard Co. Earning Rate 50%.

The Packard Motor Car Company shows earnings of $1,741,864 for the quarter ended Nov. 30 last. This is at the yearly rate of $6,967,456, or an increase over the earnings for the last fiscal year, which ended Aug. 31, 1919, of approximately $1,500,000 After dividends on the preferred stock, the earnings for the quarter were at the rate of $5 a share per year on the common stock, which has a par value of $10 a share.

Bond Sales Break Record.

Although bond dealings showed a heavy decrease as compared with January, they were the largest of any February on record, amounting to $300,415,500. The loss, as compared with the previous month, was $61,999,500, but the increase over February of last year was $61,293,500. Last month's total was made up as follows: Corporations, $47,581,500; Liberty paper, $226,396,550; foreign Governments, $26,148,500; State securities, $26,000; New York City issues, $263,000. The heaviest day's trading was $21,748,700, on the 4th, and the lightest $11,397,200, on the 18th. For the Saturday half holiday the maximum total was $8,909,500, on the 7th, and the minimum $7,023,200, on the 21st.

The following table gives the bond dealings for February and from Jan. 1 of this year, as compared with previous years:

452nd Monthly List of Payments to Investors

THE attention of bondholders is called to the following list of payments of principal and interest due in March on first mortgage bonds safeguarded under the Straus Plan. All these bond issues are amortized by annual serial payments of principal. In addition, we require each borrower to make monthly deposits in advance from the earnings of the mortgaged property, thus automatically providing the cash to pay both interest and principal on the days due. Funds, therefore, are now ready to meet the following semi-annual interest coupons and principal maturities.

2,500,000,000 Francs

Belgian Government

5% Internal Premium Loan

INCOME, premium, and principal of the bonds issued under this loan are payable in Belgian francs, and their dollar value is dependent upon the future value of the Belgian franc in the foreign exchange market. At the present rate of Belgian exchange (February 28th, 13.75 francs to the dollar) a 500-franc bond would cost about $36.36; whereas with francs at the mint par of exchange (5.18⅛ francs to the dollar) the bond would be worth at par about $96.50.

Should exchange return to par, annual interest of 25 francs per 500-franc bond would be equivalent to $4.82 or about 13% return on the present dollar investment.

At the Government's option the entire issue is callable after May 15, 1940, at a premium reduced by 5% per annum discounted for the average life of the bonds outstanding. If called on May 15, 1940, the premium would be reduced to about 60 francs per 500-franc bond.

Coupon Bonds in denomination of 500 francs.

Interest from May 15, 1920, payable May 15, and November 15.

Redeemable within 75 years by annual drawings at 150% (750 francs for each 500 franc bond).

Drawings March 1, 1921, and annually thereafter.

May be called after May 15, 1940.

Premium and interest payable without deduction for any Belgian taxes, present or future.

SUBSCRIPTIONS will be received, subject to confirmation and allotment, on behalf of our Brussels Office for the account of the Belgian Government; books close in Belgium March 6, 1920.

Price, 499 Francs per 500-Franc Bond

Subscribers may make payment in full at time of subscription or in two installments, as follows: 100 francs at time of subscription; 399 francs on May 15, 1920. Payments shall be made to us in Belgian francs. We are prepared to purchase francs for the subscriber at current rates of exchange.

SHIPS BUILDING HERE TOTAL 1,256,573 TONS

American Yards Never So Busy on Freight Vessels for Private Enterprises.

TANKERS IN GREAT DEMAND

New Orders Make Up for Shipping Board Cancellations—Builders Show Confidence.

Steel vessels totaling 1,256,573 gross tons are now under construction in United States shipyards, for private enterprises, according to a statement issued yesterday by the Atlantic Coast Shipbuilders' Association. The present construction figures, which exclude tonnage building for the United States Shipping Board, are equal to the entire American output of shipping for 1914, 1915 and 1916, and 300,000 above the production for 1917. If the present rate of progress is maintained the 2,000,000 mark will be passed by June.

The most significant development, according to the statement, is that the volume of new orders continues to replace the gaps made by the completion and cancellation of Shipping Board contracts. With the Shipping Board in possession of about 13,000,000 deadweight tons of vessels, the sale of which at low rates is being urged, the growth of private orders for freighters is regarded as a remarkable development.

The increase of orders in the last month has set a record, shown by the following monthly summary:

	Gross Tons Building.	Inc. Over Prev. Mo.
October	347,343
November	550,714	203,371
December	805,147	254,433
January	977,488	172,341
February	1,256,573	276,085

"The average increase per month since last October, when private construction began to reach sizable proportions, has been 227,000 tons," says the statement. How tanker tonnage, after steadily creeping up on the volume of carriers building has lost ground, is shown by the following comparison of the various types building at the different periods:

	Tankers.	Freighters.	Oth. Types.
October	74,437	235,523	37,383
November	214,940	295,493	40,281
December	369,084	400,556	35,507
January	476,742	470,197	30,549
February	588,565	620,567	47,441

There is no evidence, however, that the demand for tankers is slackening, the increase of orders in hand for this type of vessel having been more than 100 000 tons during the past month. Construction for the Standard oil companies still leads, but out of the total of 588 000 tons more than half a million tons is for the account of other concerns.

"Of freighter tonnage the largest amount under construction for one concern is twenty 6,000-ton vessels for the United States Steel Corporation.

"In the volume of tonnage building by the various shipbuilding companies the situation has developed into a close race between the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation and the Federal Shipbuilding Company, the Bethlehem concern having taken the lead during the last month. Third and fourth places are held by the Sun Company and the Submarine Boat Corporation, respectively.

"Practically all of the Bethlehem and Sun companies, tonnage is composed of tankers. The Federal company is building five tankers and twenty-six freighters. The Submarine Boat Corporation has no tank steamers under way.

"The faith of the American shipbuilder in his ability to find a market for his vessels is shown by this volume of freighter and tanker tonnage, totaling eighty vessels of 371,248 tons, in comparison with forty of 174,158 tons under way for builders' account in January.

"Distribution of the work among shipyards is an encouraging feature of the returns. Another increase in this respect is recorded, fifty yards now being engaged in construction for private account, as compared with forty-three in January, thirty-eight in December, thirty-one in November and twenty-seven in October."

RADIO SERVICE REOPENED.

Communication with Ships and to Europe and Asia Announced.

Released from Government control, the International Radio Telegraph Company of 326 Broadway last night opened operation of the Bush Terminal station for communication with coastwise and transatlantic shipping. The Radio Corporation of America also announced the opening of commercial wireless service with Japan from the Pacific Coast.

Down at the corporation's big plant at New Brunswick, N. J., the first direct commercial wireless communication between the United States and Great Britain was established. The first message got away at midnight, but officials refused to make it public. The Radio Corporation of America stated that communication with three continents would be started within a few weeks, the long range being possible through the use of the "duplex circuit" and other inventions.

PROGRESS of AMERICAN RAILWAYS

In the years immediately following 1830 began that great development of rail traffic which did so much to facilitate the commerce of New York and the transactions of the Merchants' Bank and the Bank of the Manhattan Company with their customers throughout the growing Nation. Albany and Schenectady were connected by rail in 1832. The New York-Albany road was opened in 1851, and the link to Buffalo was completed in 1853. Freed from the limitations of the old stage coach days, and with railways to their hand, these two Banking Institutions found new scope for their progressive spirit of sound banking. And on March 29th next, after more than 115 years of progress individually, but side by side, these two Institutions consolidate into one great Bank—with capital and surplus of about $20,000,000 and total resources of more than $200,000,000; with an office uptown on Union Square, and offices in Long Island City, Jamaica, and eleven other industrial centers of Queens County; and with greatly increased facilities in every department. Marking a new era of progressive service to customers, under the personal direction of the same Officers as before the consolidation.

Pending this formal consolidation with the Bank of the Manhattan Company on March 29th

THE MERCHANTS' NATIONAL BANK

will use again the Corporate Title under which it was organized in 1803—

The New Railroad Act

THE Transportation Act, 1920, which has just been signed by the President, returns the railroads to their owners. It is one of the most important reconstruction measures that has been enacted by Congress, and will have a far-reaching effect upon the entire business community.

We have prepared a booklet, now ready for distribution, which gives the full text of this new law, together with a summary of its provisions.

Copies of the booklet may be had on request.

FILMY CLOUDS ON BUILDING HORIZON

Bricklayers' Strike Nears End as Great Construction Era Looms.

STEEL MEN FORCE ISSUE

Rumors Pitting Steel Company Against Brickmakers Start Flurry.

Clouds still hovering over the eastern Spring building market appear to be in process of reduction to floating vapors.

The most menacing of these adverse conditions, the labor situation, with special reference to the bricklayers and the men employed on structural steel operations, has been modified, according to statements made by officials of both the Building Trades Employers' Association and of the Building Trades Council, representing 115,000 workers in the New York building industry, to a point at least where the horizon is in view with the prospect immediately beyond it of the beginning of one of the greatest building construction eras that this part of the country ever has experienced.

During the week just closed the Building Trades Council called a walkout of all union structural steel workers employed on steed construction operations where non-union men were employed under the auspices of one branch of the membership of the Building Trades Employers' Association which was not a signatory to the recent agreement entered into by the building trades artisans, whereby it was expected that all departments of the New York building industry would bring about a workable state of stabilization of building trades wages for at least one year and possibly two.

This action, it was explained, was taken to bring to a quick adjustment practically the last remaining rift in an otherwise placid building outlook, as far as labor was concerned. But almost immediately reports developed to the effect that the United States Steel Corporation had indicated its support to the steel erectors and that if the union men withdrew from jobs where non-union men were employed, the fight would proceed to a finish, even to the extent of the total withdrawal of structural steel supply in this market.

But at this point another element interposed, says The Dow Service Daily Building Reports today. The Hudson River brick manufacturers have been straining every facility to meet the unprecedented demand for common brick this Summer to the end that the housing shortage may be relieved as speedily as possible. When the rumors of retaliatory measures on the part of the industry supplying structural steel to this market reached leading brick manufacturers, a decided damper was placed upon the enthusiastic effort to meet the potential demand for brick. One leading brick manufacturer said most decidedly that if anything like that occurred it would so narrow the market for Hudson River clay products that it would not pay the manufacturers to continue producing brick in the quantity now proposed.

Investigation, however, quickly established that prospective builders have no cause to fear a general setback to the Spring building program from either source. Officials of the International Bricklayers' Union were due in this city over the week end for the express purpose of clearing up the diffeences existing between the bricklayers' locals and the employers.

The utmost confidence was expressed at the close of the week by those close to the question that the building situation is too acute in the matter of supply and demand to warrant expectations of a general labor disturbance over a single issue of this sort, especially since almost every trade in the conference has already become signatory to the wage agreement and current stabilization plan.

The general view as expressed by leading construction interests in the last few days is decidedly in favor of industrial peace. Anything that threatens the further postponement of the 1920-21 building program is met at once with a vehement voice of protest, at least as long as the present spirit of conciliation on both sides of the problem continues to be manifested.

Building material manufacturers say that any protracted battle between employers and employees will force prices to levels vastly higher than those now ruling in the late Summer and Autumn, when the greatest distress resulting from general rentable space shortage will surely be experienced. Every broad gauge distributor is trying to prevent prices from rising above the present plateau.

In fact, the general building construction situation is in immediate danger of passing beyond the province of the individual builder. Unless the steady and increasing flow of building materials into this market can be encouraged, at least by industrial harmony, the solution of the general housing shortage will rest entirely upon the group plan of home building, such as already is under way at White Plains, Wilkes-Barre, Pa., and Grand Rapids, Mich., where the present residents of those cities are subscribing to vast community home building programs, where hundreds of homes can be erected under corporate management, thereby purchasing supplies in vast quantities.

Building material supply under present production programs is menaced now almost solely by car shortage. One company put in a requisition for 1,000 cars and only four cars were provided to meet the order. In January it ordered approximately 500 cars to move material to this market to relieve a shortage and only 128 cars were sent in.

This condition is having a straining effect upon efforts now being made to keep prices at present range, but the appearance is being noted of railroad freight solicitors who are giving assurance of a change in the freight car supply improving as the weather moderates, so that, on the whole, the Spring building movement seems to give evidence of an early start and a generous development—if industrial peace is maintained.

HUDSON TUBE FARES RAISED

Jersey City and Hoboken Trips to Cost 8 Cents After April 4.

New local passenger tariff schedule posted last night by the Hudson and Manhattan Railroad Company states that, beginning April 4, the fare between New York and Jersey City and Hoboken will be increased from five to eight cents.

The new schedule also provides for an eight-cent fare from the Hudson Terminal to Christopher Street, Ninth, Fourteenth, Twenty-third, Twenty-eighth and Thirty-third Street stations in Manhattan. Heretofore the fare has been seven cents. The fare between stations in New Jersey and station in Manhattan, other than the Hudson Terminal, that has heretofore been seven cents, is t obe increased to eight cents.

The only fice-cent fare left on the new schedule is for rides between stations and stations in Jersey City and Hoboken, and from station to station in Manhattan other than the Hudson Terminal.

FIRE HALTS BROADWAY CARS

Surface Lines Blocked for More Than Hour—Fireman Saves Woman

Traffic on the Broadway surface lines was tied up for more than an hour yesterday morning while firemen were fighting a stubborn blaze in a five-story building at 1141-43 Broadway and 9-11 West Twenty-sixth Street. Several shops were damaged by the fire, and Deputy Fire Chief "Smoky Joe" Martin estimated the loss at $20,000.

Several persons who were asleep in the upper floors in the Twenty-sixth Street end of the building fled by the fire escapes after they had been awakened by firemen. On the fourth floor Fireman John Schneider, chauffeur for Battalion Chief Quinn, found Mrs. Alexander Fowler partly overcome by smoke. He carried her out of the building after awakening several other tenants. Two firemen were injured by falling glass.

ARE NEW ENGLAND INVESTMENTS "TOO CONSERVATIVE?"

Each day you get attractive letters describing oil or mining stocks. Do your banks advise you to buy such speculations? Ask them if it would not be better to buy instead local investments? Not so glowing, but steadily growing.

Wickwire-Spencer Steel Corporation formerly
Clinton-Wright Wire Company
Common Stock

The stockholders of the Clinton-Wright Wire Company at a special meeting held February 3rd, 1920, authorized the name of this company to be changed to Wickwire-Spencer Steel Corporation and also authorized the acquisition by merger of the Wickwire Steel Company.

The above change of name and merger have now been completed.

Holders of Clinton-Wright Wire Company common stock certificates are requested to present the same to the Old Colony Trust Company in Boston or to the Mercantile Trust Company in New York, the transfer agents of this company, to be exchanged for new certificates issued under the new name.

in all its completeness and entirety as one unit the going business and new manufacturing plant—an exceptional plant, in one building 300 x 150 ft., on one floor, under one fifteen section saw-tooth roof—of the Fulton Motor Truck Company at Farmingdale, Long Island; on the main line (double track) of the Long Island Railroad of the Pennsylvania Railroad System—thirty-two miles by railroad or concrete paved highway to the very heart of New York City, and thirty miles by railroad or concrete paved highway to the very heart of Brooklyn, and of Long Island City. Unusually low overhead charges; unusual labor conditions; yearly labor turn-over is very small; unusually low cost of living; unusual organization; a good stock-in-trade; in the midst of a rapidly growing population with a wide diversity of industries. The Fulton Truck has successfully met all competition. A thorough and painstaking examination of this plant as a manufacturing property must convince the most skeptical of the genuine possibilities of success here. The property and business are set forth in great detail in an illustrated and descriptive catalogue—by picture and plan and word—which may be had upon application from the office of the Auctioneers, where all inquiries must be made. The business was originated and the buildings completed and the equipment installed and put in operation between September 1916 and November 1918—and nineteen hundred and seventy-seven Fulton trucks are in actual use and doing good service today. The sale, which is an uncommonly attractive offering, will take place upon the premises herein named regardless of any condition of the weather on Thursday the 11th day of March 1920 beginning promptly at half past twelve o'clock noon.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

Clark, Dodge & Co. are issuing a pamphlet which demonstrates the theoretical application to railroad earnings of the provisions of the Cummins-Esch Railroad Bill. Fifty-seven railroads are listed in tabular form, showing a comparison of net incomes for 1919, property investment at the close of 1918, the return on the same, the net income required to earn the rate of 6 per cent. on property investment, also the necessary freight rate increase. The resultant figures, after applying the freight rate increases which are thought necessary, are given in succeeding columns.

Robert K. Cassatt, of the firm of Cassatt & Co. of Philadelphia, has been elected a Director of the Allied Packers, Inc.

The Guaranty Trust Company will open an office today at 268 Grand Street. Harry Lawton will be in charge of the branch.

Rodney Hitt, Grosvenor Farwell, Charles F. Park, Jr., C. Arthur Ambrose and William B. Scarborough have formed a copartnership under the name of Hitt, Farwell & Park, to do a general investment business. Robert C. Hill is a special.

Lewis B. Hall, Jr., has been admitted to membership in the Stock Exchange firm of James B. Colgate & Co.

SOMETHING MORE ABOUT TRADE-MARKS

Do you know of one commercial trade-mark that is known to every one which did not gain its fame through advertising, backed up by the quality and utility of the product?

Do you realize the influence that famous trade-marks have in the assurance of fair dealing?

Do you appreciate that they establish standards by which the worth of all competing products is compared?

Do you understand that these famous trade-marks are as much of an asset to the general public as to the business they represent?

When you begin to grasp the potential power of right advertising in making a trade-mark dominant,

"Put it up to men who know your market."

IMPERIAL RUSSIAN GOVERNMENT

Five-Year Five and One-Half Per Cent. Bonds

Dated December 1, 1916. Due December 1, 1921.

Owing to the wide distribution of the above bonds, and the consequent difficulty of notifying all the holders in sufficient time for them to arrange to deposit their holdings before February 28, 1920, the date named in the previous notice, the Committee has deemed it advisable to extend the time for deposit to and including March 31, 1920. As stated in the previous notice, it is to the interest of bondholders that bonds should be deposited promptly.

When forwarding bonds to the depositories they should be accompanied by Income Tax Ownership Certificate form 1001A, amount to be left blank.

FINANCIAL NOTICES.

INTERNATIONAL PETROLEUM COMPANY, LIMITED

To the Shareholders of International Petroleum Company, Limited.

NOTICE is hereby given that the Board of Directors of the Company have resolved to issue 1,353,401 shares of £1 each (par value $5.00) of the Common Capital Stock of the Company, at the price of $5.00 (Five Dollars) per share payable in New York funds at par.

The above issue of new stock will be made on the basis of share for share of the Preference and Common Capital Stock issued and fully paid up as at the close of business on the 5th day of March, 1920, and each Shareholder is entitled to subscribe and pay for one new Common Share in respect of each share held by him.

Holders of Bearer Share Warrants who present their Warrants at the Office of the Company at 56, Church Street, Toronto, Canada, or at the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, 16-22 William Street, New York City, U. S. A., on or before the 15th day of March, 1920, are entitled to subscribe and pay for new shares on the terms mentioned above.

All Bearer Share Warrants presented as aforesaid must be accompanied by certified check (that is check duly certified or accepted by a Bank) or Bank draft made out to the order of the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, for a/c of International Petroleum Company, Limited, and payable at par at a Bank in New York City, U. S. A., for the full amount due of $5.00 per share on each new share subscribed for. The Bearer Share Warrants presented as aforesaid will be stamped "Ex Rights 1920" and returned to the parties presenting them together with the share warrants for the new shares subscribed and paid for.

Failure to exercise the rights to subscribe for new shares within the time and in the manner aforesaid will subject these rights to forfeiture.

The Books of the Company will be closed from the 6th day of March, 1920, to the 20th day of March, 1920, inclusive, and no Bearer Share Warrants will be "split" during that period.

No warrants for "rights" will be issued and shareholders who desire to split warrants in order to sell part of their holding to enable them to pay for the new shares must do so on or before the 5th of March, 1920.

Holders of Bearer Share Warrants are recommended to send warrants, together with their remittance, by Registered Mail, insured, as the Company is not responsible for Share Warrants lost in transit, and duplicate Share Warrants cannot be issued.

BY ORDER OF THE BOARD,
J. R. CLARKE, Secretary.

The Weather.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29.—The outstanding feature of Sunday night's weather map was a strong area of high pressure attended by a moderately cold wave, which has overspread the Western Gulf States, Eastern Gulf States and the South Atlantic States. Pressure is low to the eastward of Florida and along the coast and thence northward to New England. General rains have fallen in California, also in the Gulf and the South Atlantic States. Snow in the Middle Atlantic States and New England.

Fair weather is indicated for the next forty-eight hours in all parts of the Washington forecast district.

The temperature will moderate somewhat Tuesday in the Gulf States and lower Ohio Valley and it will be warmer Wednesday in the Atlantic Coast States.

FORECAST TODAY AND TUESDAY.

Southern New England—Fair and colder Monday; Tuesday fair.

Northern New England—Fair and colder Monday; Tuesday partly cloudy and warmer.

Eastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey—Fair and slightly colder Monday; Tuesday fair.

Western New York—Snow flurries Monday and probably Tuesday.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at 11 P. M., taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

	1920.	1919.		1920.	1919.

HON. HAROLD P. COFFIN, Referee in Bankruptcy, 82 Beaver Street.

I DON'T HAVE TO WORRY

when I own my own property.

No moving every two or three years.
No waste of time finding new locations; making new leases;
No paying increased rentals; No breaking up my business or home;
No expense in refitting and refurnishing;
No expense in removal.

All improvements to the property belong to me.

I get the benefit of all increase in values.

My standing in the community is higher;
my credit with my bank is better.

My landlord doesn't worry me; my rent is cheaper.
I pay the profit from the Real Estate to myself.

Above all, PEACE OF MIND AND COMFORT.

There are about 60 private houses on 45th and 46th Streets, West of Broadway, suitable for dwellings now, which at a slight cost, can be modernized and later would become valuable for business purposes.

46th St. west of 8th Ave. is as desirable and good profit can be made when they are in demand for business purposes.

People are buying houses in the 60s, east of 3rd Ave., for dwellings today.

Instruction.

GOOD ENGLISH PAYS.
Good English, spoken or written, is a basic requirement for business success; most men and women need training in English—sentence building, vocabulary enlargement, report and letter writing. Do you? Write or telephone (Cortlandt 1465) for informative booklet, "Your English." Ask also for details of special evening class in business English, now forming. Pace & Pace, 30 Church St., New York.

SHALL I STAY? SHALL I GO?
Before making a change, find out if you are on the right track. To know what your life work should be is a start in the right direction. The trained analyst will know from a study of your face the vocation for you. This study is based on known scientific laws. No psychological tests; no trade tests. Ask us all about it. Booklet "K" on request. Merton Institute, Inc., 96 5th Av. (at 15th St.), N. Y. Tel. Chelsea 4054.

PUBLIC SPEAKING.
Men who can talk effectively to others, singly or in groups, are needed in business. Write or telephone (Cortlandt 1465) for informative booklet No. 10, "Talking to Others." Ask also for details of special Saturday afternoon class in public speaking now forming. Pace & Pace, 30 Church St., New York.

BOOKKEEPER—Get out of the rut; become a certified public or cost accountant; go into business for yourself; demand for expert accountants exceeds the supply; our graduates earn over $5,000 yearly; learn at home in spare time by our easy system; send for booklet and special offer. Universal Business Inst., 100 Pullman Bldg., New York.

LEARN EXPORTING.
Hundreds of men have jumped into the $10,000 class by learning the export business. You can do the same. We teach you by actual practice. No theory. Write, call for booklet, or attend free lesson any evening, 5, 6, 7 P. M., and convince yourself. Export-Import Institute, World Building.

SCULPTOR'S FIANCEE DETAINED ON SHIP

Heroine of War Romance Must Await Release by Ellis Island Board.

CROSSED OCEAN TO WED

English Girl Has Seen American Soldier, Who Rescued Her, Only Three Times.

Miss Jennie Jones, an attractive young Englishwoman, 22 years old, who arrived yesterday in the cabin of the White Star liner Cedric from her native city, Liverpool, to be married to Steven A. Rebeck, a sculptor of Cleveland, Ohio, was detained on the ship by the U. S. Immigration authorities. She will have to go before a Board of Special Inquiry at Ellis Island today to obtain her release.

The bridegroom-elect, who is 27 years old, had been waiting in New York since Wednesday for the liner to arrive. On account of the Customs regulation he was not permitted inside the baggage lines on the pier to see his bride-to-be and she had to remain on the ship.

In speaking of her romance with Mr. Rebeck when he was with the American forces in England, in 1918, Miss Jones said that she had only seen him three times in her life.

"Our first meeting was in a dark alley in Liverpool," she continued, smiling at the recollection, "and Mr. Rebeck, who was then a sergeant in the 97th Aero Squadron of the American Army, came to my aid in answer to my screams for help, and beat down a terrible ruffian who was strangling me. My assailant, who was drunk, had stopped in the street, and before I knew it he had seized my wrists and was dragging me into this pitch dark alley. He tried to kiss me and when I fought to get away he grabbed my throat and would undoubtedly have killed me in a few minutes more if Mr. Rebeck had not come so opportunely to my rescue.

"Mr. Rebeck carried me to the street and escorted me to my door. I saw him the next day and he asked me to marry him, but I couldn't be sure. He was leaving the following day for France, and I saw him then for only a few minutes and again he asked that I promise to marry him, but I put him off.

"During his many months at the front and after his return to Cleveland we corresponded regularly, and, finally, when I had become convinced that Mr. Rebeck was the man I loved, I consented to come to America to wed him. This engagement ring he sent over by a Mr. and Mrs. Marshall, a Cleveland couple who were coming to Liverpool."

Miss Jones, who is a brunette with large brown eyes, was not alarmed at being detained on the Cedric after she had been informed that it was a matter of form because she was traveling alone and a British subject. After her release this morning Miss Jones and Mr. Rebeck will go to the Marriage License Bureau in City Hall, accompanied by an Immigration inspector, and will then be married at the home of the Rev. John F. Moore, Madison Avenue and Thirtieth Street.

Following a honeymoon trip to Boston, Philadelphia, Washington and Old Point Comfort, the newlyweds will make Cleveland their home, where Mr. Rebeck will resume his sculpture work at East Forty-fifth Street and Payne Avenue.

Before enlisting in August, 1917, Mr. Rebeck was a member of the firm of Motto-Rebeck, sculptors, East 118th Street and Euclid Avenue, Cleveland. He assisted Herman N. Matzen on the Tom L. Johnson monument, which is in the garden of that name in East Boulevard, Cleveland. He saw duty with the A. E. F. as an expert mechanician, Seregant, first class. He flew over the German lines several times and was in several accidents, but escaped without injury.

Ship to Have "Buffalo Bill's" Name

One of the last official acts of John Barton Payne as Chairman of the United States Shipping Board, was to write to Herbert Wall, Secretary of the Rocky Mountain Club in New York stating that the request that a new steamship be named after the late Colonel William F. Cody, "Buffalo Bill" would be granted, and that a vessel to be launched in May, would be named "Cody." Mrs. Louisa Cody will be asked to act as sponsor.

AMNESTY WORKERS VEXED.

Complain of Baker's Course Toward Conscientious Objectors.

Charges that Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War, and Colonel J. A. Penn, head of the Division of General Prisoners of the War Department, had misled a delegation from the Central Labor Bodies' Amnesty Conference as to the status of conscientious objectors were made yesterday by the American Civil Liberties Union, 138 West Thirteenth Street, in a letter to Miss Lucy Robbins, one of the delegation. The letter, which was signed by Albert De Silver, Director of the union, stated that willingness to comply with prison rules has had nothing to do with release of conscientious objectors in the past, and charged the War Department with attempting to force objectors to recant as a condition of their release.

Mr. De Silver asserted that conscientious objectors confined at Alcatraz Island, San Francisco, Fort Leavenworth, Kan., and Fort Douglass, Utah, had performed all duties, except purely military duties, required of them and still had not been released. He stated that the War Department had been in error in stating that these men had not been released because of refusal to make their beds, cook their own meals and perform other non-military tasks.
